

LOCAL SOCIAL EVENTS

Wedding.
The wedding of Miss Nancy Tyler and Mr. John Williams Quinn took place Thursday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Tyler, of Point Pleasant, with the Rev. Lawson reading the impressive ring service in the presence of a limited number of friends and relatives. The bride, gowned in a handsome model of plum panne velvet the costume being completed by a corsage of orchids and valley lilies, entered the living room with her father, and was met at the altar, arranged by tall palms, graceful ferns and cathedral candelabra, by the groom who walked with Mr. Robert Hogg. The bride's only attendant was Miss Laura VanVorder, of this city, who wore a lovely frock of French blue satin and carried an armful of sweetheart rose buds. The bride is equally well known in this city as in Point Pleasant as she has spent much time here with friends. She is charmingly gracious and possessed of great beauty and rare culture. The groom is a native of Frederick, Md., but for a number of years has resided in West Virginia and is widely known in engineering and business circles. Upon their return from the east they will spend several weeks in Huntington before going to Parkersburg to reside.—Huntington Herald Dispatch.

This was the first meeting of the year and was greatly enjoyed by those present. Mrs. R. M. Hite, chairman presided at the meeting and Mrs. Paul Hamilton, secretary, acted in that capacity. Mrs. A. ### PERSONALS

The Story Lady
It was great fun to poke money in Mr. Owl's head, hear him say "Who! Who!" and see him wink his eye.

Peter hurried down to breakfast every morning and every Saturday night Papa gave him five nickels. And Mr. Owl got them all! Then papa brought home a catalog with nothing but toy moving picture machines in it and he and Peter spent the evening looking at it. They decided on a ten dollar machine and Papa showed Peter how to fix Mr. Owl so he wouldn't give up his money until there was ten dollars.

Then one day when Papa and Mama were gone a little boy who was living on the street told Peter that he would sell him his new toy automobile for four dollars.

Now Peter had just four dollars and he decided that he simply had to have that automobile. He even made himself believe that Mama and Papa would want him to have the automobile. So he told the boy that he would take the car and rushed home for his money. Then he remembered that Mr. Owl wouldn't let him have it. He shook him around but it did not do any good.

"O! well," said Peter, "I didn't want the old automobile any way."

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away." Tough on the doctor but how economical for us!
The food value, the medicinal value, the many ways of serving, as well as the abundance and comparative cheapness of apples give them a place in my heart no other fruit can fill. As to their food value. They contain five calories of protein, ten of fat and 205 of carbohydrates. They are an excellent ballast and mineral food, wherein lies their inospitality to the doctor.
Apples contain lime, essential to digestion, and iron, necessary to the work of the red blood corpuscles.
A century ago apples and nuts were served as refreshments. This is a fine combination as the bulk of the apple satisfies the appetite and prevents the eating of too many nuts which are hard to digest.
I use apples as a breakfast fruit baked, or just apples. I use them in sauce with pork, fried as an extra vegetable, in fritters as a luncheon dish, in salads and in desserts. The jellies and relishes I make are many and delicious.
So much for the versatile apple.
Menu for Tomorrow.
BREAKFAST—Grape fruit, waffles and syrup, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Omelet, cinnamon toast, pineapple salad, tea.
DINNER—Baked beans, spinach, brown bread and butter, tomato salad apple pudding, coffee.
My Own Recipes.
While we may not go so far as to have baked beans for Sunday morning breakfast, we can not preserve our Americanism unless we sometimes have them for a Saturday night "supper." Properly prepared baked beans form a most nutritious and palatable dish. Although there are several brands of very good canned beans, I prefer to bake them myself.
WAFFLES.
1-2 Cupfuls of flour.
2 Teaspoonfuls of baking powder.
1-4 Teaspoonful of salt.
1-2 Cupfuls of milk.
1 Egg.
2 Tablespoonfuls of melted butter.
Mix dry ingredients. Add milk. Beat whites and yolks of eggs separately. Add yolks to dough. Add melted butter and fold in whites beaten very stiff. Put a spoonful of batter in each compartment of hot, well greased waffle iron.
CINNAMON TOAST
2 Tablespoonful of sugar.
1 Scant tablespoonful of cinnamon.
Hot buttered toast.
Mix sugar and cinnamon thoroughly and spread evenly on the hot, buttered toast.
BAKED BEANS.
3 Cupfuls of beans.
1-2 pound of salt pork or
1-4 pound of bacon.
1 Dessert spoonful of salt.
2 Dessert spoonfuls of molasses.
1-2 Dessert spoonful of mustard.
1 cupful of boiling water.
Pick over beans. Wash. Let stand in water to cover two hours. Parboil, putting 1-4 teaspoonful of soda in the water. When the beans have boiled in the soda water for about five minutes, drain through a colander and rinse in cold water. Put the beans on to boil again in fresh water and boil fifteen or twenty minutes. Lint the bottom of the bean pot with thin slices of meat. Put beans in pot with the rest of the salt pork or bacon, having the beans cover the meat. Mix seasonings and add boiling water. Pour over beans and add enough water to cover beans. Cover beanpot, put in oven and bake slowly six or eight hours.
I have no bean pot so use a deep, straight crock and the cover to a sauce pan that happens to fit it.
In the old song, "They Kept the Pig in the Parlor." But would the parlor be fine enough these days?
