NAVIGATION OPENS ON OKANOGAN

Okanogan, Wash., May 3.—Navigation opened on the Okanogan river last Friday when the steamer Charles Bureau brought up twenty-one tons of freight for local merchants. The Bureau is making three trips weekly. This morning the steamer Okanogan came in with sixty-five tons of freight for Okanogan and Omak. Most of this consignment came directly through from Wenatchee. The Columbia & Okanogan Steamboat company have announced that the steamer North Star will be put on the Okanogan river run for the season and she is expected up in a day or two. She will make three trips a week.

Squillchuck and Vicinity. Charlie Kinney has the grip. David Morgan is on the sick list. Most of the ranchers have their crops all in by this time. Lewis Hewling is ill at his home on the creek, with appendicitis. V. L. Chestnut, who has been on the sick list, is able to be out again. The "Bee Hive" grange meets on Wednesday evening, May 4, at 7:30 sharp.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barcroft visited with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Zimmerman Sunday. The assessor was up in this neck of the woods Wednesday and Thursday taking the census. Miss Christine Akerlund visited friends over in Pitcher Canyon a part of Thursday and Friday.

Several of our young people tripped the light fantastic toe up on Wheeler Hill Saturday evening. Several of the Dunkards of Sunnyslope spent Sunday at the homes of C. M. Bellas and George Yates. Wm. Vernon and sister, Anna, and Miss Mable Hewling spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cranner.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Chalmers and infant daughter Loretta spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Smith. Carl Carlson and Max Carleson, both of Pitcher Canyon, made some short calls on the Squillchuck last Saturday evening.

Miss Olive Morris gave a "May" party to her many young friends last Sunday afternoon. A most enjoyable time was reported by all present. Light refreshments were served. P. J. Halverson has a curiosity in the way of a yearling Bartlett pear tree, which has 248 blossoms. It is a most beautiful sight to behold. Think of so small a tree carrying such a big load of blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wasson, of Wenatchee, came up the line Sunday to spend the day with the former's schoolmate, V. L. Chestnut, and wife. They took a basket lunch up on the "Bee Hive," where they spent a most pleasant day talking over old times.

Last Saturday Brown Bros. received a shipment of 14-inch pipe to be used in connection with their new pumping plant which they are going to install to water their orchard tracts south of town upon which they have finished setting out something over twenty-eight thousand trees.

The ladies of Chelan Falls were entertained at a costume party at the home of Mrs. J. B. Fosdick last Friday afternoon.

PEOPLE OF NOTE IN THE LIMELIGHT

E. B. GARY. THE thousands of men and their families affected by the radical change in the working rules of the United States Steel company's plants have E. B. Gary, chairman of the directors, to thank. Realizing the severity of the labor involved in the production of the ingots, Mr. Gary in spite of the hundreds of orders ahead decided that six days toll was enough for any man, and hereafter there will be little or no Sunday work, insuring a normal working day week for the employees. All thinking Americans will heartily approve of this move, and if an equally progressive stand be taken by other big concerns the corporation will have set a standard with respect to Sunday and seven day work.

Judge Gary is a big, broad policy man; that is his strength. He is the man who, rising above his business, blazes the trail between operation and dividends. There is nothing jarring about him. The stalwart six footer who looks over the desk at you and talks in a level voice might be anything but the man he is. There are no harsh lines in his mobile face, no note of the autocrat in his speech or act.

The recent reports that King Edward's health is failing has brought his son and successor, the Prince of Wales, much in the limelight all over the world. It has now been decided definitely that the prince is to start for South Africa on Sept. 2 next to open the first parliament of United South Africa in the name of his august father some time toward the end of October, and this simple announcement draws attention in the most striking manner to the way in which the king in which the king is week by week passing on more and more of his public functions to his son. It also draws attention to the fact that the king is growing old and that the ceremonial functions of royalty are steadily becoming more tiring to him.

The prince has long been in training for his duties when he succeeds to the throne, and naturally Englishmen and men of all nations are keenly interested in speculating on how he will fill the high position. It is pretty hard just now to form a just estimate for the prince is so overshadowed by his brilliant father that it is almost impossible to see him in proper perspective.

A diplomat writing recently of the condition of the king said: "The members of his family, the persons of his immediate entourage and the principal dignitaries of the government have been warned that Edward may die at any time, and the great officers of state and also Lord Lansdowne, as well as Lord Rosebery in the house of lords and ex-Premier Balfour in the house of commons, are not only fully prepared for a demise of the crown, but likewise have made all arrangements subject to the possibility of so untoward an event."

If he can be found, some boy with a passion for music and a good voice may become the world's greatest male song bird without a penny of expense to himself or family. Caruso, the famous tenor, will pay all the training expenses, having recently announced that he would set aside a fund for that purpose. When found the boy must agree to a legal guardianship by a commission, and he will not be permitted to marry or sing in public for ten years; otherwise, Caruso promises, the boy will have every desire gratified, and nothing that the tenor's money can buy will be denied. In speaking of his plans Caruso said: "I am willing to endow a commission with a fortune sufficient to insure the carrying out of the plans, though I should die before the boy's education is completed. While under tuition he will be allowed to see his relatives on rare occasions, but they are to have no more claim upon him than they would have if he entered the church.

"No human voice has yet equaled the nightingale, but the formation of the human throat is such that it should be capable of producing music beside which the notes of the most delightful bird should seem harsh and discordant. The world has given me fame and fortune, and a part of this debt I propose to repay by giving the world a tenor greater than myself. I do not believe that I am the best judge of voices. I might be prejudiced by personalities, so that selection will be left to a commission which will have absolute charge of the boy."

NEW BREWSTER ADDITION Town Has Taken Boom With Building of Great Northern Railway Branch. Malott, Wash., May 3.—An addition to the town of Brewster, comprising 45 acres, is being platted by Civil Engineer J. R. Everett of this place. Brewster is enjoying rapid growth incident to the construction of the Great Northern branch connecting the Washington & Great Northern at Oroville with the main line at Wenatchee. The addition comprises business and residence lots and is being made by the Brewster Realty company. A building construction boom has been in progress since last September

ENRICO CARUSO. When found the boy must agree to a legal guardianship by a commission, and he will not be permitted to marry or sing in public for ten years; otherwise, Caruso promises, the boy will have every desire gratified, and nothing that the tenor's money can buy will be denied.

When the town was visited by a disastrous fire, destroying most of the business section. Brewster was recently incorporated, electing G. L. Minton mayor. Hundreds of acres of young orchards have been planted this spring within a three-mile circle of the town. William T. Cobb, who served two terms as governor of Maine, has announced his candidacy for United States senator to succeed Eugene Hale.

It is reported in Washington that Senator Flint of California may succeed Secretary of the Interior Ballinger in the event of the latter's retirement from the cabinet.

LIEUT. FILCHNER. IN the coming race for the south pole there are now three competitors—America, Great Britain and Germany. First Lieutenant Filchner, who is to lead the German expedition, is attached to the general staff of the German army and has already distinguished himself in exploration by travels in central Asia. He spent the years 1903 to 1905 in exploring Tibet, and he has also done similar work in the Pamirs and Turkestan.

He proposes to make his base on the coast of Weddell sea and approach the pole from the opposite side to that of Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition. Lieutenant Filchner hopes to reach the pole and continue across the antarctic continent to the shores of Ross sea by Sir Ernest Shackleton's route. Meanwhile a subsidiary party will come to meet him by that route and establish a depot of provisions about halfway between Ross sea and the pole. Lieutenant Filchner, of course, will not in any way be trespassing on the route to be taken by Captain Scott.

If you have an idea that the college professor of today is afraid of real hard work you should take a trip to Cambridge, Mass., where they are building a new subway. Here, as foreman of a gang of laborers, Professor Hugh W. Ransom, lately connected with Harvard university, earns his daily bread by the sweat of his brow, and he isn't afraid to take pick or shovel and do all sorts of back breaking stunts.

Professor Ransom is very conscientious in his work and has gained considerable prestige among his men on account of his being a college professor. He wears khaki trousers, a rough coat and heavy boots the same as his men. His clothes are mud splattered and rough, but the professor is very cheerful and seems satisfied with the $9 that he finds in his envelope. The professor frequently has a number of Harvard students who have been under him in classes stand on the sidewalk and criticize his work, but he takes it all good naturedly and laughs back.

"That girl is sure to do a power of good in this world. She is big enough to look over her pile of dollars and see the common folks. She's not looking for one of those foreign critters with a title. She wants to do something worth while for humanity."

This is what Governor Stubbs of Kansas recently said of Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. P. Morgan, who recently paid a visit to the Sunflower State. Miss Morgan has long been one of the most talked of young women in the country and has done an immense amount of good. She is a woman of varied activities, her latest efforts being toward the settlement of the shirt waist strike in New York, the betterment of conditions for workmen in the metropolises and the advancement of the suffrage cause.

If you want to hear even louder praise of her, however, go to the Brooklyn navy yard. Noticing on a visit there that the 700 employees were obliged to go to the saloons outside for their meals, she opened a fine restaurant in the yard.

While in Chicago recently Miss Morgan visited the Federation of Labor headquarters, Hull House and the University of Chicago settlement. Her visit to the center of trades unionism in Chicago was probably the most interesting of these, for there, in the bare, dingy rooms, the daughter of the man who is the embodiment of capitalism rubbed elbows, shook hands and gossiped with laborers and working girls, representatives of trades unionism.

CONCONULLY FARMER WITH MANY WOUNDS IN NECK AND BREAST MAY NOT FIND DEATH SOUGHT—HAD LAND TROUBLE.

Conconully, Wash., May 3.—With 13 knife stabs in his breast and throat, John Torrance, a farmer, is still living and hopes are given for his recovery. The wounds are self-inflicted, Torrance having become despondent over the prospect of losing his homestead by sheriff's sale.

The wounded man was found in a room in the Hotel Elliott after he had covered himself with wounds. One thrust had reached his lungs. Torrance has lived on his homestead claim for five years and had sold it to his sister, Mrs. Helen Bryant of Superior, Mont., after securing a patent.

Haakon to Meet Roosevelt. Christiania, May 3.—Intense interest is manifested among all classes in the visit of former President Roosevelt, who is to arrive in Christiania tomorrow to fulfill his promise to lecture before the Nobel committee. The highest honors await the distinguished visitor. He will be entertained as the personal guest of King Haakon and will receive an honorary degree from the university.

Census Not Closed. Thirteen more days remain to take the census in. Some confusion occurred owing to the fact that the census in the cities closed on the last of the month, but here there was a thirty days' time allowance. The work must be finished on the 15th of May. So far nothing has been done south of Orondo.

KEPT THEIR SECRET WELL

BRIDE OF SPOKANE MAN HAS BEEN LIVING AT LAKE CHELAN FOR PAST YEAR—WEDDING WAS NOT ANNOUNCED.

Miss Carrie H. Shearer came down on the boat Sunday from Chelan. This in itself is not important, but there is quite a romance back of it. The young lady and Stuart E. Waters, of Spokane, were married just one year ago and they decided not to announce their wedding and the bride went to Chelan to live. After a year's separation the young couple were reunited Sunday evening, after the eastbound train pulled into Spokane.

Mrs. Waters was formerly Miss Carrie H. Shearer and the news of the marriage will come as a great surprise to the many friends and acquaintances of the young couple. Both were members of the graduating class of January, '08 at the South Central high school, Spokane, and during their high school career held important offices in the class and in other student organizations. She held the class presidency for a number of terms and he not only held the same office but for some time was editor-in-chief of the Orange and Black.

At the time of the culmination of their love affairs they decided to keep the fact of their marriage to themselves, and did not tell even their relatives until long afterward. Mrs. Waters left shortly after for Lake Chelan, where she has been staying for the past few months. Mr. Waters holds a position in the engineering department of the Washington Water Power company.

350 Acres in Okanogan LOCATION. One and a half miles frontage on Okanogan river; three and a half miles from town and depot on the Okanogan Valley branch of the Great Northern railroad, now actively under construction and to be in operation this fall, 1910. IMPROVEMENTS. Fair house and stable; all fenced and half mile of cross fence; two acres of alfalfa; about six tons of ice; fuel sufficient to supply a family on each ten-acre tract for several years—that is, standing timber between the meander line and the river; forty ricks of fuel ready for use. IRRIGATION. A strictly "A1" gravity water right for 40 acres goes with the place; remainder is a pumping proposition—pump lift 60 to 90 ft; remainder of tract a 50 foot lift or less. There is every reason to believe a gravity water right, strictly first class, may be purchased for application to an additional 80 acres at a price of $50 to $60 per acre; this from a company with total number of shares in their project of 350, each acre representing a share, with a lake reservoir of 169 acres area which now contains seven feet of storage water even after a flow of waste water during last two months; the by-laws of this company prohibits any kind of assessments of greater total during any year of more than two dollars, except upon unanimous vote of its stockholders. Capacity of the reservoir may be increased almost indefinitely. ADVANTAGES. This tract is part of a body of 1,500 acres of fruit land, a tract large enough to insure a population of sufficient density and size to make certain its ability to secure and support good schools, churches, roads and other community conveniences. There is also on the opposite side of the river, a tract equally large, which gives added advantage. Lands adjoining our tract contain bearing fruit trees to prove this land is successful fruit land. Some of the adjoining lands have been subdivided and sold in small tracts at from $250 to $350 per acre, with roads for every ten-acre tract, and arrangements have been made whereby these roads may be economically and conveniently extended through our tract. Our tract possesses a good ferry site, and there is located on the railroad on the opposite side of the river, a side-track or switch track for convenience in shipping carload lots. A bridge will this summer be constructed to span the river at the railroad town located three and a half miles from our tract. We have free delivery of mail on our tract six days of the week, both from the north and the south. PRICE. $100 per acre; half cash; no other payments until after the lapse of ten years, if the latter is satisfactory to the purchaser. Interest charge on deferred payments, 6 per cent.
