PYRO

ALCOHOL (Denatured)

FOR LIGHTING nothing can compare with it in brilliancy, economy, portability and safety. All the druggery and uncleanness of caring for the ordinary lamp is eliminated. Because of the small amount of heat it diffuses and its harmless effect upon the atmosphere it is pre-eminently the ideal light for summer.

FOR COOKING purposes Pyro is unique. All the unpleasantness of cooking in hot weather is obviated. Its intense flame is all applied just where it is wanted. It cooks quickly without heating the air of the room.

The tax of $2.08 per gallon on Pyro Alcohol Denatured has been removed by the U. S. Government, thus permitting its sale at a popular price. The process of denaturing Pyro simply renders it unfit for drinking.

G. O. P. MIXUP IN OREGON

State Assembly Meets Today in Portland—Interest in Governorship.

Portland, Ore., July 20.—The political situation in Oregon is already very interesting, but it promises to be much more so after the State "assembly" of Republicans meets in this city tomorrow. The purpose of the assembly is to formulate and adopt a party platform and to recommend to the Republican voters of the state a ticket for State, Congressional and Judicial officers to be nominated at the September primary.

Those responsible for the "assembly" plan confidently declare that every county of the state will be represented at tomorrow's gathering. They declare, furthermore, that the assembly will be representative of the Republican party of Oregon in every sense of the word and that the ticket recommended by the assembly will undoubtedly be nominated at the primaries.

Despite these declarations a strong opposition to the "assembly" undeniably exists among many influential Republican leaders throughout the state. They declare that the whole scheme is contrary to the spirit and intention of the direct primary law and is a bare-faced attempt on the part of the faction led by former Senator Joseph Simon to maintain control of the party machinery and defeat the will of the rank and file of Oregon Republicans.

Interest in the situation is heightened by the fact that Oregon this year elects a complete set of state officers from governor down, together with four judges of the supreme court, representatives in congress and members of the legislature.

Attention naturally centers upon the contest for the governorship, which office is now held by Secretary of State Frank W. Benson, because of the election of Governor Chamberlain to the United States Senate.

Several names are mentioned in connection with the assembly's choice for the head of the ticket. Dr. Andrew C. Smith, a leading physician of Portland and a former member of the state senate, is an avowed candidate for the endorsement and it is understood that his nomination would be satisfactory to Simon and other Republican leaders who are backing the assembly plan.

Believe Floater is Bossburg Suicide.

Bossburg, Wash., July 20.—Press dispatches of July 15 from Wenatchee report the finding of the body of a man whose description corresponds with that of the unknown man who committed suicide in the Columbia about two months ago at this place. Every detail in the description is identical, and several citizens of Bossburg, who are familiar with the appearance of the drowned man, say that the body found at Wenatchee is the Bossburg suicide. The authorities at this place made every effort possible, at the time of the tragedy, to ascertain the identity of the unfortunate, but without avail.

MYSTERY OF MISSING HEIR

Tecumseh, Nebraska, Aroused Over Mysterious Will Case.

Tecumseh, Neb., July 20.—Nothing has ever put the curiosity of the citizens of Tecumseh under a greater strain than the mystery of old "Scotch" Wilson's missing heir, which is to be solved by an unusual test before Judge Livingston of the probate court tomorrow. The claimant, who asserts that he is John Wilson, Jr., the son of old "Scotch" Wilson, will, tomorrow, be given an opportunity to prove his identity and to establish his claim to the $30,000 which old Wilson left to his missing son, provided he should turn up within five years after the death of the testator and prove his claim by answering to the satisfaction of the court, ten questions which old Wilson had written down and sealed and deposited in a safety deposit vault.

Old "Scotch" Wilson died about five years ago and ever since that time the mysterious package in the safety deposit vault kept the curiosity of the citizens at a high pitch. It is safe to say that there were not two residents who held the same theory concerning the nature and purport of the ten questions. Every possibility was discussed from every imaginable point of view and for five years the mystery of the test questions formed the all-absorbing topic of conversation and contention in Tecumseh.

The general interest in the puzzle increased tremendously when, a few weeks ago, a man appeared in this city who claimed to be John Wilson, Jr., the missing heir of old "Scotch" Wilson. He stated, in reply to questions that he had lived in Houston, Tex., for more than twenty years under the name of Alonzo Wilson and that he had assumed that name to make it impossible or at least more difficult for his father to locate him. He is an attorney and also a civil engineer and has worked for the Southern Pacific railroad for many years. He said he had heard of his father's death about two years ago, but did not wish to return to claim the inheritance waiting for him. But his wife and daughter had finally persuaded him to claim the estate for their sakes and he had consented to come to Tecumseh and establish his identity through the proscribed test.

Old "Scotch" Wilson, the testator, was one of the oldest settlers in this locality. He owned a fine farm and by shrewd investments accumulated a considerable fortune. He was a man of many prejudices, stubborn and ignorant and frequently quarreled with the members of his family and his neighbors. It was about thirty-six years ago that the old man had a particularly severe quarrel with his son, John Wilson, Jr. and drove him from out the house. The boy left Tecumseh and was never seen again since that time. One year later the old man relented and began to regret having driven his only son into the world. He made strenuous efforts to find a trace of his son and spent the greater part of his fortune in this search. The search remained fruitless and the old man died without having found a trace of his son. Shortly before his death the old man made a will in which he provided, after his own style, for the possibility of his son's return. He deposited $30,000, the bulk of his fortune, in the Tecumseh bank, to be held in trust for his son for five years, ending July 21, 1910. The old man, realizing the danger that an imposter might claim the fortune, wrote down ten questions and the answers to them, sealed them securely and entrusted them to the executor of the estate, A. C. Sullivan, with the provision that the money should not be paid to any claimant who did not answer these ten questions to the satisfaction of the judge of the probate court. In case no claimant should appear and answer the questions before the expiration of the five years the money is to go to the nephews of the testator.

The civil service department has given notice that on November 12th civil service examinations will be held in Spokane, Tacoma, Seattle, North Yakima, Walla Walla, Bellingham and Wenatchee, open to candidates for appointment as railway mail clerks.

HOT WEATHER AFFECTS THE SKIN

Tender skins are bound to be affected by the increased amount of poison in the copious perspiration thrown off during hot weather. Rashes, hives, blotches, pimples, prickly heat result. Often, too, serious skin troubles begin this way.

To wash away the poison entirely, to clean and cool the skin, make an application of a simple solution of wintergreen with thymol, known as D. D. D. Prescription. Doctors prescribe this D. D. D. Prescription for eczema. It is sold for the purpose in dollar bottles, but we can give you for 25 cents enough D. D. D. to keep your skin fresh and clean from summer blemishes.

If there is any itch this wintergreen lotion will take it away instantly, the very second it is applied to the skin. We assure you of this for we have seen the result with D. D. D. Wenatchee Drug Co., Wenatchee, Wash.

To Brand the Black Sheep.

Lincoln, Ill., July 20.—A conference of many leading democrats of Illinois assembled here this afternoon in response to the call issued from Springfield two weeks ago. The purpose of the conference, as set forth in the call, is to disavow the action of democratic members of the state legislature in voting for William Lorimer for United States senator and to discuss plans for the election of honest and capable democrats to aid in making the laws of the state and to work for the adoption of efficient measures to hold legislators responsible at all times to their constituents.
