

TRESPASS ENDS IN TRAGEDY

 versation. She had no hesitation in telling her story, but continued a rapid fire of conversation the balance of the evening.
 County Attorney Kemp talked with the Sutton family and various neighbors. The World reporter went up to a middle aged man whose eyes diffused in tears told the fact that he was the father of the slain young man. He could hardly speak. Grasping the reported by the arm, he said, pointing to a wet place in the dusty road: "That is my boy's blood. She shot him down in cold blood. Oh my poor Jim! My poor Jim!"
 The body had been taken down the road a distance of a quarter of a mile and placed in a tent which has been used by some loggers at work nearby. Hither went Coroner Saunders to view the remains.
 The Sutton children do not have the appearance of being vicious or troublesome. Their faces are kindly and their manifest affection for one another bespeaks what mutually helpful neighbors the two families might have been. Will Paton told the World reporter that the father and boys had worked for him on his ranch and that they were amiable and obliging. They told their side of the story to Attorney Kemp in a perfectly straightforward and consistent manner. All the evidence goes to show that the fence was put up from pure spite. The Suttons had no other way to travel to their home. They were compelled either to abandon their home or engage in the quarrel which ended in murder.
Previous Trouble Over Road.
 It seems that the original homesteader of the Sutton place was a man by the name of Brender. It is said that he had the same feud with Mrs. Totten and that he was confronted by her on the same spot four years ago. She stuck a revolver in his face and told him to move further at the risk of his life. He turned back and never again entered the canyon.

"Why did you have the gun with you while you were watching?" asked the prosecuting attorney.
 "Because those boys have threatened the life of both my mother and myself," replied Mrs. Totten. "Almost every night they are prowling around my house. I have found it necessary to keep a gun always at hand for self-protection."
Prisoner Does Not Realize Crime.
 As the party was about to leave for Wenatchee and the mother and daughter realized they would next meet in court to answer a charge of murder, Mrs. Beebe said:
 "Don't worry, Della, about me. Take care of yourself."
 "Oh, I'll be all right, mother" said Mrs. Totten. "Now, don't you worry about me. I never did anything in my life which was more necessary than this deed. I'm not afraid."
 It was getting cool. Mrs. Totten opened her grip to get a coat. She called the attention of the sheriff to a loaded revolver which she remarked, had saved her life several times.
 The weapon was seized by the officer, with the remark: "I'll take that."
 The hearing was set to take place in Cashmere next Saturday at ten o'clock in the morning. The entire Sutton family were notified by the prosecuting attorney to be present.
 Undertaker H. N. May went up the valley this morning to take charge of the body.
 Mrs. Totten was brought down to Wenatchee and lodged in the jury room. Until the new jail is completed, no other fit place is available in which to hold women prisoners.
Was Married Four Times.
 On the return trip to Wenatchee Mrs. Totten gave some of her history. She came to this country ten years ago from northern Nebraska. Her goods and some stock, including a herd of angora goats, were shipped to Ellensburg. From there she crossed the mountains alone except for the company of a boy who was hired to assist driving the animals. Passing through Wenatchee she went on past Cashmere and located on the homestead which has since been her residence.
 In Nebraska the woman had been married and divorced twice. She is very bitter against both men, was so soured against the male sex that she vowed never to marry again. She did remain single for ten years. Finally a man named Fleming from the state of Washington visited a cousin in Nebraska and a strong attachment sprang up between him and the twice divorced woman. At the mere mention of Fleming's name last night, Mrs. Totten showed the only sign of tender feelings during all the events in connection with the tragedy. She wept and with difficulty controlled herself. She said he was the best man she ever knew and that to think of him well nigh causes her to go into hysterics.

 Mr. Fleming died a few years ago and was mourned around Cashmere as one of its most respected citizens and neighbors. About a year ago his wife married again, her new husband being Noel Totten. He is a good citizen and is doing his best to make a living and develop the ranch which belongs to his wife.
 A son, William Tabor, 22 years of age, lives with his mother, Mrs. Totten, and to him she committed the care of the aged mother. Mrs. Beebe. The sad look on his face, as his mother departed in custody, was very pathetic.
 Mrs. Totten has appeared in the justice courts of Cashmere some six times within the past few years. In most cases the trouble was with the Sutton boys. About two months ago, Jim, who now lies slain by her hand, and two more of the brothers, were haled to court to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct. In passing her place she called them a low name and the boys mocked her. Whereupon she swore out a warrant and the judge gave her a verdict, placing the young men under a suspended fine of $25 each in case the offense was repeated.
 The woman now under arrest is very eccentric. By many she has been regarded as decidedly unbalanced in mind. However, all stories relating to mental peculiarities, are in connection with her quarrels. Her entire conversation indicates rather that she is a typical moral idiot who has so formed the habit of enlarging upon the faults of others that she is not aware of her own shortcomings. Not once last night did she reveal the slightest regret for the murder performed by her hand. Not once did she consider that she could possibly be in the wrong herself. She does not realize the awful provocation given by herself for the feud which has made life for the Sutton family a veritable hell on earth for the past three years. Rather she looks upon herself as the object of malicious persecution until for months she has actually come to believe that the objects of her intense hate were bent upon robbing her of home and land and life. It is doubtful if she could have found many people who would have been less offensive neighbors.

 It is a question what legal charge may be sustained. The murder was committed upon her own property after she had warned the victim not to enter. It can be shown that the road was laid out and accepted by the county commissioners, then the state can hold that the deed was done on public ground. She will then be liable to the charge of murder in the first degree. Otherwise manslaughter will be the probable charge.
Mrs. Peterson Died at Leavenworth.
 Mrs. Bertina Peterson, of Leavenworth, died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock of tuberculosis. She has been sick for some time and the end was not unexpected. Mrs. Peterson leaves to mourn her loss a husband and five children. She was born in Norway, February 16, 1878. The funeral services will be held at the Leavenworth Methodist church, Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

SCHOOL BOARD HAD MEETING

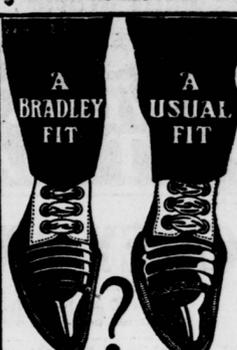

High School Corps Not Yet Complete — Athletic Teacher Needed.

The school board met last night and besides awarding the contract for the basement and excavation of the new Lincoln school addition, transacted some other business.
 School is to open September 12, and the directors and Superintendent Brown are busily engaged in getting everything in shape for the opening.
 Frank Mortimer was elected janitor at the Stevens school for the next year at $85 per month. The board is also advertising for bids for interior decoration of the Lewis and Clark and Whitman school buildings.
 It is the policy of the board to keep the buildings in an excellent condition, so as to make them attractive for school work.
 The high school force of teachers is not yet completed, as there is difficulty in getting a man who can satisfactorily handle the athletic work.

TETHEROW MEETS BURGLAR

Former Wenatchee Man Has Thrilling Experience Near Seattle.

Manette, Wash., Aug. 11.—After firing five shots at a burglar, Otis Tetherow, of the grocery firm of Farmer & Tetherow, was struck over the head by the burglar's partner, this morning, about 2 o'clock, and when he recovered consciousness, half an hour later, the firm's safe had been cracked and $380 in gold and currency had disappeared.
 Tetherow sleeps in a back room of the store. He heard a noise and, picking up a six-shooter, investigated. As he opened the door leading into the store, another man pressed a revolver close to Tetherow's abdomen and fired. Tetherow then opened fire on the retreating form and had emptied his revolver when he was struck from behind.
 The Otis Tetherow referred to in the above dispatch lived for many years in this valley and only a short time ago engaged in the grocery business at Manette, a suburb of Seattle.

Which Shoe Looks the Most Comfortable and Stylish

Just think of the agony endured before the ordinary shoe allowed the foot to rest with some sort of comfort.
 Look how the foot spreads out over the sole, not only causing the foot to look deformed, but breaking out the shoe at the sides.

Look at the Bradley Shoe

Note the symmetrical form of the foot. How comfortable that foot must be.
 See how the Bradley Shoe retains its shape.
 And this shape is retained because the makers have made provision for the "pinch" at the ball of the foot by specially devised shoe forms.
 In simple justice to your feet you ought to wear Bradley Shoes.
 Bradley Shoes have been good shoes for 65 years. They were tried out by your grandfather and even your great grandfather and found to be honest, well-made, comfortable.

MOHAMMEDANISM SPREADS

Religion Spreads Very Rapidly in African Territory.

London, Aug. 11.—Mohammedism appears to be spreading to a remarkable degree in Nyasaland.
 Sir Alfred Sharpe, the governor, who has just arrived in his country on leave, states that twenty years ago, when he first knew the country, Mohammedanism was almost non-existent except at one or two spots, where it had been brought in by the Arabs.
 "Since then," he continued, "it has spread greatly, particularly during the last eight or ten years."
 "The Yaos are the tribe who have taken to Moslem teaching mostly and in almost every Yao village are a mosque and a Moslem teacher."
 "On the other hand, among the tribes to the west of Lake Nyasa, there is hardly any Mohammedanism. Here the Scotch missionaries have a strong hold on the people, who have taken up Christianity with great enthusiasm."

FINISHING SURVEY

Allotments on West Half of Colville Reserve Now Being Made.

Kettle Falls, Wash., Aug. 11.—F. W. Rase, United States surveyor, was in town this week on his way to Republic. He has just finished inspecting the surveys on the south half of the Colville Indian reservation along the Columbia river. He has some work to do south of Republic along the San Poil river, which he expects to finish in September.
 On the west half of the reservation the allotments are now being made to the Indians, and it is probable that all the allotments on the reservation will be made by next spring. This will make it possible to throw the whole reservation open to settlement to the white man the fall of 1911.
