A PUZZLE A DAY

A man entered the grounds of a country fair, carrying a sum of money. He found the fair grounds divided into four enclosures. See diagram. To enter enclosure A, he paid one dollar admission. In A he spent one-half of what he had left. He paid one dollar to leave A, and one dollar to enter B, where he spent one-half of what he had left. He spent one dollar to leave B, and one dollar to enter C, where he spent one-half of what he still had. He paid one dollar to leave C, and one dollar to enter D. There he spent one-half of what he still had, and paid a dollar to leave. He then found that he had nothing. How much did he start with? Yesterday's answer: Who reigneth in all pride and rage. To neither vice a prey, May hope to reach a ripe old age And find therein his stay. The words "reineith," "neither" and "therin" are composed of the same seven letters.

$10,000 DAMAGE SUIT UNDER WAY

Jury Returns a Verdict in Favor of Plaintiff in Hill Case.

The Circuit Court jury in the case of J. Calvin Hill vs. S. C. Moyer and C. H. Weaver returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff today and assessed the damages at $563.98. Mr. Hill was suing on a note for $50 and interest. The case had been stubbornly fought and had occupied the attention of the court for two and a half days.

At the close of this case, the case of Frank McCary vs. the Monongahela Traction Co. was called for trial. Attorneys Tunes Morris and O. E. Swartz are representing the traction company. Attorneys Hary Shaw and Frank Haymond, the plaintiff.

The jurors selected to hear the case, after a number of men had been "dropped" from the panel because they were interested in the traction company or had been at the scene of the accident on which the case is based, were William W. Hayhurst, J. M. Ashcraft, D. L. Tennant, D. A. Hibbs, Lawrence Fontaine, Minter Bell, Denzil Eflaw, Jess L. Floyd, Charles A. Hall, Elmer W. Wilcox, George Fleming and James W. Freeland. R. O. Nuzum, court stenographer, was sworn to make a transcript of the evidence in the case.

The first scrimmage between the lawyers came right after the jury was sworn, when O. E. Swartz asked permission to open the case. This met with an objection from Attorney Haymond of counsel for the plaintiff, and after Judge Meredith had discussed the merits of the arguments at length Attorney Shaw of course for the plaintiff again objected. The motion of Attorney Swartz was overruled by the court and the case proceeded.

McCary, who is a colored man, is suing the traction company for $10,000 damages for injuries received when two cars of the company had a head on collision near Grant Town in September, 1920. The case promises to be one of the hardest fought cases from a legal standpoint during the present term of court, and it will probably take the rest of the week to finish the case. Another case, the outgrowth of the same accident, will also be heard at this term of court.

On account of the time taken to dispose of the Hill vs. Moyer-Weaver case and the time necessary to dispose of the present case, the docket will have to be revised the first of the week.
