PARISH GATHERING. Reports Presented and News Related at College Street Church. The annual parish gathering of the College Street Congregational Church was held last evening, and as usual it proved to be a very enjoyable and successful event. At five o'clock the members of the congregation assembled in the church auditorium for the reading of social courtesies. At six o'clock those who had gathered repaired to the round below, where the ladies of the church had prepared one of the repasts for which they have become famous.

The banquet was enjoyed by about 200 parishioners. Following the supper general reports for the year were read, and short addresses were made by the chairman of the various committees, regarding the condition of the affairs of the church. The Rev. Dr. Smart presided, and in opening the after-dinner exercises made felicitous remarks.

The first speaker of the evening was Robert Roberts, president of the society, who was followed by H. H. Butler, presenting the treasurer's report. The report of the prudential committee was read by J. L. Southwick, chairman of the committee, and the report of the pew committee was presented by A. C. Whitling. Principal Isaac Thomas read the report of the clerk of the church, and the secretary's report was read by H. H. Hickok. Other reports which followed were the Sunday school report by Harry Apelin; report of the Deaf's fund by Dr. H. P. Perkins, and the report of the Woman's union by Mrs. O. R. Mason. General remarks were made by S. R. Moulton and Dr. C. C. Thirkham.

Following the reports, the members of the congregation repaired to the church auditorium, where the annual rental of pews took place. One of the gratifying features of this part of the evening's program was a handsome increase in the aggregate sum received as premium on pews.

The society of the church adjourned until next Monday evening at eight o'clock for the transaction of business in connection with the appointment of trustees for the permanent fund.

PROF. ORDORNAUX DEAD.

Was Connected With Medical College for Several Years. Professor John Ordronaux, M. D., LL. D., who held the chair of physiology and medical jurisprudence in the medical college of the University of Vermont from 1865 to 1873, and whose name since that time has been a place of honor in the annual catalogue, died at his home in Glen Head, N. Y., on Monday of this week, and the funeral services were attended at Trinity church in Brooklyn yesterday. Professor Ordronaux was in his 74th year, having been born in New York city in August, 1829.

He was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1850; from Harvard law school in 1852; from the National Medical college (now a part of Columbia university) in 1855. In 1870 Trinity college made him doctor of laws, and in 1873 Harvard conferred on him the LL. D. degree. From 1872 till 1882 he held the office of professor in various medical institutions. The next year after gaining his medical degree he was appointed lecturer on medical jurisprudence in the National Medical college; was professor in the same institution, 1883-84; professor of hygiene, 1883-84; of pathology, 1887-88; of physiology, 1888-91. At Dartmouth he was professor of medical jurisprudence from 1864 till his death; also at Boston university, 1872-92. He taught the same subject in the Columbia law school, Washington, D. C., eight years, and in Columbia college, 1869-71. In 1869 Columbia made him emeritus professor. He was appointed surgeon in the U. S. army in the course of the civil war, but his duties never took him to the field. From 1872 till 1882 he held the office of commissioner in lunacy for New York State.

Prof. Ordronaux had been in failing health from the beginning of winter, but continued his literary activity till his last illness. The cause of his death was apoplexy. He was never married, living in Glen Head, Long Island, N. Y., where he had a fine library, and a scholar, whose learning was by no means confined to his specialty. Besides his contributions to medical and other periodicals, he has to his credit the following five volumes:

Manual of instruction for military surgeons on the examination of recruits and discharge of soldiers, etc., 1862.

Illness in health in armies, 2nd edition, 1863.

The jurisprudence of medicine in relation to the law of contract, torts, and evidence, 1869.

Comments on an lunacy laws of N. Y., and on the judicial aspects of insanity at common law and in equity, 1878.

Constitutional legislation in the U. S., its origin, etc., 1881.

Prof. Ordronaux's last visit to Burlington was during the centennial of the university. His extensive manuscript library may be found in the university library.

JURORS SELECTED. Business Done at Special Meeting of the Aldermen. A meeting of the board for the abatement of taxes and an adjourned meeting of the board of aldermen were held Tuesday evening, all of the members of both bodies being present except Alderman Russell and Assessor P. O. Bourque. The meeting of the board for the abatement of taxes was held first, the taxes of 173 persons being abated, the reason in most instances being an error in name by which there were many duplicates. O. P. Ray appeared in behalf of the Free Methodist Church, whose property on Elmwood avenue was taxed for $22. As part of the property is occupied for a parsonage, it is entitled to exemption and $16 of the amount was abated.

THE ALDERMEN. At the meeting of the aldermen, the annual reports were received from the following departments: Electric lighting, water, school, street, health, fire, police, justice and parks, together with the reports of the most important inspectors, inspector of wires and fire warden. These reports will be incorporated in the annual city report to be issued next month.

GRAND AND PETIT JURORS. The following lists of grand and petit jurors were approved to be submitted to the county clerk: Grand jurors, Joseph Auld, C. N. Mosley, Willie B. Hall, C. H. Powers, C. W. Richardson, H. H. Reynolds, B. E. Richmond, P. R. Miles, J. R. Kelly, E. J. Dean, E. E. Morgan, C. S. Reynolds, A. G. Hines, J. H. Cresswell, A. N. Lucia, petit jurors, Austin M. Kenzie, H. M. Price, Peter Cameron, W. H. H. Connor, Van A. Nye, Fred Johnson, H. J. Colton, M. A. Stone, J. W. Madigan, J. A. Kelley, A. S. Drey, W. H. Adair, H. M. McIntosh, D. H. Connor, Joseph Auld, D. J. THE NINTH VERMONT. Annual Reunion Will Be Held at Montpelier, February 25. The Ninth Vermont Veteran association will hold its annual reunion in the hall of Brooks Post, G. A. R., Montpelier, February 25. The meeting will be called at 4:30 p. m., at which time important business will be transacted, including election of officers. In the evening there will be a concert, which will be a most interesting affair, as the program includes addresses by distinguished soldiers and citizens.

Since the death of Colonel Dudley K. Andrus of Bradford, who was the last president, there has been no reunion of the association, and it is earnestly desired that every member of the old regiment will be present. If the papers throughout the State of Vermont will publish this announcement their kindness will be greatly appreciated. Official notices have just been issued by Lieutenant Richard P. Parker, secretary, West Derby, who will be glad to hear from every Ninth Vermont man who expects to be present. The executive committee consists of: Commodore J. Henry Vanvor, Company H, Charles Van Slobberg, Company C, and Theodore S. Peck, Company H, who, representing the members of the association, appreciate the courtesy of Brooks Post in tendering them the use of their hall.

It is expected that the reunion will charge convention rates, or the same will be allowed for the annual encampment, Department of Vermont, G. A. R., to be held February 26 and 27.

A WOMAN'S PROFITS. Major Painters Experts Cleared a Little Matter of 130 Per Cent.

Near the little village of Danversville, Mass., Mrs. Rufus Hitchcock, who finds her pleasure and profit in raising two or three hundred wild geese, has made small gains actually earned that she makes three times more than she does, says the Chamberlain Gazette. Many women find that when they have performed the household duties they have neither the time nor strength left for outside work.

Mrs. Hitchcock took up poultry raising in order to earn her own money and to have an excuse for being out of doors for an hour or two every day. The quality of her eggs is in number, an 8-12, by 10-12 feet and 11-12 by 10-12 feet each. While this is mainly laid there is nothing in the lot of eggs which is not perfect. These are the eggs which she has raised and which she has sold for about $100. In the larger lot she has sold for $100, while the smaller lot she has sold for $200.

Mrs. Hitchcock believes in making and feeding a warm mixture every day. It is a mixture of warm water, castor oil and cod liver oil. She has found that this mixture is the best for the birds. She has also found that the birds will eat a mixture of warm water, castor oil and cod liver oil. She has also found that the birds will eat a mixture of warm water, castor oil and cod liver oil.

WORLD PARALYZE A NEW YORK RECEIVER. (From the New York Times.)

A show, which has sprung into prominence in a twinkling, is the Boston Bar of the Mount Mansfield electric railway, and the reason is, in brief, for several of the financial affairs of this company, which are lawyers in the case, are being handled by the receiver of the amount. Mr. Shaw's services will probably be much in demand in similar capacities, or at least, some time of the same kind.
