The Negro Drew a Rock.

Timothy Nash, a colored youth who was lately employed at the Ponce de Leon Hotel, was discharged from there yesterday. He went into the office and was given a check for the amount due him, after which he used some insulting language to the clerk, who told him to get out at once. The negro refused to go and Mr. Davis took hold of him to lead him to the door, when Nash thrust his hand into his pocket and drew a rock on Mr. Davis. At this juncture parties interfered and the negro was promptly arrested by Chief Terry, who was passing on the street at the time. He is now languishing in the city jail.

At Bowling Green on Thursday, while workmen were engaged in digging the foundation for an addition to Mrs. Baker's house, they struck something hard with the shovel, which proved to be the skeleton of a Union soldier. It was buried about ten inches under ground, wrapped in oil cloth. The buttons on the coat were made in Waterbury, Conn. The bones were in a good state of preservation, considering how near they were to the surface. There were no traces of his clothes except a few buttons and the soles of his shoes. Buried with him was found a small looking-glass, a case knife, a flint used in loading cartridges and a lead pencil. The bones were taken up and put in a box.

Dr. William M. Slough, son of the late General Slough, who was military governor of Alexandria during the last two years of the late war, died Tuesday at El Paso, Tex.

SENSIBLE WORDS

Uttered at the Reunion of the Fifty-fourth Virginia.

The survivors of the Fifty-fourth Regiment Virginia Infantry, at their reunion and banquet in Pulaski yesterday, were addressed by Dr. Oscar Wiley, of Salem, their old surgeon. The doctor was a great favorite during the war, and in his speech he reviewed the history of the regiment and told many amusing and pathetic incidents connected with it, which were of great interest to his hearers.

Perhaps these would not interest the general public, but the following remarks from the doctor's speech having special reference to a condition of affairs that now exists, will not be out of place here: "And now in conclusion let me say to you and soldiers such as you, when troubles come—and come they must, threatening to destroy the constitution, to overthrow the Government by agrarianism, communism and all other villainies—that the Government must rely, the Government will rely, upon you and such as you to stay the hand of the destroyer and save the nation from anarchy and ruin.

"We are by no means pessimists and do not wrap our bodies in black mourning gowns for ephemeral riots and troubles, but reason and reflection sicken at the madness of our age. We stand aghast at the tendency of the age to sacrifice principle for expediency. When men in high places, so-called statesmen, hold their manhood so cheap as to act the demagogue so far as to excuse, apologize and even defend, upon the floor of the United States Senate, the lawless mob who possess themselves without the least semblance of law or right with the property of others.

"We have no patience with such nefarious demagogery, and are constrained to add the world is overstocked with knaves and fools. Why will statesmen forget that they are men? Around them and about them yawns a gulf which, if not properly and speedily bridged over, may destroy the nation. Around them and about them the mob is almost daily indulging in excesses which defy the worst the pen can portray—all that the devil would do if run stark mad."

BREVITIES.

The drum corps of the Jeff. Davis Rifles received a telegram Wednesday night from the Pulaski Rifles, engaging their services yesterday in the parade at the reunion of the Fifty-fourth. The corps left on the morning train and feel highly complimented. It is their intention to increase the corps and also to add several files.

The Voice of Roanoke.

From the Baltimore Sun. In another place expressions are given from leading business men of Roanoke, Va., in regard to the proposed extension of the Baltimore and Ohio road from Lexington to Roanoke. There is but one sentiment in Roanoke, and that is an enthusiastic indorsement of the project, with assurances of hearty co-operation in any practical measures in the interest of extension. Of course the first active movement must come from Baltimore, and to the Baltimore and Ohio officials, the board of trade, merchants and manufacturers' association, and to our business men generally the utterances of the business men of Roanoke are commended as worthy of favorable consideration.

In Favor of Building.

From the Winston Sentinel. The Baltimore and the Roanoke papers are urging an extension of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad from Lexington to Roanoke. Public sentiment has been very much aroused, several editorials have been written and many interviews published. The trend of opinion is strongly in favor of building.

Mrs. John Donnan, of Petersburg, died Saturday, after a lingering illness. She was widely known and much beloved.

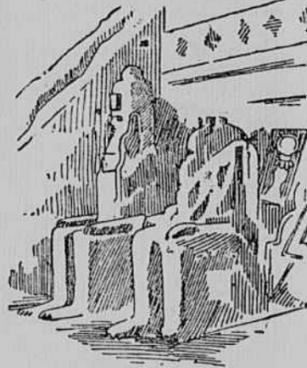

RESTORATION OF RAMESES.

Modern Engineering to the Rescue of the Temple at Abou Simbel.

Eight hundred miles up the Nile the restoration of the large temple of the great Pharaoh is going on. In connection with this restoration the following information is of interest:

Over three thousand years ago Rameses II. selected a mountain in Nubia and hewed out of the living rock two vast temples. The largest of the two he dedicated to the god of gods, Amen, and secondarily to his own glory; and the smaller to the goddess Hathor and to his wife Nefertari. He reigned over sixty years, begot many children, and lived to be nearly one hundred years old. And now he lies in his case at the Gizeh museum, the haughty old face frowning beneath its glass cover.

At the larger temple, where practical work is in hand, four gigantic colossal hand on knees and gaze across the desert sands. Three thousand years have told upon the cliffs above the temple. The statues themselves would have defied time, but the native rock has yielded to sun and sand. In the rock itself there is a treacherous vein of clay, and the sand has at last eaten away the clay, and the fissures have gradually widened. A report was furnished to the irrigation department at

THE TWO GREAT STATUES.

Cairo, setting forth that the great temple was in imminent peril, and that a block of stone weighing 270 tons was likely to fall and smash the only one complete statue of the four.

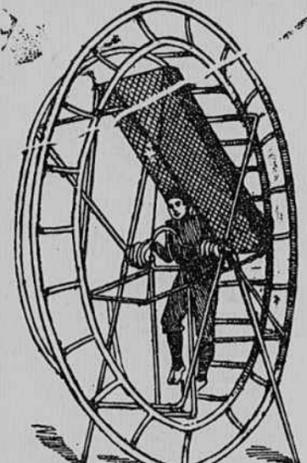

The surveyor and engineers sent up to Abou Simbel found no less than three rocks in a dangerous condition. One, measuring 34 feet by 12, was taken in hand at once and broken up into small pieces; another of twenty-five tons was similarly dealt with; and then the biggest of all, weighing about two hundred and seventy tons, was tackled. No explosives of any kind could be used, as the two northernmost colossi are out of their equilibrium, and the least vibration might topple them over. So five stout iron cables were placed around the big block, and then it was broken up into small pieces and thrown down into the sand. Rameses may now sit in peace and watch the dawn break over the desert for another 3,000 years. The two colossi which are out of balance are to be plighted back to the rock behind by iron bands. The bands will be disguised as much as possible.

A MILE A MINUTE.

Quaint Device for Rapid Travel Invented by a Michigander.

Prof. Charles Bartholomew, of Jackson, Mich., has evolved a novel invention for rapid traveling. The latest project of his versatile brain he has named a unicycle. An idea of the contrivance can, perhaps, be gained from the following illustration of the machine now in process of construction.

It is composed of one large wheel, eight feet in diameter, which is supplied with a rubber tire, on each side is attached a circular rim, seven feet in diameter, from the latter are spokes which are connected with the large wheel; extending across from the outer rims or seven-foot wheels, are cross pieces, to which the axle is attached. The operator sits on a seat under the axle and propels the machine by pedals similar to an ordinary safety bicycle, and guides it by means of handles like those of a bicycle. Thus provided for the rider can always maintain a perpendicular position and, as brakes are also provided, the operator will be able to turn or stop at will. The machine is light in construction and easy of propulsion. Its circumference is twenty-four feet, and it is estimated that a speed of over a mile a minute can be attained upon a level roadway, and with a perfected machine Prof. Bartholomew claims a speed can be made with comparative safety of seventy miles an hour. He has already received an offer of $100 per week to make exhibitions upon the race track of one of the largest exposition grounds of the United States. He intends patenting his invention as soon as he gets everything working to his satisfaction.
