Current Local Events of the Day Briefly Told.

Bits of Facts and Gossip Gathered on the Streets by Times Reporters—Points Political, Social and General Happening Yesterday.

Opened Up a Notion and Novelty Store.

J. O. Hobbs has opened up a notion and novelty store in the Masonic Temple on Campbell avenue, near Jefferson street.

Concert at the Old Opera House To-night.

The Royal Temperance Legion will give a concert to-night at the Old Opera House. An interesting programme has been arranged.

Will be Taken to Marion Soon.

The papers in the case of Charles Rhodeniser, of this city, who was recently adjudged insane, were sent to the asylum authorities at Marion yesterday afternoon. Rhodeniser, who is in jail here, will probably be taken there next week.

R. A. C. Juniors Defeat the Union Stars.

The R. A. C. Juniors and the Union Stars crossed bats at the Athletic park, the former team winning by a score of 13 to 3. The batter was Armstrong and Howe for the R. A. C. Juniors, and Young, Body, Turner and Monahan for the Stars. The latter team failed to find Armstrong for a hit.

Criminal Assault Case at Ballehack.

A colored man from Ballehack brought a warrant to this city yesterday morning, which was placed in the hands of the police, charging George Trout, colored, with committing a criminal assault on Lizzie Hardy, an 8 year old colored girl. The particulars in the case could not be ascertained.

In the Police Court Yesterday.

In the police court yesterday morning, John McCann, white, was fined $5 for disorderly conduct. Geo. Harris, white, was fined the same amount for the same offense. W. W. Williams, white, was charged with being disorderly. He was dismissed and ordered to leave the city. Geo. Washington and Wm. Chandler, both colored, were fined $5 each for disorderly conduct.

Y. M. C. A. Jubilee Service.

In commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Young Men's Christian Association a public service will be held in the First Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The address will be delivered by Rev. C. Armand Miller, of Salem, and the music will be rendered by the choir of the First Presbyterian Church.

Hairston Has Made No Confession.

Chief of Police Dyer received a letter yesterday from Chief of Police Irwin, of Lynchburg, to the effect that the report that Fred Hairston had made a confession is incorrect. Hairston is charged with assaulting little Blanche Littrell in this city last month, and it was stated by a gentleman who came from Lynchburg the first of this week that he had confessed the crime to the jailer at that place.

The Lawyers' Nine in To-day's Contest.

The players for the lawyers in the game between the doctors and lawyers at the R. A. C. park at 4 p. m. to-day are as follows: J. R. Bryan, catcher; Harvey T. Hall, pitcher; A. E. King, first base; W. A. Glasgow, second base; E. W. Robertson, third base; A. Blair Antrim, shortstop; M. C. Coleman, left field; A. L. Payne, center field; Roy B. Smith, right field. No admission will be charged and the public is asked to come out.

Judge Woods Will Not Try the Election Cases.

Nothing of importance was transacted in the Hustings Court yesterday, and all the cases called were postponed, except a few civil suits of minor importance, in which judgments were given. The suit for $3,000 damages of Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Harrison vs. C. G. Smith, proprietor of the Ponce de Leon Hotel, based on her having been charged with the theft of some silverware, is set for trial to-day.

Judge Woods has announced that he will decline to sit in the contested election cases, on the ground of his relations with some of the interested parties. Some other corporation court judge will be selected to try the cases.

Mt. Desert Island.

ON THE coast of Maine, contains more elements of beauty, arranged in a more picturesque way than any other island, large or small, on the Atlantic coast of the United States. It is in brief an insular range or collection of mountains, consisting of something like a dozen granite peaks, separated by valleys of great wildness and beauty, which often contain deep clear lakes or wild mountain streams. Around the island beats the Atlantic ocean, making altogether the grandest bit of scenery on the Atlantic coast. Bar Harbor may be reached by through cars from Washington, via the famous "Colonial Express," in twenty-four hours. F. E. Boothby, general passenger and ticket agent of the Maine Central railroad, will take pleasure in mailing descriptive pamphlets, time tables, etc., to any one contemplating a trip to Maine.

Consumption Cured.

I COMMENCED drinking Radam's Microbe Killer when very low with Consumption, the physicians finding my lungs closed almost solid and pronouncing my case beyond hope or help. I am now a well man. JULIE SNOOTS, Marion, Ohio.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

R. H. Tally Arrested on the Complaint of a Bank Official.

R. H. Tally was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with having committed forgery. Mr. Tally was taken before Police Justice Turner, where W. A. Glasgow, his attorney, asked for the case continued and also made application for bail. Before this question was decided, evidence was submitted to the court.

J. W. Hancock, who is employed in the banking establishment of S. D. Ferguson, stated that the defendant came to him and asked him to cash a city warrant for $50, drawn in favor of J. B. Bowman. The warrant was indorsed by Bowman. He stated to the witness that his name was Price, and that he had traded some cattle to Bowman for the warrant. Mr. Hancock told him to write his name across the back of it, and he wrote the name of C. E. Price.

The witness further stated that Mr. Bowman had lost several warrants and had so notified him, and that he was suspicious of this one. He said that Mr. Tally made two different statements to him, the other one being to the effect that Will Keffer gave him the warrant and told him he could get it cashed at Ferguson's bank. He then swore out a warrant for his arrest.

After hearing this evidence Justice Turner decided that he could not accept bail, and advised Mr. Glasgow to make the application to Judge Woods. This was done, and Mr. Tally was released on a $500 bond for his appearance before Police Justice Turner Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. His sureties were Joseph Trout and J. M. Ware.

The defendant, who is the son of a Policeman Tally, has always borne an excellent reputation, and his many friends claim that he has been guilty of nothing more than indiscretion. They deny that he had any criminal motive for his act.

YOUNG MEN MEET TO-NIGHT.

The Organization of a Business League Will be Perfected at This Time.

A meeting to perfect the organization of a young men's business league of this city will be held in the Hustings Court room to-night at 8:30 o'clock. A preliminary meeting was held in response to a call at Hotel Lee on Tuesday night, at which time a committee on plan of organization was appointed and the meeting adjourned until to-night.

This committee has held several meetings and will have their report ready to submit to-night. If the report is adopted it is probable that a permanent organization will be formed at this time and officers elected for the ensuing year.

Much interest is being manifested by the young men of the city in this project, and it is probable that a large number will be present to-night to be enrolled in the organization.

From Edward F. Droop & Sons.

LARGE dealers in Washington, D. C. Old and experienced in the business, they ought to know a good piano. "The pianos shipped us a few weeks ago arrived safely, and their general appearance and the tone quality of your new scale pleases us so much, that we must compliment you highly on the success achieved in the manufacture of such a durable and pretty instrument. For many years we have been using the Marshall & Wendell piano, and we are anxiously looking forward to Mr. Wendell's visit, as we want to make arrangements so that we can practically make a 'leader' of the Marshall & Wendell." Hobbie Music Company, sole dealers, 157 Salem avenue.

THOSE of our readers who have horses or poultry to feed will find it to their interest to call on Messrs. Daniel & Holladay, the well known feed dealers, whose advertisement appears in another column. They carry a large stock and are prepared to supply both the wholesale and retail trade at lowest prices the market affords. Those young men have been engaged for several years in this line of business and number among Roanoke's most enterprising and successful business men.

IMPROVING ON NATURE.

From Japan Comes a New Method of Making Furs Ready to Wear.

A Japanese gentleman has perfected a new process for furs, called the fur transferring process, by which the ordinary skin is entirely removed, the fur alone remaining, each individual hair being attached to a flexible fabric. The advantages claimed for this process are that the furs are much softer and more pliable than ordinary skins, that they are entirely free from any unpleasant odor, and so far from being injured from being wetted they can be washed in hot water and dried like blankets. It is also said that the fur will not come out by use, as the hairs hold much closer than when implanted in the original skin. All kinds of fur can be thus transferred from the skin on which they grow on to a close and durable fabric.

The method of this transfer is at first sight rather difficult to grasp. It is obvious that each individual hair cannot be transferred singly, but that the whole must be done at once. The nature of the process, however, may be very easily indicated. The original skin, from whatever animal it may have been obtained, is placed with the fur downward, in contact with the an adhesive surface, to which the hairs become so strongly attached that the skin may be laid hold of and absolutely torn or stripped away, leaving the fur attached to the cement, and so perfectly is this accomplished that the skins themselves are capable of being utilized for leather.

The next step of the process is the covering of the roots with another adhesive material, by which they are cemented to a close woven fabric. Thus it will be seen that the external portion of the fur is tightly held by the first cement to which it was attached, while the roots of the hairs are closely cemented to the fabric which has been placed upon them. In the process of manufacture all that is now necessary is to loosen the attachment of the hairs to the cement on which they were first placed, when the whole of the fur in its original position is obtained, only cemented to the flexible fabric in lieu of the original skin.

The result is undoubtedly most successful. It is difficult to imagine a softer fur than that which is obtained.—New York Advertiser.

The Indian Canoe.

What a wonderful creation is the Indian canoe! Light as foam, blown like a feather by the slightest breeze, responsive as a cork to the least ripple. Yet this same fragile bark is adapted to the wildest waters. It leaps in safety from crest to crest of the cataract or buoyantly surmounts the billows of the stormy lake. It was well for us that it was so, for we were heading toward a broad sheet of water that was thickly dotted with white caps. We were soon far enough out to feel the full force of the gale that stung our faces with wind and spray. To go against such a wind with a bark canoe would be an utter impossibility, but to run with it was great fun. Our safety depended upon the skill of the steersman in keeping her before the wind. Certainly the day had commenced auspiciously. We were making quick time. The complacent Irishman was taking to himself all the credit for this gale as though it were part of his business. I was forbidden to paddle, but with Captain Mick's consent I tied the tails of my rubber coat to the handles of two paddles and inserted the blades in the armholes. This extemporized sail greatly added to the speed of our flying craft. On we flew, outstripping the spray that leaped after us and fell short. This kind of sailing furnished sensations for which no analogy can be found in the whole range of navigation. Instead of plunging deeply and laboring heavily, as a wooden boat would, our buoyant vessel scarcely seemed to plunge at all, but seemed to skim like a sea gull on the very foam itself. So we crossed Lake Talon in a boat which a man could carry, doing eight miles of angry waves without shipping a thimbleful of water.—Outing.

It Was All Right.

Fashionable New York restaurants would drive a Bowery proprietor to suicide with their apparently lax and reckless business methods. It is the desire of well known resorts to save their patrons from all annoyances and embarrassments. An absentminded man, shortly after he became engaged to be married, invited his fiancée, her married sister and a party to the theater and afterward to supper. He ordered an extremely good supper and was feeling rather proud of the result when it occurred to him that he might have come away from his home without any money. A hurried examination showed that this was just what he had done. Now, no man likes to play the fool before the woman who has recently promised to marry him, and this man immediately felt "panicky." He left the room in a "rattled" condition to make a clean breast of the affair to the cashier. When he reached the desk, the cashier said to him before he could give a word of explanation: "Now, I know just what you are going to say. You have forgotten your pocketbook. Don't think about it for a second. It is all right." The absentminded man went back to his guests with a suddenly improved appetite for supper.—New York Tribune.

Married Life In India.

An educated Hindu gentleman, a graduate from one of the universities, said to an English friend: "Your government did not know what it was doing when it abolished the burning of wives on their husband's funeral pyre. The fact is, we were obliged to introduce that measure to prevent our wives from poisoning us." This is a beautiful side light on the condition of things in India, and it is a sword that cuts both ways, for it not only reveals the cunning of bad men for their own safety, but shows the sort of husbands they must be whom wives would poison if the penalty were not to be burnt alive.—Boston Woman's Journal.

VERY FAST LIVING.

Busy People Who are Killing Themselves by Inches.

Dr. Edson's Warning—It is Slow Suicide. He Explains Why so Many People Break Down in the Prime of Life Through Fast Living—There is Only One Way to Escape the Consequences.

Thousands of people are guilty of fast living, but do not know it. They are shortening their lives and laying up a train of ills for the future without being aware of the evils they are bringing upon themselves. They are in the midst of grave dangers, unconscious and unwarred!

This may seem incredible, but it is, nevertheless, a fact. It is a strong assertion, but it is supported by no less an authority than Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the New York board of health, and one of the leading physicians of America.

In a recent newspaper article, which has created a widespread sensation, Dr. Edson sounds a timely note of warning when he says:

"Few understand the high pressure of life in New York city. They do not even realize that they themselves are living too fast; that they are daily treating themselves to abnormal excesses in the way of intellectual effort and intellectual pleasures, which damage and destroy mind and body. If the average New Yorker is asked why he never sleeps until sheer exhaustion makes it a necessity, why he drinks stimulants in the morning to drive away the pains in his head and to beget an appetite for breakfast, why he bolts down his luncheon as if he were filling his traveling bag in a hurry to catch a train, why he drinks stimulants again at night to drive away nervousness and recurring thoughts of his day's work, which pass before his mind with agonizing realism, he will reply in effect: 'It is the spirit of the age. I am going no faster than to be in the race!' It is not one thing alone, however, it is not the simple fact of eating one's lunch too quickly which constitutes what I term fast living. But all of our surroundings, our pleasures and pastimes partake of the same high pitch.

"What is the outcome? To supply his rapidly exhausted system the hard-working New Yorker is compelled to consume large quantities of rich food, and to stimulate himself with alcoholic beverages. He starts upon his career with a robust digestion, not easily deranged, and his career ends in premature death, which too often owes its origin to the flagrant abuse of that digestion. The constant presence in the stomach of undigested food is an irritant. The food ferments and putrefies, and putrefaction frequently results in the stomach as often as it does outside of the stomach, in poisonous ptomaines, which increase the irritation in the gastric membranes and are also absorbed to an extent by the system, giving rise to well-marked symptoms of ptomaine poisoning. The excitement of work increases this stomach trouble, and the stomach trouble in turn increases a person's proneness to nervousness and exhaustion."

From the above statement of Dr. Edson it will be seen that the secret of sound health, upon which success in life depends, is good digestion. When the stomach does not digest the food that is eaten, the whole system suffers for want of nourishment. The undigested food lies in it, fermenting, poisoning mass, sending its deadly secretions into every part of the body, until there is a physical breakdown. Nature does not neglect her warnings, for people who suffer from indigestion are always complaining of headaches, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, furred tongue, constipation, gaseous belchings, burning at the burning pit of the stomach or other distressing symptoms of dyspepsia.

Cure the indigestion, prevent its distressing effects and you gain the key to permanent health and strength. Remedies for dyspepsia by the hundred have been introduced from time to time, such as strong medicated wines or "bitters," cathartics, stomach pills, and cod liver oil. But indigestion can never be cured by the use of drugs. They only make matters worse. A weak stomach cannot stand drugging. The only way to cure indigestion is to restore the digestive organs to a healthy condition. It was through recognizing this important truth that the discovery of Paskola, the pre-digested food, was brought about. Paskola is based on this great natural law, and in this lies the secret of its wonderful success in overcoming defects of digestion. Paskola is a food, not a drug. It is pleasant to the taste and agreeable to the most sensitive stomach. Instead of nauseating, it is taken with constant relish.

But what makes Paskola such a wonderful "appetizer" is the fact that it aids the stomach to digest all other food. As soon as it is swallowed it is absorbed into the system, and thus leaves the stomach perfectly empty. It enters at once into the worn out tissues of the body, weak from lack of nourishment, and produces a revitalizing effect possible by no other means. The reason so many dyspeptics have no appetite is that their stomachs are constantly full of imperfectly digested food, which causes bloating, belching gas, and constipation. Paskola puts an end to all this and speedily restores healthy action. It brings back a healthy appetite and will make even a consumptive healthy and fat.

If you are suffering from the effects of rapid city life, are worn out, dyspeptic, emaciated, try Paskola and regain your lost health. If you are dragging out a miserable existence, simply because your body is poorly nourished, if strength and energy have alike departed, try Paskola and get well. Paskola is kept by every reputable druggist, and a pamphlet, fully describing its wonderful effect, will be sent on application to the Pre-Digested Food Company, 30 Read street, New York.
