A Sad Death.

Mrs. Cora Denmead, wife of Mr. Arthur Denmead, died last night in her apartments at the Colonial Inn. Mrs. Denmead's death came so unexpectedly that the whole city was shocked by the sad news. The deceased was a most estimable young lady, beloved by a large circle of friends. She was a daughter of our esteemed townsman Capt. L. W. Lane, and was married only last November to Mr. Arthur Denmead, of Baltimore.

The funeral will take place from the Episcopal church to-morrow at 11 o'clock a. m., and the interment will be in Cedar Grove.

We neglected to state that the property, as advertised in the Gazette to be sold at Commissioner's sale, was not sold last Court day, and will again be offered next Court day, Aug. 9.

A WONDERFUL REPTILE.

Caught by a James River Fisherman and Just the Shape of the River.

A New York travelling man recently arrived at Norfolk from a trip through Virginia and tells of a remarkable discovery, which was recently made by fishermen up the James river near City Point a few days ago.

"I had heard a good deal about the scenery along the river," said he, "and wanted to visit two or three of the battle-grounds of the late war, so I finished up my business at Petersburg and went over to City Point, General Grant's old headquarters. A great many of the darkies get their living up that way by net fishing. The morning after I reached City Point, a man told me some of the fishermen had caught a strange animal, and if I went up to Peter Jackson's shanty I could see it. Accordingly, I got into a boat and paid one of the old Uncle Tom darkies a quarter to row me up to the place. He had heard of the discovery and said it was some 'wonderful beast' that no one in those parts had ever seen before. Fully a hundred colored brethren of all sizes and descriptions had gathered around by the time we had arrived. The night before while Jackson and brother had been hauling their net there was an unusual commotion, and after dumping the fish they were astonished to find a remarkable looking reptile a little less than three feet in length. It at first made a lively fight, but was finally laid out by a blow from an oar. The superstitious negroes were almost afraid to row ashore with it, but curiosity overcame their fear. I do not wonder that the darkies were so scared. It had 14 or 15 claws attached to short legs something like an alligator, also an enormous mouth, which had been prised open and was lined with ugly rows of teeth. The tail was shaped like that of a whale and the web footed claws showed that it belonged to a species which could swim. Its color was dark green, the claws being red, also portions of the tail and the inside of the mouth as well. It had one large eye, and a long slim tongue like that of a snake. I am frank to say that I never saw anything like it before, and if I had been out with the boys any during the week, would of thought sure that I 'had 'em' but I had been sober as a judge for months before."

"The thing was taken up to Richmond, and from there sent North to some naturalist I believe. It was sent on the steamer Virginia of the James River route of the Old Bay Line. I came along on the same trip, and the officers of the boat had quite a discussion about the animal or reptile. We spread it out on piece of paper, and one of the pilot's while examining it, suddenly made an exclamation. Before we could ask him what was the matter he hastened out and came back with a map of the James river. Wonderful to say, the shape of the thing was almost similar to the many curves in the stream. The Chickahominy and other rivers which flow into the James river, corresponded with the legs of the animal, and where the river was largest it was broadest. The tail was located near Richmond, and its mouth when opened was very similar to the shape of Hampton Roads between Old Point Comfort and Norfolk. The officers of the steamer were so impressed with the likeness, that one of them made a drawing of it I believe, and sent it to the headquarters of the Baltimore Steam Packet Company which operates the James river line of steamers between Baltimore and Richmond.

Smithsonian Institute at Washington would like very much to obtain this curiosity. It may have been a Southern alligator, which had gotten out of his latitude and into the James, but I have never seen an alligator before which had a red tail and tongue and was of such a vivid greenish tint."

Go Down to the Sea.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Pine-Street Baptist church, Richmond, will run an excursion to Old Point on Thursday, August 5. Train stops at Williamsburg at 9:30 a. m. Capt. J. T. Bailey, who is so well known to all our people, will be in charge of the train. Fare from here for round trip Fifty Cents.

Grand Jury.

The next term of the Court will be the grand jury term, and the following jurors have been drawn: L. W. Lane, T. B. Mahone, W. C. Johnston, E. G. Booth, H. B. Cowles, J. W. Jones, E. T. Martin, P. T. Cowles, Jas. L. Jones, R. P. Wright, Coleman Whitaker and G. W. Geddy.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, relieves every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effect following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention The Gazette and send your full post-office address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
