YELLOWSTONE YEARNINGS.

Huffman, the photographer, took a view of the First National bank building yesterday.

With the spring freshet we expect to be able to complete the disappearance of the circular bridge that spans the Tongue in this city.

Judging from an advertisement that appeared in last night's Press, a new drug firm has located here, by the name of "Avenge & Oh!"

Henry Countryman, a well known rancher of the upper country, was married on the 12th inst., to Miss Rosalind Givins, of Canyon creek. The JOURNAL extends congratulations.

The Miles City hotels are well represented by the proprietors and clerks at the depot during train time. They are all good stayers and are capable of talking an arm off. This is business, however.

Tom Flanigan returned yesterday from Billings, and is making preparations to open up a new variety theatre there. He has already engaged talent and proposes making things lively in that suburban town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Walcott had a caller at their house early yesterday morning in the form of a bouncing baby. Mother, father and child are reported as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Mathew McGinnis bought yesterday a house and lot of Thomas Doyle; consideration, $1,000. He will erect a fine residence thereon in the early spring. Mat is the rustling ferryman for Broadwater, Hubbel & Co.

F. A. Routhier, the contractor, having about completed the work on the new building for Leighton, Jordan & Co., has a force of men at work building the new Presbyterian church, which he intends to have under roof in about ten days.

Beef tea and hot Scotch is the favorite drink at the Sideboard. 36tf

A Philosophical Youth.

How does little Tommy like coming to school? asked Principal Logan of a promising four year old at his school yesterday morning. I like comin' well enough, said the future county commissioner, but I don't like stayin' after I get here. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Logan, I think the scholars too numerous for the size of the room, making too much kitchen aroma here to suit my alabastic taste. Little Tommy now remains at home.

A First-Class Place.

The new Oyster Ocean under the First National bank is a grand success. A. Booth's bulk oysters 75 cents per quart. 31tf

Reaped His Harvest.

James Kennedy, one of the oldest settlers in the Yellowstone valley, who has reaped the fruits of his labor on what is known as Kennedy's toll road, reports to us as having disposed of the same to Joe Wheeler, a ranchman of Buell. Jim staked his last dollar on the building of the above mentioned road early in the summer of 1877, and has stayed there steady since. He will devote his time to stock raising, and has bought up quite a herd of cattle.

School Books.

All the books used in the public schools of this territory are kept on sale at Basinski Bro's store. 32-37

Becoming Scarce.

Ranges are becoming limited, very fast, with the advent of new stock firms coming among us. The same may be said of the Judith Basin and Powder river country, and parties who have been in the lower Musselshell country, looking after stock ranches, say that the desirable locations are pretty well all taken for a distance of 100 miles east. The population of that region has increased very materially during the past summer.

A Copy of the Range.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press gives us this: "A bold cowboy, from Miles City, Montana, named Erickson, made things lively for the ladies around a gambler street saloon Thursday night, and drew a heavy party around on the other side of the street. The police officer who undertook to arrest him, was taken in charge, nevertheless, and yesterday morning Judge Burr freed him, and took away his pistol, and put him under $50 bonds to keep the peace. He had over $1,000 in his possession."

PERSONAL POINTS.

J. D. McGinnis, from Pumpkin creek, is at the Merchants.

Robert Johnson, from Tongue river, is at the Merchants.

Charles J. Wilson and wife, from Big Horn, are at the Inter-Ocean.

W. Sherman, of Billings, came in to-day, and is stopping at the Grand Central.

James Venger, and wife, from Tongue river, are making a short visit to the metropolis.

The steel plate signature of Col. C. G. Cox graced the hotel register of the Merchants yesterday.

John M. Thornbery, deputy sheriff of Junction City, and an old citizen of that burg, is in the city.

C. J. Thorp, from Chicago, reached this city yesterday. His postoffice address is Inter-Ocean hotel.

Connors, the king among cattle men, took his departure yesterday for Chicago and other eastern cities.

W. E. Small, of Billings, the lively little suburb of Miles City, is in the city. He puts up at the Merchants.

Byron Vreeland, the architect, left yesterday on the west-bound passenger, to do some work at the town of Merrill.

B. W. Ladd, of the furniture firm of Suell & Ladd, took a seat on yesterday's west-bound passenger, booked for Roseman.

Harry Abbott, a well-known Northern Pacific contractor, went east yesterday, his destination being the Keystone state, where he will spend the winter.

Mr. Charles E. Deane, of the Inter-Ocean, leaves to-day for a visit to Chicago, and will probably be accompanied on the return trip by his estimable lady.

Mr. Hanson, from Billings, stepped from the east bound train yesterday, and was induced by the eloquence of Judge Coffey to make his headquarters at the Grand Central.

Mr. Phil Brady returned yesterday from Billings. He reports things lively at that point. Mr. Brady has observed the rise and progress of Billings since the organization of the town, and thinks it is destined to yet become an important town. He is at the Merchants hotel.

Dramatic Performance.

A large gathering of the residents of Fort Keogh, with about forty invited guests from Miles City, assembled in the garrison theatre at the Post last evening, to witness a performance given by the Officers' Dramatic Club. The evening's entertainment was commenced by Capt. E. Butler, who gave a reminiscence in rhyme, which was original and ably rendered, after which the drama, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" was given with the following cast: "Abel Tinkle," Lieut. Partello; "Jack Raggett," Lieut. Forbes; "Fatamella," Mrs. Partello; "Hannah," Mrs. Forbes. The performers had evidently studied their parts and rendered their sayings in a truly dramatic style, winning merited applause. Mrs. Partello is deserving of special mention, acting the part of a Mexican maiden to perfection. Previous to the drama Mr. Girard rendered operatic selections in a truly artistic style, for which she was encored. Among the invited guests from Miles City were noticed J. J. Graham and sister, Judge Strevell and wife, Mr. Miles and wife, Mr. Sam Gordon and wife, Capt. Kreidler and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Col. Gould, Rev. Mr. Linnell, Mrs. Charles Berg, the Misses Cahn, Dr. Redd, Dr. Dodge, A. T. Campbell, W. B. Andrews, A. C. Logan, Cashier Stower, H. Batchelor, Mr. Douglas, W. H. Oxley, and many others. Four ambulance wagons were kindly furnished by the officers for conveying their guests to and from the post. The entertainment was a very enjoyable affair, while Captain Butler and the officers of the club are deserving of credit for their efforts in having such a successful performance.

Benefit.

A grand complimentary benefit tendered to Messrs. Wolf & Robinson, proprietors of the Cosmopolitan theatre, by the citizens of Miles City, will take place on Thursday evening, Nov. 30th, 1882, which will also be the commencement of the winter season. The following new arrivals are announced: Miss Klile Morris, serio comic vocalist; Miss Lema Harrison, motto and character vocalist; Miss Blanche, dancing and sketch artist; Mr. A. J. O'Brien, Irish character and ethnical comedian; Tommy Johnson, the great vocal character artist, together with a host of others who will be duly announced. Don't forget the date.

A number of all kinds of heating and cooking stoves have just been received at Barleigh's mammoth store. Now is the time to call while the stock is complete. 7tf

A Difference of Opinion.

To the Editor of the Daily Journal: In the Daily Press issue of the 12th inst., appears a clipping from the Blaine Tribune and comments editorially, which, in my opinion, are so widely different that perhaps a still further explanation might be timely. As the impression seems to have become quite public that I am the person interviewed by the Tribune, and as I have been charged with the expression of sentiments in accord with that article, I wish to say that as far as fraud and illegality in the late election is concerned, the half has not been told; and over my own signature I will affirm and testify that without exception the election held in Miles City on the seventh of November was the most bare-faced and fraudulent piece of business ever transacted. And it is a question of doubt in my mind as to the proper place to begin to classify the chicanery and fraud of that day. There is, perhaps, no fair-minded citizen of our town who honestly believes that there are 1,300 legal voters in this city. I do not believe it, and shall contend that a large number voted who had no right-no claim-other than mere mercenary interests in the election or its results, the Press and its friends to the contrary notwithstanding. You cannot deny that the vote was counted in a saloon or bar-room; that the judges frequently left their post of duty; that the clerks of election often did the work of the judges and many other equally illegal and flagrant acts transpired, and it is a well known fact that one of the judges of a certain precinct became intoxicated and lost the polls book and returns. But it is needless, unnecessary and foolish to enumerate to the residents of this city what is a well known and admitted fact, that Miles City, on the 7th of November, disgraced and abused the highest privileges accorded any people in the world, viz: The right of a free vote, and the expression of the peoples' wishes as to who should manage their home and territorial affairs. Lying is not necessary to prove the many frauds perpetrated on that day, nor will it make more secure the terms of office of those who imagine themselves elected at the recent farce. Believing that a majority of the right-minded and honest citizens of Miles City will bear me out in this matter, and admit the facts as stated above, I am, yours for fair elections, 37-11 GEORGE THOMAS.

Eccentric Sign Writers.

"Jawbone Don't Go" is the euphonious sign displayed by one Miles City merchant who wishes to inform his customers that he cannot be "stood off" for purchases. This merchant is an ardent admirer of Sampson, who once handled a jawbone so scientifically that the best effort of a Krupp gun stands no show in a comparison. Another sign attracting attention is displayed in a city barber shop, where a modest sign denotes "Positively No Stiffs Taken." He doubtless wishes the public to understand his place is not an undertaking store. A clothing dealer, who proclaims by a sign painted by the irrepressible Morrison, "Kids clothing kept," is anxious the customers shall know children may be outfitted from a full line of ready made garments. The Main street saloon announcing on the front window, "no drinks exchanged for wind," means don't enter for irrigating purposes, without the necessary "bits." While these signs are notable, we think the one entitled to the bakery product can be seen in Billings, where an enterprising tenderfoot has recently hired a store with a view of opening a restaurant. A sign resembling a circus poster announces that "On or about December 1st, Jimmy Johnson will sling hash on these premises."

He Stopped Her.

A well-known Miles City man, residing not more than twenty miles from the JOURNAL office recently imported a Swedish servant girl to lighten the household cares of his estimable lady. The servant would persist in putting her fingers in the sugar bowl when desiring any of life's sweets. The gallant Colonel got tired renouncing and finally stopped the habit by saying to her, "Tagaldrig socker med bingarna ur sockerskaien rare sig i koket eller matrummet."
