SOUTHERN LITERARY MESSENGER.—A monthly periodical devoted to every department of Literature and the Fine Arts. It has been established more than eleven years, during which it has stood at the head of American periodicals. It is published in the neatest style, and contains a great variety of interesting and instructive reading;—differing widely from a majority of our publications, in the solidity and usefulness of its contents.

Novels, Tales, Poems, Travels, Essays, Critiques, Reviews, Historical and Biographical Sketches, papers on the Army, Navy, General Politics, and other National Interests, adorn its pages. To the South and West it confidently appeals for support. Whilst it is distinctly the friend and advocate of the South and West, it is not sectional, having always circulated quite widely in the North and East, and having imparted a higher National character to the Literature of the United States. Its motto is— "In the Union and for the Union"—"In the South and for the South!"

But the South and West should especially cherish it, as it is the only Literary Journal, of long and high standing, within all their borders, and has indicated and promoted their rights and interests. During another year, it will seek to extend its usefulness and fame, and solicit the increased patronage of the public; and also invokes the aid of its present patrons in extending its circulation.

Its Contributors are numerous—embracing professional and amateur writers of the first distinction. To the present efficient corps, new writers will be added, and neither trouble or expense will be spared to make the work eminently worthy of patronage.

The Twelfth Volume of the Messenger, number CXXXIV, will commence on the 1st of January, 1846. Each number contains 64 super-royal octavo pages. It makes, during the year, a large and splendid volume.

Reduction of Postage.—In order to reduce the postage as much as possible, the Messenger will be published on lighter paper—but of the best quality. Subscribers are invited to send their orders on the following. LIBERAL TERMS: Single copy, $5 per annum. Club of Two, $9, or $4.50 per copy; Five, $20, or $4 per copy; Ten $32, or $3.50 per copy.
