At the Theater

Attractions at Wenatchee's Theater

There was a good crowd at the theater last night, and those who were fortunate enough to be present were treated to a good laugh all of the two hours that they were in the house. The company presented Broadhurst's good comedy "What Happened to Jones," and did it exceedingly well.

The story affords a fine chance for the members of the company and they made the most of it last night. Professor Goodly and others go out for a lark and attend a prize fight. They get into a mixup with the police and the professor and Jones are badly handled. Jones, in order to escape from the pursuing party, in company with Professor Goodly, takes refuge in the house of the latter.

Jones then embarks upon a lying expedition and in order to account for his presence in the house, passes as the brother of the professor, Bishop of Balarat, whom they are daily expecting to pay them a visit. The bishop arrives and Jones continues to lie. The situation becomes more and more complicated until Jones is finally compelled to make a confession.

A pretty little love story comes into the play, but its chief merit is in the fact that it is a comedy from start to finish and that the vulgar elements are kept in the background all of the time.

As a whole it was a thoroughly first class performance and well worthy of the generous patronage it received. It is by far the best company that has been seen in Wenatchee this season, and with attractions of this kind the success of the theater as a place of entertainment is assured.

Tonight "The Ensign," one of the best military plays that has ever been written will be produced.

YOUTH FALLS IN LOVE 'AND GETS SPANKED

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—After being tempered with an old-fashioned spanking prescribed by Recorder Stanton, of Hoboken, Frank Leding, age 17, is expected to wake up from his love dream. He is in a cell in Hoboken police headquarters now, and in the detention ward where she can be looked after by the matron, is Mabel Pierce, an attractive girl of 16.

Determined to strike out for herself, the girl found employment in a silk mill in Hackettstown and boarded with Leding's family. Young Leding and she fell desperately in love, but when the subject of love was broached to the youth's parents, the storm broke. Before it had cleared the boy and girl were on their way to a tramp to Dover with a cash total of $8.10.

Much of this was used for carfare to Hoboken, where they secured a room.

It was only a little room, but when they told the proprietor that they were brother and sister he stretched a curtain across the apartment and they started forth to find work.

Neither met with success. When their last penny was gone Leding met an acquaintance, from whom he borrowed $5. This kept them until Tuesday, when the landlord turned them out. They walked the streets Tuesday night, finally taking refuge in Hudson Square park. Recorder Stanton said he thought the best thing for Leding was a spanking, and if the youth's father would administer it the court would permit the brave but penniless youth to return to the parental roof.

The girl will be sent back to her grandfather.
