IN THE FRONT ROW

HEADLINERS TONIGHT. Stock Production. Hippodrome..... Lewis-Oliver Players Comedy. Colonial..... General Nuisance Pictures.

THE "hard spell" for the "kiddies" is over and they are again free beings as far as attending the movies and theatres is concerned.

One little girl said to me, "I can't go to a picnic, they won't let me in the movies, and I must stay out of Sunday school, the play ground is closed, schools are not yet open, so what can I do? Haven't we 'kiddies' any privileges at all?"

I couldn't say yes, for fear of being asked: "What?" But there is sunshine again. The "kiddies" have been unshackled.

The Lord & Vernon Musical Comedy Company starts a week's engagement at the Colonial today, after a successful run at the Palace in Clarksburg.

Dustin Farnum, said to be the highest paid movie star in the country, is featured at the Grand this afternoon and night in a great out door Paramount production, entitled "The End of the Trail."

One of the youngest performers in the Triangle string, Charles Ray, plays the leading part in "The Deserter," a stirring picture which is booked for the Dixie today.

They're off! All in a bunch! Today starts the winter series of plays at the Hippodrome. Miss Grandin will be back in the cast, and her part in the play tonight is particularly to her liking.

Mr. Lewis has made his selections for the next few weeks from the best plays recently released for stock production, and claims that many of them have never before been produced outside the larger cities, and there only at prices ranging to $1.50.

"Peg o' the Ring," which is now an eagerly-awaited picture at the Princess, is on today. It is one of the most thrilling episodes to date, and the circus side of it is fascinating to children.

As proof of the popularity in Fairmont social circles of members of the Lewis-Oliver players, the management of the Hippodrome stated that numerous telephone calls inquiring as to Miss Grandin's health have been coming into the house daily since she has been absent from the cast.

The Colonial orchestra is a delight to patrons of that house, and frequent highly complimentary remarks are heard exchanged by the crowd leaving the theatre.

Now all together, (very loud): "I'll say they are!"

With the "Grip of Evil" and the "Who's Guilty?" series as regular weekly features at the Ideal, the management is giving its patrons a big money's worth.

OLD STAGER.

AGAIN IN THE SADDLE

Col. Wm. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) with the "101 Ranch," here on Sept. 29.

BUFFALO BILL IS COMING TO CITY

Former Indian Fighter Has Had a Most Picturesque Career

Col. Wm. F. Cody, former Chief of Scouts, Indian fighter, dead-shot, traveler, raconteur and picturesque showman, known to at least two generations as "Buffalo Bill," is again "in the saddle" this season, and his visit to Fairmont with the newly combined Buffalo Bill-101 Ranch shows, Friday, Sept. 29, will revive many memories of the career of this noted national character.

The history of the Borderland would not be complete if the name of Col. Cody was eliminated. While still a young man his "nerve" and cool-headed judgment was so generally recognized that time after time he was employed to ride the "tough" towns of Kansas and Nebraska of their undesirable citizens, and when he undertook the job he never failed.

Col. Cody originated the Wild West show as it is known in the United States, and through his exhibition he gave the people of the East their first glimpse of the real life of the great prairies.
