CHANCERY CAUSES.

IN THE CLERK'S OFFICE OF THE HUSTINGS COURT for the city of Roanoke on the 11th day of March, 1894, E. R. Browning, plaintiff, against J. C. Moir et al., defendants, in Chancery. The object of this suit is to subject certificates Nos. 11 and 12 of Roanoke Savings Bank of the par value of $500 each, the property of R. M. Casey, deposited as collateral security for the payment of three notes of $200 each, made by Casey Brothers to Roanoke Grocery and Milling Company, and one note of $100, made by H. M. Casey to said company, and an affidavit having been made and filed that diligence has been used on behalf of the plaintiff to ascertain in what county or corporation the defendants, R. M. Casey and James Casey, partners as Casey Brothers, are without effect, that they do appear here, within fifteen days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit. And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published once a week for four weeks in Roanoke Times and that a copy be posted at the front door of the courthouse in this city on the first day of the next term. A copy—Teste: S. S. BROOKE, Clerk. 231 Scott & Staples, p. q.

IN THE CLERK'S OFFICE OF THE HUSTINGS COURT for the City of Roanoke, on the 1st day of March, 1894, E. R. Browning, plaintiff, against J. C. Moir et al., defendants, in Chancery. The object of this suit is to restrain the defendants, J. C. Moir, J. E. Turnbull and W. W. Thompson, their agents and attorneys, from collecting or attempting to collect by force or attachment, wages due the plaintiff by the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company and from depriving or attempting to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit of the exemption laws of this state and also to restrain the Norfolk and Western Railway Company from paying said wages to said W. W. Thompson under said attachment proceedings. And an affidavit having been made and filed that the defendant, W. W. Thompson, is not a resident of the State of Virginia, it is ordered that he do appear here, within fifteen days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect his interest in this suit. And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published once a week for four weeks in Roanoke Times and that a copy be posted at the front door of the courthouse on this city on the first day of the next term. RECEIVER'S SALE. IN OBEDIENCE TO A DECREE OF THE Hustings Court of the city of Roanoke, rendered in the chancery cause of the Bridgewater Carriage Company against P. S. Miller and others, I will on WEDNESDAY, THE 23RD DAY OF MARCH, 1894, proceed to sell at public auction all of the personal property of the Bridgewater Carriage Company. Said sale will begin at 10 a. m., and will continue throughout the day and from day to day until said sale shall have been completed. The property to be sold consists of a large number of carriages, buggies and other vehicles, entirely finished, carriage builders' supplies, machinery, tools and lumber, and many other articles too numerous to mention in an advertisement. The sale of the public is especially called to this sale, as the stock to be sold is first class and an opportunity not often presented. The sale will take place at the works of the company, in the county of Roanoke, near the corporate limits of the city of Roanoke. Electric cars run direct to the works. Persons contemplating bidding on the day of sale are especially invited to inspect the stock prior to the day of sale. TERMS OF SALE—Cash as to all sums under $50, and as to sums over $50 notes of the purchasers will be accepted, payable four months after date, bearing interest from date of sale with security satisfactory to the receiver. Said notes with security thereon must be executed and delivered before the property is removed from the premises. A full list of all articles can be secured by addressing the receiver. 37 1d C. MARLEY, Receiver.

"PERHAPS you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. New York is one of the healthiest places on the Atlantic coast, and yet there are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by the Chas. Lytle Drug Company.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

HELLO, there; did you say it was dry; oh! no. We never go dry. Bitterman, of market square, says nobody has to go dry. His Bock Beer is the first on the market. Try it once and see if you will be dry afterward. Bitterman says take schooners—finest and largest in the city.

THE TIMES KODAK.

Interesting News Items Gathered Around Salem.

Another mysterious hole, similar to that found on J. R. C. Brown, Jr.'s property, has been discovered during the past week at the base of an old chimney on the farm of Joseph Stoutamire near town. The hole is three and one-half feet by two and one-half feet and nine feet deep and took two nights to dig. A whiskey bottle (with Lawson's trade label on it) and a piece of sperm candle were found nearby, whilst in the clay at the top of the hole was found the print of a knee and the indented marks made by corduroy cloth. Mr. Stoutamire thinks some crank is digging for gold or silver and he has been watching for him lately with a shot gun to compel him to fill up the hole or he'd fill him full of lead.

EARLY ROSE and Peerless seed potatoes at FRANK WHITESCARVER'S. The regular monthly meeting of the Tyree Missionary Society will be held at the Baptist Church next Sunday night when the subject of "State missions" will be discussed. A special musical programme will be rendered.

The central district school board will meet the patrons of South View School at their schoolhouse, on Saturday, the 24th inst., at 10 a. m., to consider the advisability of moving the schoolhouse to a more central location.

George Regan is putting in ten handsome mantels at Mr. W. H. Cook's new brick residence near town. The Cushman Iron Company, of Roanoke, are putting up a lot of artistic cresting and iron fencing for this same house, which will be one of the finest in the county.

A "Holy Terror" to Lawbreakers. Lawyer W. S. Gooch, of Roanoke, has announced himself a candidate for commonwealth's attorney of that city, subject to a Democratic primary. In his card he promises, if elected, to discharge the duties of the office impartially and fearlessly, and to see that the laws are strictly enforced, all of which are not empty promises, for if the people of Roanoke knew Mr. Gooch's official record as judge of Louisa county they would know that he is a "holy terror" to lawbreakers. Among the people in that section of Eastern Virginia it used to be as common as household words that Judge Gooch was the most efficient judge in that part of the State.—Salem Times-Register.

Big Spring Lodge, No. 71. About a score of the members of Salem Lodge, No. 100, I. O. O. F., accompanied District Deputy Grand Master A. H. Magee and Noble Grand J. A. Thomason Wednesday evening to Elliston, where Big Spring Lodge, No. 71, was organized with twenty-three members, sixteen of which were initiated and took the three degrees that night.

To say that the Salem folks were hospitably treated is to put it too mildly, for their hosts gave them two suppers, one at 7 p. m. and the other between midnight and 1 in the morning. At these meals all the delicacies obtainable were offered to the Salem boys, who did such excellent justice to them that several are fondered and two are suffering with hoven. The Salem team who initiated the Elliston folks were: Noble Grand Jack Elliston, Vice Grand George Rogan, Outside Conductor A. H. Magee, Inside Conductor J. S. Hickok, Inside Guard J. Stocks, Warden Walker, Chaplain Lytle, Joe Dent, R. S. S., and Burks (of Meals & Burks), L. S. S.

The Rebecca degree was to have been conferred upon several ladies, but at the last moment it was discovered that the ritual was not there, so, much to their disappointment, it was postponed.

The following is a list of the officers of the new lodge who were installed by Past Grand Master Barnitz: R. A. Mitchell, N. G.; J. E. Showalter, V. G.; P. L. Aggar, secretary; J. H. Northcross, treasurer; W. A. Lytle, chaplain; J. R. Perdue, conductor; J. N. Carter, warden; James Blount, inner guard; J. W. Barnitz, outer guard; A. Manoni, R. S. to N. G.; J. G. Walthal, L. S. to N. G.; George Harvie, R. S. to V. G.; J. J. Anderson, L. S. to V. G.; O. D. Gross, R. S. S.; A. L. Winfree, L. S. S. The new lodge will meet every Thursday night in the Masonic hall.

The Salem Odd Fellows returned home Thursday about daybreak loud in their praises of the kindly treatment accorded them by the good people of Elliston.

HOW FASHION MAKES FRIGHTS.

Vagaries of Hairdressing Often Seriously Handicap a Pretty Woman.

A woman who does not dress her hair on the top of her head should never wear a crownless bonnet. The only excuse for the existence of such a paradoxical sort of head covering is the display through the open crown of a pretty arrangement of the hair, filling up the empty space. Even in that case they are not suitable for anything except rather festive wear. They are quite a clever invention, however, since the hair is a more beautiful adornment for the head than anything that can be manufactured, and hats and bonnets serve usually only to conceal it.

AN EVENING COIFFURE.

Nothing external so much affects a woman's appearance as the arrangement of her tresses. If she is wise enough not to be carried away by mere novelty, she will find out what style of coiffure best suits her face and then keep to it permanently without regard to the vagaries of fashion. It is astonishing what a fright a woman will sometimes make of herself for the sake of being in the mode. If heavy fringes are in vogue, the woman with the low Greek forehead cuts off her front hair on a level with her eyebrows, thereby concealing her chief beauty. If pompadour fashions rule, foreheads that would put the portraits of Shakespeare to the blush are unblenchingly exposed, without a curl to soften their boldness. In fashion, as in love and war, discretion is the better part of valor.

The favorite hair ornaments at present are small swords, with plain, jeweled or enameled hilts. They are 6 or 7 inches long and are used also as hairpins by persons who do not object to the havoc made by the blade. They may be obtained in both silver and gold. Bands and bows of velvet and ribbon are also worn, although prettily dressed hair really requires no decoration other than itself. An illustration is given of a graceful coiffure intended to accompany a full dress toilet. The front hair is curled, while the back hair is waved and rolled over in a twist at the back of the head. It is then secured on the crown in two loose puffs surmounted by an erect loop, and the ends are allowed to escape in short curls. The ornaments are pearls, which are twisted in with the puff arrangement. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SLEEVES STILL SWELLING. They Are Steadily Becoming More Ample. Fashions of the First Empire. The taste for all that recalls the time of the first empire has had a marked effect upon interior decoration. The rigid forms of furniture that characterized that epoch have been revived and are seen in white and gold or in mahogany upholstered in the green, red or yellow damask then popular.

But the revival has stopped at the verge of the dominion of dress, and there seems to be no prospect of the adoption of the empire gown in its genuine short waisted form. The prevailing influence is shown only in subordinate ways that do not materially affect the stiff corsaged mode to which we are accustomed. Not only is the empire fashion a trying one for many women, but the eye has become so used to the long bodice contracting below the bust that it refuses to recognize the beauty of the high girdle.

For instance, in the novel ball costume illustrated, an empire flavor, as it were, is given by the full drapery across the bosom and the cut of the top of the sleeve, which allows it to fall below the point of the shoulder, but the tight modern waist is retained, which at once robs the gown of any historically distinctive character and leaves the field open to the free play of fancy in regard to the other features. The skirt is bell shaped and is made of satin soleil. It is cut in deep slashes, which open to display a flounce of meehlin lace over cream satin. Chains of pearls are festooned around the skirt, fastened at the top of each slash by an amethyst cabochon surrounded by brilliants. The top of the skirt is caught up in front by a cabochon and forms pannier-like puffs over the hips where it meets the bodice. The lower part of the bodice is of lace, while the balloon sleeves and the drapery across the bust are of liberty velvet. The corsage, like the skirt, is ornamented with a garniture of strings of pearls, secured at the bosom and on the top of the sleeves by cabochons.

RECEPTION GOWN.

Sleeves are seen on all the decollete corsages and show no indications of diminishing. If there is any change, they are becoming more ample. The shoulders are usually finished with butterfly knots of ribbon, or wide berths trimmed with lace are gathered full at the top of the sleeve and allowed to fall over it. Bretelles and rosaries are also used on evening toilets. Brilliant effects are sought after just now; hence the popularity of satin and moire and the adoption of galleon of various sorts as a garniture. JUDIC CHOLLET.
