Frank Russell, of McKeesport, complained to Sheriff Glover last night that Blanche Upholt, of Farmington had stolen his wife's wedding dress, a lot of underwear and other articles of women's wear, and asked for a warrant for the woman's arrest. At the same time the Upholt woman was in the county jail on a similar charge preferred by Mrs. Margaret Boswich, an American woman who is married to a Turk and lives at Monongah.

Yesterday Officer Dignan of the city police made the arrest on the complaint of Mrs. Boswich that the other woman had robbed her of a wrist watch, gold bracelet, diamond ring and a quantity of wearing apparel. All the stolen property was recovered except the diamond ring, which the girl strenuously denied having taken when examined this morning in Justice Musgrove's court. She was held for a hearing later.

Mrs. Boswich says she met the girl Friday night at the traction office in Fairmont, and that the girl told her she had no place to stay that night. Acting the part of the good Samaritan, Mrs. Boswich took the girl to her home, but when she arose yesterday morning she found that the girl was also an early riser, and had gone with about everything that was not nailed down.

TWO KILLINGS IN ONE CHARLESTON DAY

(Special Dispatch to West Virginian.) CHARLESTON, June 28.—George Overstreet, of West Charleston, is dead. Police Patrolman John Westfall is probably fatally wounded and Patrolman Ernest Feazell was seriously wounded in a gun battle between the police and Overstreet at a hotel early this morning. It is believed Westfall will die.

The shooting occurred about two o'clock. The police received an emergency call from the Adelphi hotel and Westfall and Feazell entered the place alone. When they knocked on the door of Overstreet's room he swung it open and came out shooting. Feazell was shot in each leg and in the arm and Westfall fell with a bullet in his chest.

Overstreet was shot by Feazell as the latter was lying on the floor with both legs and one arm disabled. He died instantly. Overstreet has served a term in both the state penitentiary and the insane asylum. Sonny Turner, colored, was shot and killed by Tom Ammar, Syrian confederate, also this morning, early. The shooting happened after a quarrel over a quart of ice cream.

HARDING RESTED BY BRIEF OUTING

Will Get Back to Washington Tonight at Midnight.

RARITON, N. J., June 28.—Refreshed and invigorated by his first period of relaxation in months, Senator Harding, Republican presidential candidate, had before him a quiet and uneventful program today at the country home of Senator Jos. Frelinghuysen where he and Mrs. Harding are guests.

The only event of the day was a golf match with Senator Frelinghuysen, Hale, of Maine, and Kellogg, of Minnesota. The nominee expected to spend the remainder of the day quiet and leave this afternoon for Washington, arriving there at midnight.

No definite engagements have been made for the Senator and he planned to do no political work of any kind. He spent Sunday in a church with Mrs. Harding and his hosts in the forenoon, automobile riding in the afternoon and resting in the evening.

The brief vacation has done much to relieve the fatigue and strain of several months of legislation and preparatory work and the nominee is now prepared to take up the campaign with renewed activity.

Jamison No. 7 Coon Goes on War Path

"It's an ill wind that blows no man to good," quoted Dr. C. L. Holland last night at a quarter past eleven when he was picked up at Barrackville, while waiting for the midnight car and brought to the city by Sheriff Glover and a party of deputies who had been at Jamison No. 7, on a fruitless search for Frank Hammond, colored.

Shortly after ten o'clock, a call came for help. On arriving at the scene, it was learned that Hammond had run his sister, Susie Palms, and her three children of the place, thrown most of her furniture outside, torn up a large section of the garden, and as to make himself decidedly unpopular with his neighbors. Hammond must have been given a tip that the officers were after him and could not be found, although a thorough search of the neighborhood was made.

During the search, Deputy Sheriff Jim Barrett had an experience that showed him the advantage of always keeping in good physical condition. Seeing what he mistook for a hog pen, Jim vaulted lightly over the low fence and landed inside, but no sooner had he done so than he made another flying leap over the other side and landed on the sidewalk. According to Jim's story, the ground rose up with a fierce growl and snapped at him.

"It was an Alredale," said Jim, with a shudder, "and I'd as lief tackle one of the sheriff's bloodhounds."

A report from Chicago indicates that the railroaders will receive a 22 per cent wage increase.

White Man Shot in Duel With Negro

WHITE MAN SHOT 22 A revolver duel resulting in the shooting of Charles Holbert of Monongah, now in Cook hospital was fought Saturday between Holbert and Randolph Saul, colored, who afterward escaped and has not been captured.

The shooting is said to have grown out of a dispute between Holbert's brother and Saul, who struck young Holbert over the head with a cane. Holbert and the negro armed themselves and went on the war path, with the result described.

No report was made of the shooting to the county officers.

Australian Wool Romance. Australian wool, on which has been built up much of the colonial prosperity justly celebrated, has a most romantic history. Its real hero was a certain Capt. John Macarthur, a soldier of the crown, whose father had fought with Prince Charlie at Culloden. Settling in New South Wales soon after Governor Phillip arrived there, he saw the possibilities for growing fine wool and by the luckiest accident was able in 1796 to import five merino ewes and three rams from Cape Colony.

They had been presented to the Dutch government there by the king of Spain from the famed Escorial flock. These, judiciously added to by Macarthur, were the beginnings of the vast Australian sheep industry of today. The first shipment of colonial wool was 245 pounds, in 1807, and now the export runs into hundreds of millions.

Shakespeare's Greenwood. Less than three hours' travel from dirty, busy London is the forest of Arden, which is hallowed in the minds of all who speak English by the fact that Shakespeare found in it the inspiration for his woodland scenes, and especially for the fantastically beautiful ones of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The great oaks under which his fairies danced still stretch out their branches over the shadow-dappled sward.

A fourth of the debris of warfare in 265 towns and villages of France has already been cleared.

LEAGUE COVENENT

gation by "smelling committees" is said that over 80 investigations have been made over two million dollars wasted and "the result has been to prove that it was the cleanest war ever fought in the history of civilization." The Republican party became so fixed in its incorrigible habit of conducting investigations that it finally turned to the fruitful task of investigating itself. They discovered fraud and graft and gross and inaccessible expenditures. The revelations disclose the fact that the meeting at Chicago was not a convention but an auction. The highest bidder, however, did not get the prize. The publicity which overtook the proceedings frustrated the initial purpose. The Chicago convention left the Democratic party as the sole custodian of the honor of the country.
