REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

The easy things to believe are those that are unbelievable. A son knows more than anybody in the family until he gets to have a son of his own. One of the nicest things about a pretty girl is the way she will like you for telling her so. A woman can lengthen her hair in the telling of it about as much as she can shorten her years. What makes a man lose his temper is for his wife to look astonished when he says he always keeps it.

GRANT UPHOLD BY DEPARTMENT

Had Right to Wear Uniform Leading Temperance Parade, Secretary Dickinson Says.

WASHINGTON.—Special.—The head of the War Department, Secretary Dickinson, in his reply to W. E. Michaels of Chicago said:

"What individual members of the army may feel about such movements I do not know. Each soldier and officer of the army has a right to determine that for himself.

"I do not know, however, and state that the army as an organization has taken no side and will have no right to take sides either for or against the prohibition movement. Gen. Grant participated in the parade as an individual and not as in any way representing the Army or the War Department.

A letter has been received by Secretary Dickinson from H. G. Newton, Secretary of the Temperance and Law Enforcement Parade Committee, dated Chicago, Sept. 28, in which he says: "Gen. Grant has courageously performed a patriotic duty in demanding the unconditional surrender of lawlessness and debauchery. If the War Department has any honors which the General has not already received, Liner in a Heavy Gale.

HALIFAX, N. S.—Special.—For many hours, while the northwestern transport liner Voltur, which arrived here Wednesday from Hamburg, was off the Grand Banks, the weather was so severe that Captain Harrison never left the bridge, and passengers were sent below and the hatches battened down.

The steamer shipped immense seas over her bow and quarter, but sustained no serious damage. The steamer landed 100 passengers here and proceeded for New York tonight with 250.

She has on board a large consignment of animals to be sent to Washington.

"Three promising colored students for the ministry are now at Wolfville."

"Our watchword for the year is 'Forgetting those things that are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, let us press toward the work for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.'"

Marianna Pearson says: "Every Christian is under obligation to either go, or let go, or help go."

"God so loved the world and considered its salvation of such importance that he gave his only begotten Son to redeem it from sin and death."

"But members of our Baptist churches so love the world that they give on the average less than two cents per week, to extend and establish Christ's kingdom therein."

"In 1908 the baptized converts on the foreign field numbered on an average four hundred and fifty for each day of the year. Think of this and the time when Judson waited years for one convert."

WHITAKER MOVES HIS OFFICE HERE

RICHMOND, VA.—Special.—Announcement was made yesterday that Frank M. Whitaker, vice-president and freight traffic manager of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, would move his headquarters to Richmond within the next week or ten days. While the force to be brought here with him is relatively small in numbers, the importance of the transfer makes Richmond a still greater point for the company, and will have all departments under one roof. As vice-president Mr. Whitaker's authority extends over the freight and passenger departments.

With the completion of the new building on East Main Street, the Railroad Y. M. C. A. will move from the Main Street Station, and General Superintendent Knapp will move into the station building.

This change will provide office quarters for Mr. Whitaker in the company's building at Eight and Main, where he will be in touch with the heads of all departments. Thornton Lewis, general Western freight agent, will remain in charge of the company's business in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati was wildly excited yesterday over reports that the Chesapeake and Ohio would move its general offices to that city, under direct orders of Edwin Hawley. Telegrams to President Stevens' office brought prompt denials. Mr. Whitaker in Cincinnati also stamping the report as absurd. It was said here that the company had never considered the proposition of a transfer, but, on the other hand, was bringing all of its general officers to Richmond.

WOMEN DECEIVED BY A SIGHTSEEING AUTO

NEW YORK.—Special.—Two Brooklyn women who came with friends to Manhattan Wednesday night to see the illumination visited the World office Thursday to ask that Brooklynites be warned against a certain sightseeing auto which established itself on Broadway, near Thirty-third street, close by a reliable concern which has been doing business there for years.

"This automobile looked as good as any," said one of the women, "and a man was there telling of the fine ride up Riverside Drive and back for a dollar. We went along. The chauffeur turned back at Fifty-ninth street—said he had his orders. Most of the passengers were from out of town. There was an indignant protest, of course.

"When the driver brought us back we all started to make a complaint to the man in charge. He rushed us across the street, where prospective passengers wouldn't hear, and promised us almost everything. Then he disappeared.

"A half drunken man succeeded him, and he treated the sorely disappointed passengers very rudely. The affair was so clearly a case of piracy that we complained to a policeman. He told us to go to the Night Court and get a warrant.

"Eleven of us went to the Night Court, but before 1 o'clock, the hour the court was to open, the men and women began to get sleepy and we all went away."

PARIS MODEL BABY CAPS.

A Frilly Shirred Mustin Affair that Can Be Copied at Home.

To copy a betwitting cap model seen in high-priced shops, a resourceful mother explains, a cap shape was cut of sheer Paris muslin. The crown was plain, but the sides were shirred in half a dozen shirrings made over a soft cord. This foundation was then covered and made "fluffy" by plaited ruchings of soft fluff, in different widths.

The mother in question made these ruchings, finding it cheaper, but they can be bought for comparatively little a yard. It will be cheaper and easier in buying to choose plain plaited ruching and edge it with the narrowest width of German valenciennes lace.

Three-quarters of an inch ruching is wide enough for the narrowest width, she directs; an inch and a half for the widest. Sew the narrow ruching in rows around the crown, facing out. At the outer edge where crown joins side, run a frill of the wide ruching. This should be tacked in several places so it does not stand out too much; rather falls forward a little over the shirred sides.

On the front of the cap, around the face, place two or three rows, overlapping of wider ruchings, while the inside of the cap, which is wired to stand out from the face in a poke shape, is faced with row after row of the narrowest ruching.

On top of the cap, with ends to fall over shirring, is a many-looped bow of satin ribbon, while the ties may either be ribbon, or what is more serviceable, of Paris muslin, braid stitched in the color of the bow, and finished at the ends by several rows of draw stitching, worked in color.

A Japanese Luncheon.

For a Japanese luncheon, have the rooms decorated with blossoms, or, if these are not procurable, imitation blossoms may be used. These latter are made of tissue paper. The artificial ones cost very little and can be easily made. The greater part of the furniture should be taken from the room, and it makes the occasion more realistic to have the guests sit on the floor in Japanese style. Japanese screens should be placed at different locations, and if the temperature of the room gives the slightest excuse, Japanese fans should be supplied.

Japanese tea is very mild. The water being poured over the tea leaves, it can be served at once with sugar, but neither milk nor lemons should be used. With it come the wheat cakes, rice cakes, or ponge cakes, and, if desired, some sort of confectionery. To make the scene more realistic, small Japanese prints and pictures may be hung about the rooms. These can be bought at the bazaars at very little expense and given to the guests as souvenirs of the occasion. A single Japanese lily in a pot is also in great favor.

Belt buckles in silver, in Japanese characters which signify good luck and long life, are among novelties.

Health and Beauty.

A glass of lemonade, without sugar, in which one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda is dissolved, will often cure bilious headache.

Henna stain is said to be harmless. It will cause brown hair to take on slightly ashy tints. Make a strong brew of the dried leaves and apply both liquid and paste, washing the hair before the application and again afterward.

Stretching exercises of the throat and neck will reduce a double chin permanently. Hold the chin as far up as it will go and with the finger tips massage it with a downward motion. Pushing the lower jaw in and out is also good. Once or twice a week is often enough for such heroic treatment.

The girl with unequal hips—the commonest of afflictions—may cure them, if the inequality be not too far advanced, by a ten minute exercise daily. Bring the knee on the larger side up to the chest and lower it again, all the while standing as nearly erect as possible. Do this twenty or thirty times each day.

A physician says that he knows of many persons who have taken sea voyages and avoided the usual seasickness by eating freely of salt mackerel, dried salt fish, or dried beef. One of the greatest human comforts to the voyager known as the thin-blooded creature, always cold on a steamer, is to have flannel footwarmers, also a blanket kimono to put on over the nightclothes at night when cold is so noticeable. Those who are not seaskick are often sick from the cold.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

AT EVENTIDE.

Tonight, my soul, be still and sleep, The storms are raging on God's deep— God's deep, not thine; be still and sleep.

Tonight, my soul, be still and sleep, God's hands shall still the tempests sweep— God's hands, not thine; be still and sleep.

Tonight, my soul, be still and sleep, God's love is strong while night hours creep, God's love, not thine; be still and sleep.

Tonight, my soul, be still and sleep, God's Heaven will comfort those that weep— God's Heaven and thine; be still and sleep.

HE CHARGES RUIN OF HOME

Jeweller Manz in Cross BHI Also Includes Army Captain in Accusation.

TOLEDO.—Special.—Gustave A. C. Manz, a New York manufacturing jeweller who was made defendant here September 4 last by his wife, Martha N. Manz, in a suit for alimony, filed a cross petition Thursday, in which he makes serious charges against his wife, now living here. He charges A. Ludwig, formerly a captain in the Austrian army, and A. Rado, a Hungarian musician in New York City, with breaking up his home. While living in Leonia, N. J., he alleges Captain Ludwig came to their home and remained four months. Manz charges that Rado also lived with them, and that his wife declared her love for him, saying to Manz:

"If Rado and I get married you can live with us, and you can see the children all the time."

The Manz has two daughters, eight and six years respectively.

Manz avers in his petition that Rado is a disciple of Upton Sinclair's theories of life.

Mrs. Manz appeared in Toledo September 4, when she applied for alimony from her husband. She also obtained possession of their two children by a decree of the probate court, alleging that her husband had threatened to take the little ones to Europe and keep them from her. She said in her original petition that after their marriage, September 17, 1899, Manz became indifferent about his personal appearance, and was cold and indifferent toward her. She was seventeen when married, and her husband thirty-four.

THOUGHT SERVANTS WERE TRYING TO POISON HIM

CHICAGO, ILL.—Special.—With the sting of what purports to be a codicil to the will of Charles T. Yerkes and preparations to contest it, it was asserted that the trustees magnate had labored under the delusion that his servants were conspiring to poison him.

Suspicion directed at members of his immediate household is said to have been so acute that he compelled the butler, and frequently the house maid, to eat food prepared for him.

The codicil, which was filed by attorneys representing Lewis S. Owsley, executor of the Yerkes estate, acts to strike from the will a bequest of $15,000 to six of his servants.

It is dated London, August 15, 1895. Mr. Yerkes died in New York the following December.

Attorneys for the servant beneficiaries will fight the recognition of the codicil and will testify to Mr. Yerkes' person delusions.
