MIL EDMUNDS'S POSITION.

He will be a Candidate for Re-Election-Feeling about Him at his Home.

[W. E. Barrett to Boston Advertiser.] I called on Senator Edmunds at his home, a plain brick house, modernized within. It stands back from one of the shaded streets which lead up from the centre of the town to the college, and is much improved by the repairs made a year ago. The inside is encerfully, but not extravagantly, furnished, for the family live here less than half the year, and will move into a new house in Washington when they return there next week. Mr. Editor in the legislature. This opposition will die out long before that hady meets. In the course of a long talk, Mr. Smultey, while expressing has personal desirethey return there next week. Mr. Edmunds was very cheerful and looking in still actively at work for him, whenever a legislature meets or any railroad interests are at stake. Hatch is very careful, tery shrewd, and leaves no tracks behind. He boasts, with reason, that he is securely intrenched in Smith's innermost combined in the many in the second of the talk made by all the Smith party. He says that Smith has not even infirmated to him a desire to be senator, but it is evident that Mr. Hatch does not desire Mr. Edmund's return. He thinks that the opposition to it is general, and that it will not be aliayed until the senator makes an explanation of his reasons for refusing to indorse Blaine, which shall be "satisfactory." He predicts that Edmunds will make trouble for himself this winter over the questions of confirming Collector Smalley and Postmaster Redington at Bullynd. "Why "he are sufficient to the state of the predicts that Edmunds will see the predicts that Edmunds will not be aliayed until the senator makes to indorse Blaine, which shall be "satisfactory." He predicts that Edmunds will make trouble for himself this winter over the questions of confirming Collector Smalley and Postmaster Redington at Bullynd. "Why "he was sufficient to the strain of the production of the productio factory." He predicts that Edmunds will make trouble for himself this winter over the questions of confirming Collector Smalley and Postmaster Redington at Rutland. "Why," he says, "if Edmunds does not defeat them, the stalwart Republicans will be angry with him and think that he is lukewarm. If he does, then they and the whole bemocratic party will unite with the anti-Edmunds Republicans to beat him. The Democrats will have more men than usual in the next legislature, and they will act as a unit in whatever way Smalley, Atkins and Redington say." Mr. Hatch is also afraid that the Edmunds people will have hard work to choose a Republican representative from Burlington next year, for he thinks that the anti-Edmunds folks are strong enough to prevent that. In fact, he takes a gloomy view in general of the Edmunds outlook, while being particularly careful to deny that he is absolutely sare that Governor Smith will be a candidate.

Mr. Hatch says that, if Smith had so sire that Governor Status will be a fundidate.

Mr. Hatch says that, if Smith had so desired, he impaint have illed the chair at Washington so long corupted by Edmunds. "I cause home from Senator Foote's funeral," he tells me, "on the car with Governor Dillingham and Governor Smith. All the way Governor Dillingham was nightly the latter to accept the appointment to the vacabey. He steadily refused, for the reason that he entitle and leave his railroad at that time. When we got off the train Dillingham asked him again. He declined, and then the governor sand he should have to take some one else. He went to a instel, sent for Edmunds, and in tall an hour he was appointed. Twice since, Governor Smith could munds, and in tail an hour he was ap-pointed. Twice since Governor Smith could have had the scat and neither time would he do it. But if the proper next year, without solicitation on his part, should ask him to serve them, I think he would Accept."

Hatch's suggestion of a fusion with the Democrats was very plain. But I do not find any tendency that way among the them. Alderman Holton, one of the leading Democrats here, laughs at the idea. "If it comes to any attempt to manipulate the Democrats to elect an anti-Edmunds and it is feared they were swamped." representative from Hurrlington." he says "they will find that it will not work." I am for a Democrat first; but, like a majority of the Democrats I prefer Edmunds to Smith. We shall not be parties to any such scheme. If Smalley and Atkins try Buffalo, N. Y anything of the sort they will find that the party will desert them." Collector Smalley, who is the one who would be re-lied upon to arrange such a deal, was very emphatic on the subject. "You may rest assured," was his statement, "that the Democrats will vote for their own party condidate. They have nothing to come In the course of a long talk, Mr. Smalley, while expressing his personal desire to see Governor Smith made senator, repeatedly asserted that this furore wall come to nothing more than talk.

The Gregorian chants were sung antiphonally, and considering the fast that some of the choir have not been accensioned to use them, they were well rendered, the full deep tones forming an excellent contrast to the lighter and more rapid movements of the programme. The Cantate Domino and the Dens Miscreatur were sung in excellent toste, all the parismicity balancing each other and the accent and expression being especially good. The anthem, "O Lord, how manifold are try Works," was one of the gens of the evening.
