Alonso Allen, who had previously been given a hearing on the charge of embezzling money from the Consumers' Fuel & Ice company, was Thursday discharged by the city court. Allen was employed by the company as driver of an ice cart and it was alleged that he sold ice tickets and pocketed the cash. Only a small amount of money was alleged to have been appropriated.

The local military concerns have a unusual large amount of brown felt hats and trimmings in stock this season, for it has been rumored for the past month that brown was to be the only color. Brown felt hats will be in vogue, while the shapes of hats will be in extreme styles. A feminine hat must be either very large and airy or very small and compact to be the right thing this season. And above all, it must be brown.

J. O. Middlebrook & Sons have a remarkable sample of field corn on display in front of their place of business on College street. The stalks stand 10 feet high and the ears about seven feet long. The corn, this year, was raised on the former Allen farm owned by W. J. Van Felt, and was planted and cultivated by C. J. Lavoie. There are nine acres of this corn, all of which is nearly as high as the stalks shown.

Judge Mower Thursday rendered his decision in the case of Peter Binkley vs. John Lavoie for the defendant to recover his costs. The plaintiff, who is Lavoie's son-in-law, sought an injunction against the defendant from law during a period of her life when she was ill. Binkley also sought to recover for the support of a young son of Lavoie.

Miss Rhonda Panchard died yesterday morning at seven o'clock of general debility at the home of her brother, Edmund Panchard of 10 Brown's court. She was 30 years of age and was born in St. Edward, Que. She is survived by three brothers, Joseph, of Montreal, Quebec, and Edmund and Edmund of this city. The funeral arrangements are not completed.

A despatch received yesterday by her sister, Mrs. Janet Morris of Northampton, announces the sudden and violent death in Indianapolis, Ind., Tuesday of Mrs. Catherine Lane. She appealed the one and furnished bail in the sum of $50.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Quinn, with Thomas Reeves as auctioneer, sold Tuesday at public auction the platform, ticket office, bleachers, new grandstand, new fence, wire netting in front of the bleachers and new grandstand at Athletic Park to George D. Jarvis for $25. This sale was made on an execution in favor of F. P. Mitchell of the firm of Morgan & Mitchell, contractors, which on August 14, secured in city court judgment for $255.27 and costs of $475 against the Burlington Base Ball association.

A surprise party was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Delaney of Colchester avenue on Monday evening a number of the 25th anniversary of their marriage. About 25 guests were present and the evening was pleasantly spent with what and music. Mr. and Mrs. Delaney received many presents of silver, including knives, forks and tea sets. They were married about 25 years ago and have one son and two daughters.

The body of William Duff, who died in New Britain, Conn., Monday arrived in this city on Thursday afternoon. The body was taken to the funeral home held yesterday morning. The funeral was held from the chapel in Lake View cemetery in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Duff was born in Burlington and resided here until about 12 years ago when he moved to New Britain. He is survived by a wife, formerly Miss Fannie Jacobs of this city, and by one son.

The suit of J. H. Murray of Malone, N. Y., vs. G. M. Delaney was heard Monday evening by Judge Justice P. G. Webster presiding. It was a matter to recover for some cigars sold by the plaintiff to the defendant. Mr. Delaney claimed that the cigars delivered were not of the kind bargained for. The jury brought in a verdict for the defendant to recover his costs. The plaintiff accepted a tender of $15 and the return of three one-half boxes of cigars, amounting in all to $5.

Servic was made Tuesday in the Franklin county court case of L. M. Nelson vs. S. W. Davis, Anna and Sarah Klunkovitch of Boston and S. H. Miller of this city. The plaintiff claimed that $300 is still due him from the defendants owing to a partnership which previously existed between the four parties. Mr. Nelson has also brought suit against Messrs. Anna and Klunkovitch to recover $100, which he claims due him on account of previous business relations with the defendants.

John Tomlinson of Racine, Wis., was in the city Saturday en route to Monkton, where he was to be buried. Mr. Tomlinson is the son of a man who died in Monkton in 1875, after which he came to California, where for a time he was engaged in gold digging. Subsequently he established a line of stores to supply provisions to the miners and at one time controlled 10 such stations. He retired 25 years ago and has since lived in Racine. This is his first visit East since his departure more than half a century ago.

Charles Barbarian, alias Garand Magadan, the Armenian accused of smuggling three oriental aliens into this country and who was arrested with his three subjects at Albion, some weeks ago, Friday pleaded guilty to the charge against him and was fined $100 without costs, by the federal court. The three aliens who have been held as subjects against Barbarian will be held in immigration authorities for being in this country illegally. They will be given a hearing, when it is likely that they will be deported.

A recess was taken in Chittenden county court Saturday morning until two o'clock Monday p. m. The jury in the case of H. H. Walker et al. vs. H. A. Bailey reported inability to agree and were discharged. The jury received the case late Friday afternoon and (while the recess was in progress) disassembled and once asked for instructions. The suit of Simon M. Parker and Hattie L. Palmer vs. William C. and Lillian M. Cross was entered Saturday in court. This is an action to recover $1,000, based upon the rental of some real estate.

Peter Gelot, who resides near Mallette bay, was in the city yesterday with a large string of bass and perch. He claims to be the champion fisherman around this section and says that he doesn't do anything else for a livelihood except fish. In the summer time he is up every morning at three o'clock and is nearly always the first one to be found fishing at the mouth of the river. When amateur fishermen have become discouraged and are about to return home empty-handed, Peter appears with a smile and sells them fish enough so that they may go home without discredit to their ability as anglers.

Mrs. Samantha (Ferre) Van Cor died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. B. Collins of 28 South Union street, at the age of 76 years. She had been ill for about four months from the effects of a shock. Mrs. Van Cor was born in Portland and was the last of the old Ferre family, whose ancestors fought in the War of the Revolution. She is survived by two sons and three daughters, H. C. Van Cor of Burlington, N. Y., and C. M. Van Cor of St. Albans and Mrs. William Easton of Westmont, N. H., and Mrs. E. B. Collins and Miss Ruth Van Cor of this city. The funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

The famous 400-pound ox brought to light through the scrap book of Franklin Pierce Harrington's grandfather is well remembered by Charles Butts of this city. Mr. Butts says the animal was brought from Hyde Park by Jacob Perkins and pastured on the site of the Home for Destitute Children on Shelburne street. In the fall of 1862 Mr. Perkins procured an immense moose and with Mr. Butts's help the two beasts were shown under canvas at all the principal fairs in this section. At Springfield they set a record, in that the animal weighed 450 pounds, but its owner refused to put him on the scales with the animal shown by Mr. Perkins.

The death of Mrs. Mary E. Allen occurred shortly after six o'clock Thursday morning at her home, 39 College street, after a long illness. Mrs. Allen was 77 years of age and was the widow of the late C. C. Allen, who was at one time a well known furniture dealer in this city. Mrs. Allen had lived in Burlington about 24 years. She was a member of the First Church and of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. and was also actively interested in the work of the Adams Mission, spending a great deal of her time there before her illness. She had a wide circle of friends, and was a woman of most estimable character, greatly admired by all who knew her. She is survived by one son, Mrs. Julia Smith, of Lawton, Okla., and by several nieces in the West. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from her late residence, which is now in Lake View cemetery.

The fire department was summoned out at about six o'clock Thursday morning for a blaze in the tenement house at 100 North street, owned by Mr. Joseph Miller and occupied by Harry Bowley, who conducted a grocery store there. The fire was discovered by Mr. Bowley's small son, who aroused his father, a cripple, Mr. Bowley sent a small boy to ring in an alarm, but the lad returned soon, saying that he did not know how to open the box. A alarm was finally rung in from box at 10 North street after the blaze had gained considerable headway. The goods in the grocery store were destroyed and the rooms in the building were blackened and charred in many places. The furniture in Mr. Bowley's living apartments, back of the store, was moved out of doors. A tenant, who was frightened and carried his wife into the street in her night dress. The store, stock and building were insured in the agency of T. S. Peck.

Franklin Pierce Harrington, in looking over his grandfather's scrap book, found a clipping which is of particular interest in this season of fairs and agricultural exhibits, where the papers abound in stories of big cattle. The clipping describes an ox which more than half a century ago achieved considerable fame because of its mammoth proportions. The ox was exhibited at the old American Horse Show by its owner, Jacob Perkins, of Hyde Park. The animal was called "Young Vermont" and at the time of the exhibit was five years and five months old. He was then only in ordinary flesh but weighed 4,000 pounds. His girth was 10 feet three inches and he measured 20 feet from tip to tip. The ox was raised from a cow owned by Col. Amasa Pride of Waterbury and this cow, when dressed off in New York city, weighed 2,061 pounds.

Mrs. Mary Eliza (Abbott) Holbrook, whose death occurred in this city on the 21st inst., was the daughter of a former resident of Burlington, her father having been a merchant, whose store nearly 70 years ago was on Main street, nearly opposite the post office. The family removed to Utica, N. Y., where Mr. Abbott died. Some years later Mrs. Abbott and her two daughters returned to Burlington, where the elder daughter was married to Mr. W. H. Holbrook of New York. Mrs. Abbott and her younger daughter lived for some years on the corner of Winooski avenue and Pearl street and later on South Prospect street, and Mrs. Holbrook and her daughter spent much of their time with them. After Mrs. Abbott's death, her daughters lived in Winter Park, Florida, and many of their Burlington friends have enjoyed their stay at that place the more for association with them. Mr. Holbrook died in Winter Park in the spring of 1905. Mrs. Holbrook had been in frail health for some time and it was evident to her old friends that her return to Burlington this summer was but a return to die in the home of her youth. She was a woman of most sweet and attractive character, and, despite the stormy weather of her later days, met the end of the First Church on Monday to the last tokens of respect to her memory. The funeral services were conducted by Prof. J. E. Goodrich and the interment was in Green Mount cemetery. The bearers were C. E. Allen, J. J. Allen, T. S. Peck, Robert Roberts, C. P. Smith and W. J. Van Felt. Burial of the family lot at Green Mount cemetery. Her daughter, Mrs. Wadsworth K. Smith, and her sister, Miss Louise M. Abbott, are the surviving members of the family.

SOME FROSTS LAST WEEK.
Temperature As a Whole, However, Was Above the Normal.
Boston, Sept. 25.—The last bulletin for the season of the New England section of the climatological service of the Weather bureau says:

The temperature during the greater portion of the week was above the normal for the season. The maximum was on the 21st, when it was between 82 degrees and 86 degrees in the greater portion of Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, and near 85 degrees in parts of Connecticut and Rhode Island. In Vermont the maximum was somewhat lower, on the 19th being frost occurred in New Hampshire and Vermont. In the interior of Maine on this date a killing frost was general, and in some localities the minimum temperature was below 20 degrees.

Showers occurred at the beginning and end of the week, but were light, except in Connecticut, Rhode Island, and parts of Massachusetts, where from 0.6 to 1.0 inches of rain fell during the early morning of the 23d.

Generally clear weather prevailed, except during the first and last days of the week, when it was chiefly cloudy to rainy. Except in parts of the southern coast of the section, the amount of sunshine was above the average.

VERMONT NOTES

Raymond Norton was standing on the platform at the West Berlin railway station when the train came in. Two men got off and jostled him in.

One of the features of the 4th annual fair of the California Grange, East Hardwick, September 28, will be a baby show with prizes for the two handsomest. Senator W. P. Birmingham will deliver the address of the day.

passing, then took the train again when it was under way. Soon after he found that his watch chain had been cut and his timepiece was missing.

A puff ball ten inches long, eight inches wide and weighing two pounds was found by Harry Hovey of West Brattleboro in his corn field. He will exhibit the curiosity at Valley fair this week.

W. S. Barry, a Boston man, unacquainted with the wild animals of Vermont, ran across a black and white creature in Middlesex with such telling results that he is wearing a new suit of clothes.

Miss Mattie Blay of Barre town claims a man called at her house and asked for a cup of tea. When he went he took Miss Blay's watch with him. Henry Wheeler was suspected and arrested but was not identified by the young lady.

A small sum of money and watches, cutlery and razors to the value of $25, were secured by burglars who entered the store of George Tilden in Roxbury. They took a pane of glass from a window in entering and left no clue as to their identity.

When Miss Mary Reedy of Rutland asked Saturday night she found that she could not close her mouth. A doctor hurriedly summoned found the jaw dislocated. The unusual occurrence is attributed to an arduous, spasmodic action of the muscles of the jaw.

A Rutland man, who passed a part of the summer at Lake Umbagog, gained considerable sport through spreading the impression that he was a fish warden. No fish net safely within the limit of the law were brought to the hotel dock during his stay.

A thorough fight was given Mrs. Flora Bluff and daughter of Montpelier when two men entered their room in the Hillside building. Miss Bluff heard a noise in the kitchen and threw the door wide open. At once they started for the window, through which entrance had been made, and escaped.

The Van Camp Packing company of St. Albans is now receiving about 20,000 pounds of milk a day at its condensed milk factory. The schedule of prices follows: September, $1.25; October, $1.35; November, $1.15; December, $1.55; January, 1908, $1.55; February, $1.45; March, $1.35.

An accidental poisoning of the bones from a rodenticide in "Punch" Day's billiard parlors in Montpelier led to the discovery of mouse nests within. They had gnawed the felt off the billiard table and were found in the factory for repairs.

The team of M. E. Chase of Northfield, frightened at a train, started through the principal street on the run. The driver, whose horse became locked in those of another wagon, swinging the horses into a 100-pole glass window. No damage was done except to the window.

A valuable mare owned by Howard & Veary, Brattleboro livestock, collided with another rig and a shaft was driven into her side over a foot back of the heart. Death resulted in a short time. The accident was due to the street lamps not being lighted and the village will likely be called on to settle the damages.

A new inmate of the State Industrial school at Vergennes is a lad named Montague, from New York. His misdeeds consisted of breaking into the Italian quarters on Blue mountain. He stole the trunks of the quartermen, stole a watch and turned the faucet on a barrel of beer, spilling all the contents on the floor.

A Boston paper says that beans will be advanced to 15 cents a plate in a short time, with the possible further raise to 20 cents. The portion issued for ten cents at the present time is said to be just about large enough to make a fair sized necktie. The advance in price may be attributed to a very short crop in South Hero, where the ordinary harvest is 30,000 bushels.

The Brattleboro board of trade have induced the Boston & Maine and Central Vermont to put on an extra train between Springfield and White River Junction when the winter schedule goes into effect, October 4. It will arrive at Brattleboro northbound at nine o'clock in the morning and will pass through at 11 o'clock on the return trip at 8:30 in the evening.

J. W. Clarke and R. P. Avery, two New London men, started down the Connecticut from Brattleboro in a canoe. When trying to shoot the rapids below Turners Falls their boat upset, spilling out their camping outfit and a sum of money, but the water was so shallow they had no difficulty in getting ashore. Three holes were pounded in the bottom of the canoe.

A Boston milk contractor spent three days in Grand Isle trying to get milk for $1.65 per hundred but did not succeed in getting a sufficient amount to pay for handling it. The farmers were afraid that they would lose the better customers of the co-operative creamery. The contractor said he was unable to find milk for his patrons nearer than Grand Isle would have to go still farther north.

Mrs. O. D. Mathewson, wife of Superintendent Mathewson of the Barre public schools, died Saturday of a peculiar disease. The nature of which her physicians were unable to determine. Her mother and sister died from the same malady. For fifteen years she was a very successful school teacher. She was married to Superintendent Mathewson in 1891 and is survived by him and one sister.

A Vermont statute provides that the clerk of each county shall have no file in his office and cause to be bound copies of three newspapers published regularly in his county. If that number of papers is not published in the county he is to subscribe to the nearest outside State paper. This statute is not being lived up to in all counties and the clerks have had their attention called to the fact.

The report of the Vermont Soldiers' home for 10 days ending September 20 is as follows: Present, 51; on furlough, 21; total present and absent, 72; average present, 46. During the period the blood purifiers were administered and the new members are John Thornt, of Brandon, who served in Co. I, 5th Vt. Reg't, and Julius Louzell of Middlesex, who served in Co. D, 2nd Vt. Reg't.

H. S. Harwood, a Worcester, Mass., traveling salesman, stubbed his toe on the stump of a telephone pole while hurrying to the Rutland station and sprained his wrist and tore a hole in his trousers. He said he had traveled all over New England for the past 20 years but never saw a stump sticking up in the sidewalk before. He started out to have a session with the street commissioners but could not find them, and, being short of time, let the matter drop.

While the keeper of the Bellows Falls jail was out, Raymond Sharkey, arrested for the robbery of a clothing store in that place, crawled up the fireplace chimney in the corridor and descending a ladder against the roof, made good his escape by Hayes Hollow, where Sharkey did the Santa Claus act. He was 50 feet high and was not looked upon as a likely means of escape by the officers. It is reported that within 24 hours of his escape he made another good haul near Charlestown, N. H.

TERCENTENNIAL SUB-COMMITTEE.

In accordance with a resolution adopted at a recent meeting of the New York and Vermont Lake Champlain tercentennial committee, held at Rutland, N. Y., Gov. Fletcher D. Proctor has appointed as a sub-committee on the part of Vermont to arrange plans for the proposed celebration in 1909. Prof. Walter E. Howard of Middlebury, Walter H. Crockett of St. Albans and Lynn M. Howe of Essex Junction. The resolution provided that Governor Proctor shall be chairman of this committee. Gov. Charles E. Hughes is expected soon to name a similar subcommittee of three, of which he will be chairman, and the two committees will formulate plans to be reported to their respective commissions.

AGAIN WINS FAMOUS SUIT.

George W. Sabre, whose summer home is at Albion, has won again in his famous suit with the promoters of a street railway line in Rhode Island.

Sabre is said to be the only stockholder who declined to exchange his United Traction for Rhode Island Securities stock on the basis of four shares of United Traction for one share of Rhode Island Securities. The bill of complaint alleges that the complainant was a stockholder of the United Traction company, which owned and held all the shares of the capital stock of certain street railway companies of Rhode Island, that up to June 24, 1902, the United Traction company was entitled to and did receive all the net earnings of these corporations by way of dividends, but that on June 24, 1902, the United Traction company agreed with the Rhode Island company that each of the railway corporations should lease to the Rhode Island company for 20 years its property, rights and franchise, upon the terms that the Rhode Island company pay United Traction 5 per cent. per annum of the net earnings of the corporations.

The bill alleges that this action was without authority of the board of directors of the United Traction and without opportunity for its stockholders to vote upon the proposition. Later the Rhode Island Securities company, chartered in New Jersey, claiming the right to all the net earnings of the Rhode Island company and has no other assets.

The complainant avers that as a stockholder of the United Traction company he is justly entitled to the proportionate share of the Rhode Island stock. Railway corporation's stock, that by the lease of the properties he is limited practically for all time to an annual dividend of 5 per cent., and that the value of his stock has been thereby greatly diminished.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A Colonial Girl" Opening Miss Hillman's Engagement at The Strong. May Hillman and her company opened a five nights' engagement at The Strong Tuesday evening, presenting the first act of the new season, "A Colonial Girl." Miss Hillman is too well known to Burlington theatre-goers to need much comment upon her work. Slight and petite of stature, she has a most charming way of winning favor with her audience from the start, and in the role of Clara she played her comedy to perfection, and was a match for every strong dramatic situation which came her way.

Her supporting company was up to the usual average of repertoire players and gave Miss Hillman capable support. George Rosener gave a very acceptable performance of the part of Hugh Campbell, and played his scenes with Miss Hillman well. The singing of illustrated songs, some favor on account of his hoarseness, but his appeal to the gallery to join the chorus in the last song caught on with the "girls" and won several encores. John Clarke in the dual role of Sir William Colver and Silver Hair gave a satisfactory performance and was fairly good in the latter character.
