Knapp who quickly advised his client to dig up the where withal as soon as sentence was pronounced.

Quite a number of local ex-service men went to Clarksburg today to be examined by the Eighty-first Squad to see if they are entitled to receive free training in a new occupation. The men are most all disabled in some way to take up their former occupations. If they have received their disability while in the service and were honorably discharged they no doubt will receive free training.

The following list of those who went was procured at the local Red Cross headquarters and it is very probable that other men than these have gone from Fairmont who did not notify the Red Cross of their intention of doing so. Tony Trio, Jennings Keppart, Wayne Shultz, Everett, Mr. Glascock, James Poinstone, George Vogle and Earl Layman.

HOUSE BLOWN UP

Frank Banks, colored, who lives in the other half of the dynamited house. Evidently the Seven Sleepers of Ephesus haven't got a thing on Mrs. Banks and the four 'litle Banks', except the advantage of numbers for they all slept through the explosion and the ensuing excitement or until Banks returned home from a trip to Enterprise shortly afterward and awoke his wife to tell her of the crime, allowing the children, the oldest, being eight, to sleep.

"The breezy call of incense-breathing morn will soon wake them up, quoth one spectator. 'Oy ain't nothin' but the smell o' bacon 'n' aigs 'n' flapjacks 'n' coffee goin' to wake up dem kids,' grinned Banks.

Meanwhile the dogs had taken upon a muddy trail in front of the house, but nothing definite could be learned from the performance of the hounds on account of the large number of people who had been messing around the scene and the further reason that bloodhounds always work best when given the scent from something that he fugitives had touched. Nothing of the sort could be found and after making a detour of several miles the dogs returned to the starting place.

No cause can be assigned for the crime. Austen is well liked in the place, where he has been working since last January, having previously worked at Jamison No. 7 and for the Consolidation Coal Company at Idamay.

The officers arrived home at half past two this morning.

"We do hereby reconsecrate and rededicate ourselves to the sublime principles of the Republican party, and pledge our talents and our earnest efforts to bring about the reinstatement of that party in power, recognizing that the greatest achievements of the greatest republic that has ever existed have been accomplished through the application of Republican policies by those patriots and heroes whose names we revere: Lincoln, Blaine, McKinley and Roosevelt.

"We rejoice that the platform adopted by the Republican National convention at Chicago is one whose keynote is Americanism; that it embraces in its terms those declarations of principles which will preserve the sovereignty of America in America and that will insure our citizens without discrimination the highest degree of national and individual prosperity and happiness that the instrumentalities of government can assure; and we hereby give to that document and every part thereof our unqualified sanction and approval and pledge ourselves to its support.

"We rejoice that in the selection of our national standard bearer that convention acted with the highest degree of wisdom and discretion, and selected for the presidency and vice presidency men who are whole-hearted, red-blooded American citizens, fearless in the performance of public duty, standing always for the enforcement of law and order, possessing high concepts of the responsibilities of public officials, and yet withal men who realize their human limitations and that ours is a government of the people and not any one man.

"We need not pledge ourselves to their support, we could not if we would refrain from casting our ballots for the next President and

Vice President of the United States

Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

"We congratulate the Republican party of West Virginia upon the splendid personnel of the state ticket and we take special pride in the fact that at the head of that ticket stands an eminent son of Marion county, who is in every way worthy to hold in his hand the Republican banner, and who will carry it to a glorious victory in the coming election and it will be the duty as well as the pleasure of the Republicans of Marion county to see that Governor E. F. Morgan shall receive at least one thousand majority in his home county.

"The Republicans of Marion county, feeling confident not only of national and state success, but that they shall also be victorious in the county as well, have carefully selected as candidates for local offices clean, able, vigorous men, and we document to the voters of Marion county who are interested in an efficient, honest and economical administration of our business at home, the merits of the men who make up the county Republican ticket.

"And believing, as we do, that a vast majority of our citizens, regardless of their former political affiliations, have reached the conclusion for themselves that somewhere, somehow in the mechanism of the Democratic party there is a missing bolt, a broken cog, that renders it incapable of an efficient performance of governmental functions, we cordially invite the cooperation of all thoughtful and patriotic citizens to the end that we may be enabled once more to return to the sound basis of government administration where the performance of its legitimate functions and leave the individual citizen the oversight of at least a small fraction of his own business."
