REVOLT OF DIAZ IS SHORT LIVED

Few Casualties Mark the End of Capture of Vera Cruz by Federals.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Oct. 23.—The revolt of General Felix Diaz, nephew of the late president, has been short lived. The town of Vera Cruz, which was occupied with about 2,000 adherents for several days, was captured by the federal forces today. The casualties were few.

The federal columns commanded by Colonel Castro and General Beltran entered Vera Cruz from the north a month ago. There was small opposition to the advance. Colonel Castro with 1,000 men captured General Diaz, who had 200 men at police headquarters refused to fight at his command.

The revolutionists in the barracks had not yet surrendered. They say they would not until the last man is killed. However, the weaker spirits seem to be trying to escape.

The killed and wounded number 100. The firing continued after the federal forces entered the town. Instead of a great battle, everything was in a middle, rebel and federals encountered each other in the streets without knowing which of the others were affiliated with, as the uniforms of all are alike.

Col. Jiming Castro was shot in the leg during the first firing. Col. Diaz Ortiz who joined General Diaz with his troops in the revolution, has disappeared. An active search is being made for him.

The United States cruiser Des Moines sent Lieutenant Burns and Surgeon Cohn ashore to attend to the wounded.

ASTONISHES WASHINGTON

Surrender of Diaz Means Suppression of Draggled General Rebellion.

Washington, Oct. 23.—News of the capture of Vera Cruz by Mexican federal forces and the surrender of Gen. Felix Diaz and his staff with practically no show of resistance was received with astonishment in official circles here. It is generally believed that this event marks the complete suppression of what was looked upon as the beginning of a general rebellion involving entirely new elements.

A brief cablegram to the State department from American Consul Canada confirmed officially the report of the capture of Vera Cruz by General Beltran. There was fighting on the outskirts of the town, but only enough to justify the capture of General Diaz. The fighting in offering medical assistance for the wounded which was gratefully acknowledged.

The sudden collapse of the defense after such elaborate preparations had been made for a general battle, is taken as an evidence that the strength of the revolutionary sentiment in the city of Vera Cruz has been very much overestimated and that it was confined closely to comparatively small quarters which fled to General Diaz's standard, principal for sentimental motives.

Already official and army officers are speculating as to the fate of Diaz and other officers of the Mexican regular army, who were led into this uprising. It is surmised that the captives will be treated with great leniency, and although some military law they probably would be subjected to a death sentence. It is rather expected that they will be imprisoned in the city of Mexico as was General Reyes.

DEATH PENALTY LIKELY.

Court Martial for Diaz—Every 100 Soldier to be Killed.

Mexico City, Oct. 23.—Gen. Felix Diaz, Col. Jose Diaz Ortiz and all the officers of the rebellious troops and marines who were captured before a court martial and will doubtless receive a death penalty. Orders have been issued for the convening of the court which will be presided over by General Beltran.

General Diaz although not now a member of the army is amenable in his court under the law which provides for such trial of any civilian under like circumstances. The soldiers of the rebellious troops were decimated, one in 10 being executed. They will be chosen by lot to pay the penalty for all. This information was imparted officially to-night.

The collapse of the Diaz movement one week after its inception, with minimum of fighting and bloodshed has created great surprise here. Administration circles, where optimism has been the keynote since the beginning of the movement is regarded as the highest possibility of maintaining confidence always expressed in loyalty of the army.

Gen. Felix Diaz, after General Beltran has been regarded as the man who could wield the greatest influence with the army and the people generally. His rebellion, ending in a fiasco, only slightly less pronounced than that of Reyes' last December, removes a day star which has long loomed on the political horizon.

The news created little demonstration in the capital. There was no outward show of elation or of regret among the populace which maintained its usual indifference. It was early reported that the officers involved in the movement stood an excellent chance of commutation to death within a few hours.

Some troops, possibly 200, which came here from the north last night and proceeded immediately to Vera Cruz got no farther than Orizaba. They had received orders to return and will leave soon again for the north to renew the campaign against Orozco. Five hundred troops have been dispatched to Tuxtepec to restore order. All other troops will be returned to the north from which they were drawn for the Vera Cruz campaign.

WELL IN ADVANCE.

"I would like to look at some household goods," said the tall brunette who entered the big furniture shop. "You are expected to be married soon?" "Ah, indeed," said the polite clerk. "Just then this young couple starting housekeeping. When is the glad event to come off?" "Well—the day hasn't been settled yet."

"Oh, I see, the lucky young man has just pronounced, and—?" "So, he hasn't proposed yet, has he?" "Ah, he is going to propose. His fiancée has been calling?" "Well, he hasn't started to propose yet."

"What is the young man's name?" "Really, I don't know at present, but mamma says she thinks some nice young fellow with a calling soon, so I want to be in time."
