Mrs. Manley's death occurred yesterday in this city at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Morgan, with whom she had resided for several years.

Surviving her are one son, John R. Manley, of Eldora; Mrs. John Klime, of Elverson; Mrs. Ed. Currey, of Lost Creek, Harrison county; Mrs. Claudia Short, of Shinnston, and Mrs. Morgan.

Mrs. Manley was a woman of splendid qualities and until prevented by ill health was active in various circles in the city.

HON. T. W. FLEMING

Lived near Fairmont who had formerly been an extensive sheep raiser. This man when asked why he had discontinued the sheep farm referred to the Underwood bill and the removal of the tariff on wool saying that "The Dogs and the Democrats have killed the sheep business in this state."

The principles that the Republican party stand for were ably presented by Mr. Fleming and his exposition of the kind of American patriotism advocated by Chas. E. Hughes was interrupted many times by the spontaneous applause of his hearers.

Mr. Shaw had been selected to preside at the meeting by County Chairman Frank R. Amos who called the meeting to order and following the address of Mr. Fleming, Mr. Shaw introduced Congressman Howard Sutherland, Republican candidate for U. S. Senator.

Mr. Shaw said: "Check books and fountain pens formerly made U. S. Senators, but Mr. Sutherland is an example of the new idea that Senators should possess brains and ability rather than an unlimited checking account."

Mr. Sutherland in his charming and delightful conversational manner briefly reviewed the national issues and stated that he was representing the state in Congress had endeavored to serve his constituents honestly and faithfully, acting for the best interests of the citizens whether Democrats or Republicans.

Congressman Sutherland frankly told the audience of the difficulties that members of the house experience in their effort to be of service to their state. His relation of the manner in which Democratic Congressman had been forced to vote for many measures of President Wilson's against their judgment was illuminating as well as interesting.

The inconsistency of the Democrats in abandoning the one term plank of the Baltimore platform, was pointed out by Mr. Sutherland as well as the change of policy in establishing the coast traffic tolls in the Panama Canal when they had pledged themselves to the free toll plan.

Following the address of Congressman Sutherland, Mr. Shaw introduced Brooks S. Hutchinson, candidate for house of delegates from this county and he in a short and snappy talk presented his party's cause in the state and he was applauded again and again when he had finished, many of the audience pleading to have him talk longer.

Owing to the late hour however he confined himself to a few statements, promising if elected to do his best toward serving the county at Charleston.

IRREGULARITIES

589.32. This of course is only the principal.

"During my investigation I made the further discovery that notwithstanding the fact that our statutes require the secretary of state to immediately turn all money collected by him into the treasury, Mr. Chilton had in his possession during and since his term of office money belonging to the state as follows: Average amount first year... $ 7,883 Average amount second year... 15,007 Average amount third year... 26,779 Average amount fourth year... 29,422 "Amount since March 4, 1897, $23,589.32. At 6 per cent. per annum the interest on these amounts is $5,639.

"Parts of the report: "A careful examination reveals various inaccuracies and discrepancies in these reports. In his report of the first-half year 1894 there is a mistake of $1,000."

"This amount added to other errors makes a total against the state of $1,130."

"On comparing these reports with the records in the office find that four foreign and six domestic corporations failed to appear. Mr. Chilton failed to report $260."

"I find 24 corporations returned as domestic when record shows they were foreign; deficit $960."

"I find six domestic corporations returned as foreign on which he has charged himself with $50 each instead of ten. Credit $240. This makes of shortage up to July 1, 1896, $2,110."

"Of the money collected since July 1896, he has paid nothing. His reports show that from that date up to and including March 4, 1897, he received for initial charter tax $15,350. Three more foreign charters marked domestic $120."

"I therefore find his total shortage to date for license tax on charters $17,580."

"By adding the amount which he reports as his shortage on the sale of books and tax on seals to the amount of shortage on license tax on charters I find the total amount to be $23,589.32."
