

NEWSPAPER FIVE TO BE BIG FACTOR

Best Virginian Entry in Basketball League to Include Stars.

When the basket ball teams of the Y. M. C. A. take the floor on Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. for the first games of the season, the West Virginian will be represented by a real aggregation of floor artists. How does this sound?

Doc Garret, guard, former coach at Weyburn college. Old Wesleyan and Fairmont Normal guard. Frank Kennedy, forward, Fairmont Normal and Glenville Normal guard. Maloney, center, Center on the Springfield Massachusetts high school team. K. Powell, forward. Ralph H. Watkins, guard, Fairmont Normal and Y. M. C. A. star and here are a few of the reserves to be drawn upon: Paul Van Wert, George Boehm, J. J. Kennedy, J. I. Snoderly and Wm. Arnett.

SPORT JAZZ

Why should election day be a holiday? Rev. George B. Baldwin of Newark, O., 33 years old, walked six miles to his farm, husked 20 bushels of corn, and hooed it back to the city in time to vote.

Sporting editors generally work harder on a holiday than any other day.

Like a street car conductor's picnic half of the force lays off and the other half works overtime to get them off and from the picnic.

The ex-kaiser's doctor has quit his job. After seeing Wilhelm cut down the trees in Holland he probably decided he didn't need any pills.

Sports are growing more popular every year. You make a sport out of almost anything. For instance, Charley Hochkies of Ashtabula, Ohio, claims the lawn mowing championship of 1919. He clipped 960 grass plots in 28 weeks.

There are various kinds of endurance contests. For instance we humped a bird drinking his fifth bottle of hot, very near beer.

Our suspicion led us to buy a bottle of same, but it was near beer.

Fellow in Texas named Raspberry is charged with murder. We don't live in Texas.

MANNINGTON

Gave Banquet. Thirty-two of the thirty-three employees of the Phillips Tool Company were treated to a banquet by the company at the Hotel Bartlett last evening. The original proposition was that the losers in an armistice day rabbit hunt were to treat the winners. The blacksmiths were victorious in the hunt in which seventy-eight rabbits were bagged, but the Messrs. Phillips decided to relieve the machinists of their obligation. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

Hands Burned. Miss Marian Shaw was painfully burned on the arms and hands while lighting a gas fire in a heating stove at her home in Locust street on Monday morning. Though quite annoying her injuries are not serious.

Crawls to Safety. When nearing his home in Beatty avenue on Tuesday night at nine o'clock Daniel J. Hanley was badly burned on both hands when a tin plate fell on him.

Even if you had a neck sore throat, all the way down to the tonsils, would quickly relieve it.

A quick, safe, soothing, healing, and reliable relief for sore throat, tonsils, and all the way down to the tonsils. Tonsils relieve sore throat, tonsils, and all the way down to the tonsils. Tonsils relieve sore throat, tonsils, and all the way down to the tonsils.

Celebrate Day. Although no elaborate plans had been made for the observation of Armistice day here, the victory of a year ago was not forgotten. Promptly at eleven o'clock a. m., the bells and whistles of the city were loosened, continuing until twelve. Business places closed at that hour for a short time. The singing which was to have taken place on the Central school lawn was rendered on the lower floor of the building on account of the damp weather. Both high school and grade pupils went on strike and refused to attend the sessions, turning their attentions to having a good time on the principal streets. Red Cross workers were busy, a booth in charge of the Misses Rhea Griffin, Home Service Secretary and Lucy Fritchard securing a large number of new members, while booths in charge of other collectors did excellent work. A masked dance at the Elk's Club and one in Eagles' hall constituted the evening's merriment. Skinner's orchestra of Fairmont furnished the music for the Elks dance and an overflow crowd attended.
