Evening Chat

"I wonder if those heads of perspiration that are on my forehead will show in the picture," said Mayor Anthony Bowen, as he dropped limply into a chair in the office of the New-comer's garage during the taking of a scene in "Just Folks." The Mayor acts the part of Anthony Patterson, and in this particular scene was supposed to be listening to the complaint made by his two engineers, that a labor trouble was threatening on one of his big construction jobs.

The Mayor evinced not a bit of stage fright as the camera man got into position, not as the first two or three rehearsals were run through. Then the director shouted "camera," the clickety-clickety-clickety-click of the camera started and the action was on. The mayor did his part splendidly, put across every bit of action that was supposed to be in that scene, but as the call of "camera" came out stop, his honor dumped into a chair.

"I'll tell you boys, I was never cut out for an actor. Some folks seem to be able to act without any effort, but for me I'm scared to death." Had not the mayor mentioned it, it would never have been known, for he was such a good actor that his fright was perfectly concealed.

In another scene where the mayor, the board of affairs, and a number of other Fairmont notables were supposed to be inspecting the construction of the new railroad, some prominent men got a chance to show what kind of movie actors they would make. Without exception they rose to the occasion and faltered not as they were flickered.

Miss Ethel Horseman, the music instructor in the Fairmont city schools, tells a good one about the third grade children in the Butcher school.

"The other day," Miss Horseman says, "I went into the third grade at the Butcher school to give the children their first lesson in music. The first thing I did was to draw the staff on the board.

"Now children," I asked, "can someone tell me what this is?" and I pointed to the bar.

"That's a bar," said one little fellow in the back.

"All right," I said, "now what is this?" and I pointed to a space. A little girl in the first row shot up her hand before the words were out of my mouth.

"That's a crack," she shouted.

TWO HIGH SCHOOL GAMES SATURDAY

Second Teams Play Preliminary Game in Fairmont-Mannington Contest.

The game with Mannington Saturday afternoon will be the hardest game of the season for the local High school boys and all this week Coach Moore has been whipping them into shape for the big contest. Buckhannon is claiming the state championship and since Mannington held the Buckhannon boys to a tie score on their own field, the locals realize that the time for them to show what they can do is this Saturday.

Every man is in splendid shape for the game, not an injury being received in the game with Morgantown last Saturday. The Mannington second team will come with the first team, and will play a preliminary with the Fairmont second team. Coach McClure has been getting some excellent results from the second string men, 35 recruits having reported to him for practice Monday.

The second string men have all been given new suits and are ready for their first game of the season. A schedule has been completed for them that pits them against teams that will make them work hard to win.

Normal Expects Hard Fight With Wesleyan

The Fairmont Normal football team will be out for blood when they pitch into the Wesleyan Reserves Friday afternoon at South Side park. They know that the reserves this year are a hard hitting, aggressive outfit, and like nothing in the world better than cleaning up on defenceless Normal eleven, and are determined that there will be a terrible fight before Wesleyan can go home with their scalp.

Since the D. & E. game last Saturday, the Normal boys have learned many things about football, and the team that faces them Friday will be introduced to a fast machine-like organization.

Sureness Spells Speed!

When you set out to make a call in person, you always assure yourself that you have the right address.

In telephone-calling, equal sureness as to the proper telephone number saves not only time but positive annoyances both to you and to the person who may be called in error.

The sure way is first to consult the directory carefully—not trusting to memory—and then listen carefully while the operator repeats the number back to you, correcting her if she has misunderstood.

Then, too, at times, when a number is called in error, it is well to remember that the person called to the telephone by mistake is never at fault and deserves the utmost courtesy.

BITS OF STATE NEWS

The Wheeling News says there is no frost on the "punkins" in Ohio county this year for the very good reason that there are no "punkins."

The state automobile license number will go into the 20,000 series before the end of this month, according to the license clerk at the state auditor's office, who sent out No. 19,754 today. It is predicted that 25,000 automobile licenses will have been issued by June 30, 1917, the close of the present fiscal year.

Snake stories are popular and so are fish stories. Here is one from the Martinsburg Journal which is a little of both with a large interest thrown in for good measure.

A wild and woolly story comes from the neighborhood of the corner of Martin and College streets concerning the capture of a number of eels that were enjoying a swim in a gutter in that section—and the funniest part about the tale is that it is true. A prominent physician, residing in that section a few days ago purchased a number of live eels for family use and placed them in a pail of water in his yard until time to prepare them for the table. During the night a half-dozen eels escaped from the pail, and found their way through a drain pipe that led from the yard to the gutter in the street, where they proceeded to take a swim in a shallow puddle of water. The driver of a bread wagon was the first to discover the slippery fellows, and made an effort to catch them with his hands. Falling in this, he yelled for help, but some men at a neighboring stable laughed at him, thinking some sort of a joke was on. The driver abandoned his attempt and went on. The next man along was a darky, who had returned late the night before from the Hagerstown fair. When he caught sight of the wiggly objects in the gutter he turned a sickly drab, let out a yell and went down the street like a quarter-horse hurrying home to his oats. Again the men at the stable laughed. Later one of them went up that way, and he too was seized with a sudden desire to vacate that immediate vicinity, wearing an anxious look. One of his companions then proceeded to investigate, with the result that the eels were soon captured. The affair created much amusement, but no one has yet found the darkey to explain the matter to him.

In honor of the memory of the late Bishop George W. Peterkin, of the Episcopal diocese of West Virginia, the men of St. Matthew's church in Wheeling have organized the Bishop Peterkin Bible Class. Former Judge James E. Ewing is president.

Deputy United States Marshall Mitchell and Revenue Officers R. E. Hays and R. F. Borton has returned to Blue-Valley following a raid made on an alleged illicit still on Mountain creek about seven miles southeast of Camp Creek postoffice. The still which was brought here was a complete outfit and of 75 gallons capacity. No arrests were made in connection with the raid.

The junior class at the University of West Virginia has elected the following officers: President, Allan Brooks; vice president, James Reed; secretary, Helen Judge; treasurer, Roy Ash; historian, Marguerite Roberts; inter-class council, Irwin Stone; editor of class paper, D. A. Christy; pher; business manager of class paper, I. W. Voorhis.

Only 51 deaths, an unusually small number, occurred in Wheeling during September according to the monthly report of W. C. Etzler, City Health commissioner, just made public. Sixty one births were reported. The death rate was 1.19 per thousand.

The United States Coal and Coke Company will fire 600 more ovens at Gary, McDowell county, this week according to advices received here. The company has nearly 1,600 ovens now in operation.

Ninety eight carloads of apples have been shipped from Huntington within the past few weeks. A carload averages from 170 to 200 barrels. Most of the apples were grown by farmers in that vicinity.

Lutherans Win First Match at 'Y'

The Church League at bowling made a flying start last night on the Y. M. C. A. alleys when in the first match of the double header the Lutherans took two out of three from the Presbyterians. Kelley was high man with 138, Grantz second with 135. Gantz also had high three-game total with 329. The Presbyterians had high team score 555, for one game and 1,494 for three games. The Episcopalians failed to put in an appearance against the Palatine Baptists, so the latter rolled three straight in a special match. Prim for the Baptists had high score of 134 and a three-game total of 327.
