BURLINGTON AND VICINITY.

Interesting city, county and state news will be found on the fourth page of this paper.

Meeting of the Board of Trade.

The meeting of the Board of Trade Tuesday evening was reasonably well attended. In the absence of the President, Vice-President J. C. Kennedy presided. The resignation of Hon. Levi Underwood as President of the Board was read by the Secretary, and on motion it was accepted. Interesting remarks on the advantages of Burlington for various branches of manufacturing, were made by C. J. Alger, Esq., Mr. Kennedy, Lawrence Barnes, B. S. Nichols, and others. The petition of a number of citizens requesting the Board to call a general meeting of property-holders and men of business to consider the subject of inaugurating some new manufacturing enterprises, was referred to the Executive Committee of the Board, with authority to call such a meeting in their discretion. The meeting then, on motion of Judge Wales, adjourned to next Monday evening, at the same place. The business done was mainly preliminary; but the feeling of the meeting, so far as it found expression, was excellent; and we believe it will lead to important results in the future.

The Burlington and Lamoille Railroad Company have opened an office in the room in the Merchant's National Bank Building, formerly occupied by the Ethan Allen Express Company.

BUTTER AND CHEESE MARKET, MAY 10th.—Butter a little lower to-day. Sales range from 15 to 21 cents, according to quality. Of cheese about 150 boxes were offered. Sales 7 to 13 cents. Factories 10 to 15 cents.

THE BOSTON BUTTER MARKET, MAY 11th. The market was the same as last week with little offering. Common to fair, 15 to 18 cents; medium to good, 20 cents; selections 21 cents; gilt edge 22 cents.

A exceptionally large and well assorted stock of boots and shoes may be found at H. B. Mooney's, on Church Street. His stock is always complete, embracing all the various styles from the most reliable manufacturers, and it would be difficult to name any kind of goods in the line not to be found in his shelves. As an illustration of the prices at which he sells his goods see his new advertisement in this paper.

FREE.—The retirement of our young townsman, F. H. Wilkins, from the firm of Wilkins & F. H. Wilkins, has been followed by the formation of a partnership elsewhere advertised, entered into between Messrs. W. H. Wilkins and Silas Lyman, all of this city. Mr. Lyman is a young gentleman of good business capacity and wide acquaintance, and the new firm will retain the good will of the old, and have the best wishes of numerous friends. Mr. F. H. Wilkins goes to Chicago, where some flattering business relations have been laid out for him.

Captain A. S. Drew and Secretary W. L. Weber, of the Ethan Allen Engine Company, No. 4, went to Troy, Monday, for the purpose of presenting to Trojan Hooks, No. 2, the resolutions heretofore entered in those columns, as a committee in behalf of their company. On arriving in the city they proceeded to the Hooks' house, where the company was already in session, and their ingress announced to his men that the committee of the Ethans had arrived and desired two men to bring in the hose. On entering, Mr. McDonald, chairman of the meeting, addressed the committee, and among those to Troy Captain Drew was, in a few fitting words, presented the resolutions to the Hooks, and Mr. McDonald responded in a most little speech, the resolutions of which a general invitation was given out to adjourn to the American House and "view the remains." At the latter an elegant collation was spread, and an hour was pleasantly spent in discussing the eatables and in friendly conversation. At length the hour of departure arrived and the representatives of the Ethans were escorted to the depot and the Hooks "were on call" with songs and cheers and many kind wishes. The occasion was a very pleasant and interesting one, and will bind the two companies yet closer in friendly relations.

SNOWSTORM.—A terrific storm of thunder and lightning, rain, wind and hail-storm visited this town Saturday night, continuing for several hours. Hail stones were picked up and found 14 inches in circumference. There was another severe thunder storm Sunday night. An immense quantity of rain has fallen.

Lloyd Parker, an old resident, died last Thursday, aged 76. He had resided in town upward of fifty years and until quite recently has been quite active in town matters.

The Catholic school is in a prosperous condition, having in attendance 160 scholars, employing five teachers at an expense of $700 per year.

PARTNERSHIP.—The first spring lot of logs for the lumber mills of C. E. Norton, of Plattsburgh, arrived on Sunday, last, and on Monday the mills started on full time.

Scarlatina prevails to some extent in Plattsburgh and vicinity. Three cases have proved fatal.

Mr. Spear, of Spear Bros., butters in Plattsburgh, with his wife and two children had a narrow escape from very serious injury on Sunday last. Their horse took fright and tarrying shoot around tumbled the family into the ditch with the carriage upon them. No bones broken, children short. Parents bruised but not dangerously.

SUMMARY.—Last Saturday morning Drs. Porter, Sutton, Eddy and Rose, performed a second amputation of the right arm of Abel Allen, lately caught in a circular saw. Much fear is now entertained that he cannot live, as he is very low.

Rev. S. Washburn, of the M. E. C. entered upon his new field of labor in Colchester, last Sabbath. In the evening the Congregational Sunday School gave a missionary concert. These exercises are becoming very fully attended, and are resulting in much good.

ADJOURN.—At the annual convocation of Hill Chapter, No. 11, held at the Lodge Room Wednesday, May 5th, the following officers were elected:

M. L. Mott, M. E. H. P.; P. Vantine, E. K.; Maj. Geo. B. Sawles, E. S.; W. N. Lewis, Secy.; W. W. Rockwell, Treas.; C. H. L. Sawles, C. H.; Geo. Lyman, P. S.; Geo. H. Sawles, R. A. C.; L. E. Sawles, M. 3rd V.; C. M. Clark, M. 2d V.; C. B. Russell, M. 1st V.; Wm. W. Brown, Sentinel.

The town pays tax this year on 106 dogs, which amounts to as much as the tax on six hundred acres of land or $100 worth of personal property. There are 292 polls, which makes the average a little more than one dog to every third man.

The spring is very backward. The ground is very wet, the frost not being out yet and, but very little work has been done.

Hubbard Mott, of Rouses Point, N.Y., was put off the train last week at this place because he refused to pay the extra fifteen cents charged by the company. He claims he asked the agent for a ticket and he refused to give him one. The agent says he did not hear him ask for one. Mr. Mott and the agent were not good friends and he says he will sue the company for damages.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The Green Mountain Association of Universalists will hold their annual meeting in Chester, Wednesday and Thursday, June 9th and 10th. A full attendance is desired. Delegates will be required to bring written reports of their respective parishes. There will be an occasional sermon by the Rev. E. Hewitt, of Woodstock. Subject: "Church Organization"; a lecture by the Rev. Dr. Eli Ballou, of South Woodstock. Subject: "Temperance"; an essay by the Rev. J. F. Simmons, of Springfield. Subject: "How Shall We Retain Adults in the Sunday School?" The Chester parish extends an invitation to all, and entertainment will be furnished for all who attend. The Central Vermont Railroad will furnish half fare tickets to all who have paid full fare in going to the Association.

The Ticonderoga Centennial.

A SUCCESSFUL CELEBRATION—FIVE THOUSAND PERSONS PRESENT—VERMONT WELL REPRESENTED.

Though Monday morning broke dismal and dreary enough, and there was every indication of a long storm, notwithstanding Old Probabilities' flattering prophecy of clear weather, there gathered in the staunch steamer Montreal a goodly company of some six hundred persons, all told, on the way to the centennial celebration of the greatest deed of Vermont's most illustrious hero. Among the excursionists were Lieutenant-Governor Lyman G. Hinckley, of Chelsea; Generals Stannard, Wells, Barstow, Henry and Foster; Colonels Oscar B. Ferguson and C. F. Spaulding; Dr. A. P. Grinnell, and Messrs. W. W. Walker and Edward Wells, of this city; a goodly representation of Post Stannard, G. A. R., and the Ethan Allen Engine Company, forty-five strong, carrying with them their new and elegant spider. The First Regiment, National Guards, was represented by Lieutenant-Colonel W. L. Greenleaf, of Winooski, Major Darius Martin, of Middlebury, and Quartermaster William Smith, of this city. Last in the list but not least was the Sherman Band, of Winooski, whose excellent music added much to the enjoyment of the occasion, and whose praise was in everyone's mouth. With good music and good company the time passed rapidly away, and, as a special providence to the excursionists, the clerk of the weather was pleased to hold the rain in abeyance, except an occasional sprinkle.

At Essex the company was augmented by a party of seven, headed by the Rev. J. W. Sands, and Mr. S. W. Clark, of Willsboro. At Westport it was found that the steamer Corlew had anticipated the Montreal by an hour or two, and had thus basely cheated it out of a number of passengers. At about 11 o'clock an elegant "spread" was provided by the Ethans, to which full justice was done, and at noon the steamer arrived at her destination.

THE ARRIVAL AT TICONDEROGA.

On arriving at Ticonderoga the steamer was saluted with volleys of musketry by the Barlow Grays, who were drawn up on shore, and the firing of cannon, and at the steamboat landing the party was met by the Vergennes Cornet Band and the Stevens Hose Company, also of that ancient city, and escorted to Wicker's Hotel. Here the line was broken and some time given up to the interchange of friendly greeting and the agreeable pastime of lunch. The Ethans' spider, in the meantime, was quite the centre of attraction, and the appearance and bearing of the company were very highly praised on all sides.

THE FESTIVITIES.

The visiting organizations, aside from those on the Montreal, consisted of the Barlow Grays, forty strong, and the Brigade Band, of St. Albans; Post Stevenson, 75 in number, and the Cornet Band, 17 pieces, of Port Henry; Post Roberts, forty in number, and the Brigade Drum Corps, of Bethel; Stevens Hose and the Cornet Band, Vergennes; the Whitehall Cornet Band and the Bristol Cornet Band. The steamer Corlew, Captain A. Crane, took down about 150 citizens of Vergennes, including Mayor Hopkins, Gen. George W. Grandey, Rev. C. Ingles Chapin, Mr. J. G. Hinds and many others. Whitehall was represented by a delegation of about 100 citizens; Rutland, 300, including Hon. Chas. B. Jones, Col. Redfield Proctor, J. H. Hamilton, and others; and Brandon, 75.

THE PARADE.

Among the representatives of the press present were Hon. Henry Clark and W. G. Mason, Rutland Globe; Rev. S. E. Puttergill and Joseph Auld, Rutland Herald; Hon. Albert Clarke, St. Albans Messenger; Louius Bigelow, St. Albans Advertiser; Hon. Geo. H. Bigelow, Burlington Sentinel; Col. L. E. Knapp, Middlebury Register; H. M. Mott, Brandon Union; W. P. Hill, Montpelier Argus and Patriot; W. H. Tefft, Whitehall Chronicle; W. A. Williams, Whitehall Times; H. W. Blair, Troy Times; A. S. Pease, Saratoga Sun; M. B. Hately, New York Tribune; Karl Kane, New York Herald; Julian Scott, New York Graphic; Edward Crapsey, New York Times; Messrs. Johnson and Van Benthuysen, Fort Penn and Times; Dr. T. M. Tobin, of the Ticonderoga Sentinel, did everything in his power for the convenience of visiting editors and reporters. Mr. Scott had been at Ticonderoga for two or three days, taking sketches of the ruins of the fort and other objects of historical interest for the New York Graphic.

THE RETURN VOYAGE.

Gen. John Hammond, of Crown Point, who was originally appointed marshal of the day, was detained at home by illness, and the management of the procession was entrusted to Joseph Ezell, formerly Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fifth New York volunteers.

At about two o'clock the procession was formed in the following order:

Marshal of the Day and Aids.
St. Albans Brigade Band.
Barlow Grays.
Representatives of the Press.
Orators of the Day.
Invited Guests.
Stevens Hose and Band.
Ethan Allen Engine Company.
Vergennes Cornet Band.
Sherman Band.
Bristol Band and Bethel Drum Corps.
Post Roberts.
Post Stannard.
Ticonderoga Cornet Band.
Post Albert Wood.
Whitehall Cornet Band.
Fort Henry Cornet Band.
Citizens.

The procession formed in front of Wicker's Hotel and marched through the fields and up the hill to the ruins of the old fort. Just as the procession was forming the sun broke through the clouds which had so long obscured it, and as the long train marched up the green hill, with flying colors and drums beating, with the lake glistening in the sunshine below, the ruins with their sacred associations rearing their time-worn front above, the scene was a most picturesque and striking one. Arrived at the ruins a number of seats had been provided for the accommodation of spectators, but they proved lamentably inadequate and by far the larger proportion were forced to stand. Conservative judges estimate the whole number of persons present as not far from 5,000—certainly a very gratifying figure. And en passant, before the procession is dismissed, it may be said that no amount of patriotism could see anything sacred or venerable about the mud, which was of the worst possible consistency and of unfathomable depth.

AT THE FORT.

The President of the day, the Hon. William C. Calkins, of Ticonderoga, first called for music from the Sherman Band, to which they responded with "Yankee Doodle," and gave it in admirable style. The Rev. L. N. Price, pastor of the Congregational Church of Ticonderoga, then offered a prayer, after which the Port Henry Band discoursed most excellent music. Next in order came the

ADDRESS OF WELCOME

For address of welcome was delivered by the Hon. W. E. Calkins, of Ticonderoga, as follows:

Next in the order of business, according to the programme, comes the infliction upon you of a short speech by myself. I came home from Albany to run a pie-nic, and this is the "pie-nic" I am expected to run! It seems proper for us to catch inspiration from the Camp-Fires around us and recall to memory the capture of Ticonderoga by Ethan Allen in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress. Here on this consecrated ground, was the first harvest of prisoners of the Revolution; here the first place where the drilled regulars of a foreign foe stacked arms to the yeomanry of America; here the first intimation that crowns might crumble and kingdoms pass away; here the ensign of monarchy and despotism was punctured, and men learned to assert and maintain their inalienable rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. We are told by the bold and daring commander, that the enterprise was executed in the gray of the morning of the 10th of May, 1775; that the sun seemed to rise on that morning with a superior lustre, and Ticonderoga and its dependencies smiled on its conquerers.

I bid a hearty welcome to all in behalf of Posts Weed and Stevenson, of the Grand Army of the Republic, to whose unflinching energy and perseverance the ceremonies of this day are chiefly due. We cannot be unmindful that the actors of a hundred years ago heed not the drum beat of to-day, but we feel assured that their spirits are "marching on," and when the marble which marks the resting place of Ethan Allen and his eighty-three Green Mountain Boys shall have yielded to the crumbling hand of time, their memories and examples will live, gathering brighter lustre with increasing centuries.

In conclusion, the speaker welcomed the large delegation from his own native State, Vermont.

Mr. Calkins then introduced to the audience, in a few fitting words, the orator of the day, the Rev. Joseph Cook, formerly of Ticonderoga, but now of Boston, a brief and imperfect abstract of whose address is given below. Mr. Cook spoke with earnestness and force, and at times with true eloquence, and was frequently interrupted with applause.

MR. COOK'S ORATION.

This is a soil older than Plymouth Rock. In 1609, eleven years before the voyage of the Mayflower began, Samuel Champlain fought a battle with the Iroquois not far from the spot where Ethan Allen landed in the early dawn, one hundred years ago. By virtue of their discovery of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi the French claimed dominion over all the land watered by the tributaries of those great rivers. The English claimed the same territory, and the dispute was settled by the arbitrament of arms on the heights of Quebec. Over this soil have floated the competing flags of three nations. This majestic spot befits the scene and the commemoration of mighty events. I have passed weeks, almost, on the Acropolis of Athens; I have ascended Mount Parnassus; I have strolled over the fateful fields of Troy; I have wandered over the ruins of Baalbec, and stood on the plain of Marathon; but I am fascinated with Ticonderoga and Lake George. We are on the old continent. Of the northern mountains the Adirondacks first came above the waters—they are older than the Green Mountains, the Alleghanies and the mighty Mississippi. And here as on the plains of Troy the plans of God are accomplished.

Mr. Cook then spoke of the historic spot on which they stood, and gave a somewhat detailed description of the fort. It is the best preserved ruin, all things taken into consideration, on this continent. Here is a ruin which may well compare with scores on the banks of the Rhine. And aside from its historic traditions it has a romance of another kind. During the French occupation of the fort a beautiful Indian girl was imprisoned in it, and was pursued and tormented with the unholy love of a French officer. At length, to escape his attacks, she flung herself from the parapet and fell crushed and lifeless on the rocks beneath. She had saved her honor, but at the expense of her life, and the rocks would be for ever glorified by the deed.

Ethan Allen was only 38 years old when he captured the fort. At that time the patriots around Boston lacked powder, and this lack of powder was one of the causes that led to the capture of the fort. Samuel Adams and John Hancock planned the deed for the purpose of obtaining ammunition. But one of Allen's chief motives in performing the act was to obtain control of Lake Champlain and through it of Canada. The chief epochs in Ethan Allen's life were his career before Ticonderoga; his capture of the fort; his attack on Montreal; his imprisonment, and the final noble but crippled years of his life. Constitutionally and politically he was the father of Vermont. He protected the State and at last by statesmanship brought it into the Union. My purpose now is to gather some leaves for the nation from each part of Ethan Allen's life and career. Purer than the blue of this blue sky was the patriotism of Ethan Allen. Let us imagine what he might say to us in regard to the threats and the promises of our national future. If he stood here to-day he would have wide views of America's future. They would be greater than he dreamed of and greater than we now dream. If he were here to-day he would prophesy for us for a century hence a great country, with a population of 150,000,000, united, possibly, in one language and one religion. The morality of the Decalogue and of the Sermon on the Mount would be the morality of science. To croakers and pessimists he would say, you managed slavery in the first century of the Republic, in the second you can have no greater task. So much for what Ethan Allen would say of the nation.

The orator then read Ethan Allen's own account of the capture of the fort, and at the conclusion called for three cheers for the gallant 83 Green Mountain Boys through whom Allen accomplished the deed, which were given with a will. Mr. Cook then resumed. The 39 prisoners then taken were the first of the revolution. This was the first place where trained regulars gave up their arms to untrained Americans. One hundred years hence we will be undisturbed by the congratulations interchanged between one hundred and fifty million people.

One hundred and fifty years ago this fortress belonged to the French, but it was also Jehovah's. Sixty years later it belonged to the British, but still it was Jehovah's; to-day Americans hold it, but it is Jehovah's. It is the solemn responsibility of every American citizen to find what way Jehovah is moving, and to move with him. The diffusion of conscientiousness must keep pace with liberty, intelligence and material wealth. Sole republicanism is compounded only with these elements. Americans must not be without standards of the highest order. God is, not was; God was, and is, and is to come. Forever our nation is Jehovah's, and by means to diffuse conscientiousness as much as liberty, intelligence and material wealth.

THE RETURN VOYAGE.

The hour for the return voyage had now come, and without waiting for the remaining exercises—which embraced much of the highest interest—the excursionists returned to the Montreal. The trip from Ticonderoga to Burlington was enlivened by music by the band—who proved very liberal in the matter of encores—singing, etc. A dancing party was formed and a number of couples tripped the light tantastic to Strauss's latest until the increasing breath of old Boreas and the shortening of that of the musicians warned them to desist. The Ethans saved several persons from death by starvation by another elegant collation which they served, and all went merry as a marriage bell. At length Burlington was reached and the excursionists disappeared from public view, to the pleasant accompaniments of a torchlight procession and music by the band, all, we are sure, having spent a most enjoyable day and saddened only by the thought that pressing engagements would detain them from the next centennial at Ticonderoga.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Samuel Campbell, of Rutland, great grandfather of our townsman, Geo. H. Hagar, Esq., was one of the famous eighty-three who composed Allen's force at the capture of the fort.

Among the visitors at Ti, Monday, was J. E. Parker, of Whiting, a grandson of Major Beach who made the famous sixty-mile walk to alarm the Green Mountain Boys. Mr. Parker has in his possession a locket containing a picture of Major Beach, a cane he once owned, and a white waistcoat with medallions worked in black silk presented to him by Washington as a recognition of his services.

The Montreal was under the command of Captain J. H. Manville, of Whitehall, who proved himself a most courteous and accommodating officer, taking every care for the comfort of his passengers. On disembarking at Burlington, by way of a vote of thanks, three cheers and a "tiger" were given for Captain Manville with enthusiasm.

It is, perhaps, ungracious to find fault, now the centennial is over, but we may say that the telegraphic arrangements were wretchedly defective, both through the lack of operators and the extreme distance of the office from the scene of action. Another thing which caused much comment was the almost incredible number of men who were lying around loose in an intoxicated condition, and the frequency with which the proceedings were interrupted by battles royal between these persons.

LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS RECEIVED FROM GOV. TILDEN.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
Executive Chamber, Albany,
May 6, 1875.

T. M. Tobin, Esq.

SIR—The Governor sincerely regrets that pressing official engagements in the closing days of the session will make it impossible for him to accept your kind invitation to attend the centennial celebration at Ticonderoga. May 10th.

Very truly yours,
W. T. FELTON.

FROM A DESCENDANT OF ONE OF ALLEN'S SOLDIERS.

DETROIT, Mich., May 10.

Abel Bigelow Torrey, son of Lieutenant Samuel Torrey, raised the company which entered Fort Ticonderoga with Ethan Allen, one hundred years ago, to-day, sends greeting and in spirit joins you in commemorating the deeds of that brave band. He asks you to join him in honoring to the memory of his father, from whose lips he has so often heard the recital of how they captured the fort, one hundred years ago.

ABEL BIGELOW TORREY.

FROM A GRANDSON OF ETHAN ALLEN.

NEW YORK, May 10.

To the Ticonderoga Centennial Committee:

I expected to be with you, to-morrow, but found that I could not be with you until 2.45 p. m.

ETHAN ALLEN,
Grandson of Ethan Allen.

The St. Johnsbury Caledonian announces the failure of George H. & J. M. Weeks, of Lyndon, for $125,000. Their assets are large, but they are in houses and lands and mills and mortgages that cannot be turned into money just now to advantage.

Burlington's Second Spelling Match.

City Hall was well filled, Tuesday evening, with one of our best audiences, on the occasion of the second spelling match of the season. Nearly sixty martyrs ranged themselves on the stage and calmly awaited the orthographic boulders about to be hurled at them by Professor C. S. Halsey, the enunciator. The referees were the Rev. L. G. Ware, Hon. M. R. Tyler and W. L. Barnap, Esq. The first three victims were ladies, who stepped down and out on "endeese," "guage," and "spurm" (for "sperm") respectively. Then the ranks were rapidly thinned by such severe spells as the following: Omlet (the first male victim), excuseable, colloseum, himeneal (by a lady), ralery (for raillery), gugular, crisypelas, releive, seige, mignonnet, blueing, confuseable, confusible, nastertium, asphixia, ipecacuhana, seignory, and wassel. Mr. Cartright, of the Sophomore class of the U. V. M. went down on "sarment" (for "cerement"); City Grand Juror E. F. Brownell on "tyme" (for "thyme"); O. J. Walker, Esq., on "sensient" (for "sentient"); Col. Chapman on "pussilanamity" (after having spelled it correctly on the first trial); and Mr. Cutler, of the Junior Class of the U. V. M., on "tranquility." Finally the ranks were narrowed down to one gentlemen and five ladies, when the former—Mr. N. Learned—retired to the ante-room on "abhurence," and the ladies were left alone, having entirely vanquished and put to flight all the representatives of the sterner sex. These were Misses Belle Crooker, Mollie Henry, Annie Barker, Isadora Kelton, and Helen Slayton. The contest now became sharp and decisive. Miss Kelton was the first of the immortal five to succumb, "chyropodist" not being allowed by either dictionary. The next martyr to the shades of Webster was Miss Barker, "ichyology" doing the business, and Miss Henry was soon called upon to condole with her predecessors on "thi rarefic." Only two contestants now remained and the balance long was doubtful. Polysyllables had no terrors for either and for some time it seemed as if the dictionary-makers would emerge from the fray vanquished. The interest of the audience grew intense. At length Prof. Halsey pleasantly enunciated the dubious word "tactotube." Miss Crooker spelled it with a double "t" and retired amid loud applause, which her generally excellent spelling and clear enunciation richly deserved. This gave the first prize, a copy of Webster's Unabridged, to Miss Helen Slayton, of Stowe, Vermont, a member of the Freshman Class of the U. V. M., who was cheered to the echo. The second prize, a copy of Longfellow's latest poem, "The Hanging of the Crane," was awarded to Miss Crooker.

The match was a very successful one, to a pecuniary point of view, the net receipts being $70, which will go to the Home for Destitute Children. The spelling was, on the whole, very good, and showed considerable proficiency, but the great drawback to the enjoyment of this as well as the previous match, was the fact that the letters were enunciated by the spellers—especially the ladies—in so low a tone of voice that it was impossible for the referees to follow the spelling, much less those more remote, in the body of the hall.

PERSONAL.

Miss Caroline M. Crane, of whose love by the wreck of the Schiller there is now no reasonable doubt, was a daughter of Mr. Thomas Crane, formerly of Berkshire, Mass. Miss Crane was for a season teacher at the Norton, Mass., Seminary and was a lady of rare accomplishments. She was the great grand-daughter of the late Rev. Thos. Andros, of Berkeley, and, as has been said, was a niece of Mrs. George P. Marsh, after whom she was named Caroline Marsh. She will be sadly lamented by a wide circle.

At the recent annual meeting of the National Prison Association, in New York city, E. J. Phelps, Esq., of this city, was appointed a member of the standing committee on criminal law reform, and the Rev. Franklin Butler, of Windsor, of that on discharged convicts.

J. S. Walton, Esq., for some thirty years editor and proprietor of the Sherbrooke Gazette, of Sherbrooke, P. Q., died on the 27th ult. He was a native of Peacham, Vt., and an uncle of the Hon. L. F. Walton, of Montpelier. Deceased was an earnest advocate and a zealous worker for all enterprises calculated to promote the moral and material welfare of the community, and his death will be sincerely mourned by many outside of those brought under his immediate influence.

Madame De Rythor, one of the most popular vocalists in New York, has accepted the position of soloist in the choir of St. George's church, in that city.

Mrs. W. N. Oliver is no longer the soprano of Grace church, New York, but has engaged herself to Camilla Urso, as the soloist of her concert company, and intends leaving the city with that troupe soon.

Rev. Nehemiah L. Chase, a well-known Methodist clergyman, of Manchester, N. H., died suddenly in that city, Tuesday, of paralysis, aged 61 years. He was born in Middlesex, Vt., and during his ministry he was stationed in many places in Vermont and New Hampshire. About six years ago he retired from the Conference on account of feeble health, and became an agent of the New Hampshire Bible Society. He was greatly esteemed by his brethren in the ministry, and the people to whom he ministered. He leaves a widow and an adopted daughter. His remains were taken to the place of his birth for interment, yesterday.

Rev. Justin K. Richardson was installed pastor of the First Baptist Church at Rutland, on Tuesday.

THE REFORM SCHOOL.—The Trustees of the Reform School have decided to go on and remodel the arsenal buildings at Vergennes and adapt them, as well as possible, to the wants and purposes of the institution. The plans are not yet fully made, but probably the old officers' quarters will be converted into the girls' reformatory, the arsenal into work rooms, school rooms and a dormitory for the boys, and a new building of wood will be added to the barracks for officers' quarters, the hospital and culinary purposes. The arrangement, however, may be changed.

RICHMOND.—Rev. D. S. Frost, of Jonesville, who has preached there for several past, has removed to St. Albans. The best wishes of his many friends attend him. He has preached between fourteen hundred and fifteen hundred funeral sermons, in his life, and is good for a good many more.

Robert Towers, Esq., of Richmond, is one of our modern patriarchs, having six sons who are men grown and two daughters. He has had a son, a young man, a few years ago. His eldest son, John has been conductor on the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad for several years past. He has been at home a part of the winter but returned last week to New Orleans. Four other children also left home last week; one for New York, two for Barre to attend school, and another Frank Penn, who recently graduated from the Bellevue (N. Y.) medical college.

Geo. Barnum has rented and moved into the corner store built by J. P. Barnum.

It is still no uncommon thing to see full grown men with rod and line, passing up and down the little streams, going through all the motions of fishing; but where trout were once quite plenty nothing but minnows are now found.

Richmond has not got the spelling mania yet, but the ladies are working like beavers to cushion and carpet the church, and a special invitation is extended to the gentlemen to appear on the 11th instant at the church, armed and equipped with hammers and stretchers, to lay the carpets. The house is now nearly completed. It will be some weeks before it will be ready for use. Great credit is due the ladies for their perseverance in this enterprise; they have raised in one way and another for it within the last three years about $700. The whole cost will be about $2,000.

A national convention of bank cashiers and bankers is to be held on the 20th of July next, at Saratoga. The object of the convention is a free discussion of questions relating to banking and finance generally.

LIQUOR RAID IN EDEN.—The Newsdealer of the 5th, says:—On Monday Deputy Sheriff Stevens, proceeded to the inn of Benj. Scott, with a warrant to search for liquor, seize the "critter" and arrest the owner. Mr. Scott was informed of his business, and showed him into his bar, and a small quantity of liquor found. Stevens then proposed to go down the cellar to make further search, but to this Mr. Scott demurred. The officer expressed a determination to go down, and Mr. Scott was equally determined that he should not and informed him that he would never live to get down there. Stevens said he should go down or die, whereupon Scott collared him and called for help and his family gathered around and indulged in language more vigorous than elegant, but the determined officer was too much for them, and soon rolled out of the cellar hatchway about 200 gallons of old Kentucky and Ohio bourbon valued at nearly a thousand dollars. Scott was arrested on charge of selling and about a hundred witnesses subpœned. The trial was held yesterday, before justice Stevens when a plea of guilty of eight offences was entered. Scott was fined $80 and costs, both amounting to over $130, and an appeal taken.

LINCOLN.—Officers of Lincoln Valley Lodge No. 97, I. O. of G. T., for the quarter ending Aug. 1st, 1875: Rev. D. F. Brooks, W. C. T.; Jennie Brooks, V. T.; Phebe Batchelder, S.; E. S. Stearns, F. S.; E. Purinton, T.; W. W. Pope, C.; M. Barton, M.; D. W. Stearns, P. W. C. T.; J. C. Dow, Sen.; L. S. Varney, A. S.; Mary Gove, D. M.; Eliza Chamberlain, R. H. S.; Georgiana Barton, L. H. S.

LAMOILLE COUNTY ITEMS.—Belvidere is rejoicing in snow drifts.

The Directors of the Morrisville Fair Ground Company have voted to have a horse trot on the 30th of June and 1st of July, at which $1,500 in purses will be offered.

Mr. Gates, principal of the People's Academy and Morrisville Graded School, has resigned that position. He will be succeeded by Prof. Blanchard, of Iowa, who had charge of the school in 1861, and left it to enter the army. The new building is rapidly approaching completion and will be one of the most commodious school buildings in the State. The main building is 40 x 72 with a projection for stairs 12 x 34. The first and second floors are divided into three rooms each with a hall on the third floor 32 x 66. The rooms are large and well lighted. A hall which will seat 600 people forms a part of the building.

By requisition of the Governor of Vermont upon Governor Tilden, it became the duty of Sheriff Delong last Saturday, to arrest Albert Meacham, indicted for burglary in Lamoille county, Vt. The criminal was stopping in the town of Dickinson at the time, and observing the approach of the officer put on a dress and a shaker bonnet and started for the woods. The officer was not long in suspicious and started too, overhauling him after a sharp chase, and delivering him to the officer from Vermont.—Malone Palladium.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—It seems a little early to be chronicling damage by lightning; but in Rutland, during the thunder storm, Sunday morning, the lightning struck the roof near one of the chimneys of Geo. I. White's marble shop, and passed down to the cellar, tearing off plastering, splitting rafters and floors, and setting fire to the building, which was soon extinguished with a few pails of water. The building was pretty well shaken, and some families occupying the building were considerably frightened.

At Smithfield Falls, the lightning struck a barn belonging to N. S. Warner, and killed a horse which was standing in an adjoining barn, the buildings standing at right angles with each other. Three horses were standing together, but the other two were uninjured.

The American Era, of Boston, a staunch and able Baptist paper, will celebrate its Quarter Centennial by the gift of the paper to all new subscribers until next January, for 25 cents.

REMARKS.

Veals—The live stock trade were all in early on getting a lot of which can be made by Williams & Co., and that is the result for the market until Tuesday noon, arriving Northern to the south of cattle on sale. The market for cattle was not particularly active, but prices were not lower, and sales were made as they came forward, at about the same prices as last week. With a light arrival, we find the market without important change from last week.

Sheep—Buyers were not disposed to pay advance of prices this week, there being considerable many sheep over to sale. Handsome purchase of both kinds of sheep and lambs. The range is from 4½ to 5½ c for common to choice sheep, with a few extra fancy lots at 6c. The spring lambs are on the increase, selling to-day from 6@8c ₱ lb., as to quality.

Poultry—Something like one-half of poultry laid at this meeting. Price ranges from 15@16c ₱ lb.

STOCKS firm but quiet early in the day, the only interesting feature being Pacific Mail and Erie which nearly monopolized the business during the afternoon. The rise in Pacific Mail was the result of Pacific Mail, Wabash and Panama. It was reported that the contract between the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. and the Panama Railroad Co. had not been signed, and as a consequence Panama dropped from 130 to 124, and Pacific Mail from 43½ to 44. Wabash declined from 12½ to 11. Market closed up rather steadier.

The transactions aggregated 373,000 shares, with the principal dealings as follows: Erie, 49,000; Lake Shore 15,500; Pacific Mail, 57,500; Western Union, 15,000; Wabash, 10,000; Union Pacific, 50,000.
