

JAPANESE LUNCH AND RUSSIANS DINE AT SAGAMORE HILL

President Roosevelt Entertains Peace Envoys at his Home at Oyster Bay Before Their Departure for Their Native Lands.

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 9.—Entertaining Baron Komura and Minister Takahira at luncheon today and Mr. Witte and Baron de Rosen at dinner tonight, President Roosevelt extended to the peace envoys of Japan and Russia official courtesies and expressed to them on behalf of the American people, gratification that the labors of their mission to America had been performed successfully.

Baron Komura and Minister Takahira arrived at Oyster Bay on board the naval yacht Sylph, which had been sent to New York for them. They reached Sagamore Hill at 1 o'clock and remained with the president for two hours.

Both Baron Komura and Minister Takahira expressed to the president the appreciation of his efforts, to which they attributed largely the success of the conference in reaching an agreement.

When the Japanese envoys took their leave they wear aboard the Sylph, which sailed for New York.

Tonight M. Witte and Baron de Rosen, the Russian envoys, were the guests of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner. Mr. Witte's well understood antipathy to travel by water induced the Russian envoys to make the trip to Oyster Bay by rail.

At the Oyster Bay station the Russians were met by a confidential messenger of the president, who conducted them to Sagamore Hill.

GANGS OF THIEVES AIDED BY WOMEN

Residences of Wealthy New Yorkers Left Unguarded During Vacation Season Looted at Leisure by Thieves who Sleep in the Houses.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—It is now believed that two or more gangs of thieves with women in their membership, have stolen jewelry, paintings, silverware and bric-a-brac from the homes of wealthy New Yorkers to the value of over $200,000, during the last week.

The most amazing robbery reported is that of the home of Jose Aymar, where thieves devoted an entire week to the job and secured probably $125,000 in loot. Mr. Aymar's house was closed and the family was in the country and no one left in charge.

A woman confederate of the thieves discovered these facts from the caretaker of the house next door, Mrs. Annette Wingate. The thieves made the electric light connections and slept in the house removing their booty in valises at night.

A woman is also suspected of a part in the robbery of the Paul Bonner country home in Connecticut, where the thieves carried an 800 pound safe, containing $18,000 worth of jewelry down an uncarpeted flight of stairs in a house in which thirteen people were sleeping.

Acting Captain McCauley of the detective bureau admitted today that there had been an unusual number of robberies. He said they were of the kind known to the police as "country," "People lock up their houses and go away to the country," explained McCauley. "They don't leave a caretaker. The policemen on the beat cannot watch the rears of the houses."

The thieves who operated in the house of D. S. Willard took twelve hours to complete their work. Three thousand dollars was the amount of the robbery.

BALLOONIST FIGHTS FOR LIFE ONE MILE ABOVE THE EARTH

Gripping a Hugh Rent in his Balloon with his Hands to Prevent the Escape of Gas Aeronaut Descends in Safety to the Ground.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Gripping a huge rent in the silken fabric of his airship to prevent the total escape of gas, Prof. George Hamilton swung a mile and a half above the heads of 1,000 persons gathered at the Clifton race track near Patterson New Jersey, this afternoon. Through the long descent he gripped the edges of the ghastly rent while the silk ripped under his hand. Probably no more thrilling escape from death ever occurred.

Few of those on the ground watching the automobile and motor-cycle races realized the seriousness of the aeronaut's plight. They saw the airship shoot higher and higher into the air and applauded the exhibition.

When 3000 feet in the air Professor Hamilton discovered that his machinery had jammed and that the motor was crackling away dangerously. In a moment he realized that he was facing a crisis. For several minutes he worked away at the machinery and then suddenly discovered that while he was busy the car had kept ascending and that he was at least 9000 feet above the ground.

Hamilton knew that he would have to descend at once. He gave the valve rope a jerk, but it fell from the escape valve and dropped through the air.

The big balloon continued to rise and Hamilton took the only chance open to him. He sprang into the network of ropes by which the car was suspended and with his knife cut a slit in the silken bag just aft of the filling tube. To his horror the slit kept increasing until it was nearly two feet in length.

Although nearly suffocated by the gas Hamilton realized that his only hope was in keeping the aperture closed as much as possible. He gripped it with his hands and held the edges as close together as possible while the car darted in the air.

Slowly the rip increased in length. The pressure of the gas within the bag tore the thin slip until the rip was several feet in length. The airship rapidly approached the ground. Fortunately Professor Hamilton's weight was all on the after part of the balloon which tilted upward, the forward part of the gas bag thus holding a part of the hydrogen. The car drifted a mile and a half sweeping downward until it touched the roof of a farm house and Hamilton sprang out, landing safely on the roof below unhurt.

JAPS AND RUSSIANS MUST DIVIDE TRADE IN EAST WITH AMERICA

Secretary Root is Taking Prompt Steps to Restrain Nipponese from Getting Control of Entire Trade in Manchuria and Korea.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The United States proposes to test the sincerity of Japan in its declarations "to the world of its altruistic purposes in Manchuria. Immediately steps are to be taken to secure for this country all of the benefits of the "open door" in the far east. The first step has already been taken by the state department, under the direction of Secretary Root and President Roosevelt. It is in the shape of representations to Great Britain as to the future commercial conditions in Manchuria and Korea. Great Britain, as the ally of Japan and as the signatory of a new treaty of Alliance with the Nipponese, is in a better position to advise with this country and to give us the exact situation and the future status of the east than other nations.

The representatives of Great Britain are not yet ready for public discussion but it can be said that if the government of Great Britain receives them in the spirit in which it is expected it will, immediate representations or proposals will be made to both China and Japan by the United States, with the approval and cooperation of England.

The secretary has decided that no more important duty will be assigned him than the conserving of our commercial and other interests in China.

Mr. Root was always in sympathy with the "open door" policy of Mr. Hay. He believes that if he can maintain the advanced position which Mr. Hay took in the far eastern question his administration of the office of secretary of state will be as notable as he could wish.

Now that Japan has won in her great struggle in the far east, Secretary Root is to proceed on the theory that she is entirely sincere in her declarations that the trade of Manchuria would be for all nations on equal footing. He will take such steps as will quickly develop whether or not there has been a real and sweeping change in the status of affairs there, or whether the declarations of Japan were pure diplomacy in bidding for the good will and moral support of the powers.

The period of reconstruction in Manchuria is expected to be a most important one. What the United States wants is to prevent Japan assuming too much in this direction, and, in fact, if not in theory, taking Russia's place and attitude to the detriment of other nations. The United States hopes to secure the cooperation and approval of England and other nations in recognizing and creating a situation in the far east which the new commercial treaty to be arranged between Russia and Japan can not ignore, and which will by its very existence make impossible any effort on the part of Japan and Russia to divide between themselves special privileges in Manchuria.

Notes on the Chelan County Fair

According to a careful estimate made by Walter Olive, secretary of the Chelan county fair association, Wenatchee will have to provide food and lodging for at least 2200 people during the four days of the Chelan county fair. A bureau of publicity will be started with its headquarters in Mr. Olive's office and a list of people who have rooms to let will be kept on file and anyone wishing a room or in search of general information will find what they want at Mr. Olive's office. Letters have been written to every prominent citizen and newspaper within a radius of 100 miles of this city and all have promised their support and cooperation.

Cashmere, Monitor, Trinidad and Ephrata people are all interested in the fair and will be present in goodly numbers.

The entire exhibit of the fair that is to be held at Chelan is to be shipped here to be exhibited at the fair and the Chelan people are confident of walking away with a large number of premiums.

Leavenworth has become another home of the big red apple. Citizens of that place will not only attend the fair in large numbers, but have arranged to send a large exhibit.

As an illustration of carrying military discipline too far this story is told by Nelspn A. Miles: "There was a certain Colonel who in the middle of a campaign was seized with a sudden ardor about hygiene. He ordered that all his men change their shirts at once. This order was duly carried out, except in the case of one company where the privates' wardrobes had become sadly depleted. The Captain informed the Colonel that none of his men could change their shirts since they had only one apiece. The Colonel hesitated a moment, then said, firmly: 'Orders must be obeyed. Let the men change shirts with each other.'—Boston Herald.

INSURANCE THAT INSURES

WHEN you take out an insurance policy for your house, store or business building, you want to feel that in case of fire you are absolutely certain of being protected to the full amount of your loss. There are certain companies operating in this state that sell insurance cheap, but when a big fire comes along you find that the company has gone up in smoke, like your building, and that your policy is worthless. We represent twenty of the largest companies in the world some of which have been doing business for nearly two hundred years, and none of which have ever failed to pay a dollar of legitimate fire losses. Let us give you some insurance that insures.
