IRRIGATION.

What a Number of Stock Growers are Doing at Their Ranches.

Winn Roberts Convicted of Grand Larceny.

Doings of Cattle Men, Ranch Men and Others.

District Court Proceedings.

FALL TERM—TWENTY-SECOND DAY.
The Territory of Montana vs. Winn Roberts, grand larceny; trial continued second day. A large portion of the day was put in trying to prove an alibi and the case was continued until 8:30 o'clock in the evening, when the judge charged the jury and they retired in charge of affable McAusland. After thirty minutes they returned with a verdict of guilty.

The case of Peter Atchison vs. John Carter; the plaintiff moves the court for judgment on the pleadings.

First National Bank vs. Chris Hehli, et al. The following defendants were defaulted: Allan J. Kennedy, William Green, Allen Igon, Isaac Orschel and Herman Orschel. Chris Hehli is still at large and remains to be counted in.

In the case of C. K. Sherburne vs. Charles Berg defendant files demurrer. John Robertson, formerly a citizen of Norway, appeared before District Clerk Sulgrove and presented his first papers and his good character being vouched for by Joseph Price and James Dunlap he was admitted to all the rights and benefits of citizenship.

Irrigating Desert Claims.

The work of cutting ditches on several of the desert claims, taken up last year, is steadily going on. The Niobrara cattle company at its home ranch on the Powder river, has a very extensive and costly ditch nearly completed. This ditch will supply an amount of water sufficient to irrigate several hundred acres of land. Fordon & Biddle will commence operations on their ditch of two miles in extent, on their home ranch on the Powder, in a few days. The capacity of this waterway is calculated to irrigate a large body of land. We also understand that Mr. George Myers will soon commence operations on a very extensive ditch on the Powder river at or near Sheep creek, perhaps this autumn. In addition to these, several extensive irrigating streams, have during the summer past, been cut on the upper Powder and its tributaries. The Stoddard outfit, on Clear creek, during the past year or two, have cut several miles of ditch, sufficient to irrigate thousands of acres. From these general facts it may be seen that the cattle men are in earnest and intend to fulfill their engagements with the government to irrigate their desert claims. Others, which we will mention in due time, are preparing to fulfill similar engagements.

Johnson Grass.

The following communication from Territorial Veterinary Keeper in relation to the supposed mortality in cattle caused by eating Johnson grass, is referred to those who have the means of investigating the matter with the suggestion that it should receive full and careful investigation. It is a matter of too much importance to be permitted to rest on any hypothesis, although it would seem that the duty of demonstration, which latter can only be arrived at by actual experiment, rests with the the Stock Growers' Association and not with an individual owner.

HELENA, MONT., Sept. 21, 1885.
Editor YELLOWSTONE JOURNAL.

DEAR SIR—In a recent issue of your paper I notice an article on diseased cattle where the parties seem inclined to the belief that Johnson grass has poisoned them, which may be true, but the symptoms as described in the JOURNAL are similar if not quite the same as has been described to me by others whose cattle have not been near any Johnson grass; consequently would ask that they look thoroughly and carefully to see if they can not find some other weed or grass other than the Johnson grass for their own as well as for my personal interest.

Respectfully Yours,
Geo. H. KEEFER,
Territorial Vet.

James Simpson, one of the pioneer ranchers of the Rosebud, was in town yesterday and of course called on his old friends at the JOURNAL office. He reports a general failure of crops in the upper Yellowstone valley, and says he has housed his threshing machine for the winter, there being no work for it in his section. His live stock, however, is doing well.

A BEAR HUNT.

Miss Stanley's Accomplishments as Horse-woman and Hunter.

Manager Maguire, of the Grand Opera House, vouches for the veracity of the following from the Missoulian of the 18th, which otherwise would be very hard to swallow. The story shows that the young lady is possessed of a goodly share of courage, as well as attractiveness on the stage, and will make her quite a heroine in the east: "Yesterday afternoon several members of the Paintin' the Town Red' company took a ride to the fort, Miss Alma Stuart Stanley and Frank D. Blair going on horseback, and managers Sargeant and Maguire, Louis Villemaire, and Miss Louise Edgar taking a carriage. When about half way over, and the equestrians were riding on the prairie a hundred yards or so from the road, they came upon a bear in one of the little depressions in the ground. The bear started up, and seeing that the party was intent on doing him harm, if possible, made toward the Bitter Root as fast as he could go. A most exciting race followed. Miss Stanley and her companion in full chase after his bearship, and the party in the carriage following as best they could over the prairies. The bear occasionally made breaks to the right or left, but his fair pursuer, as chief of the round-up, kept him headed for the fort, and succeeded in running him fairly into the parade ground. She was gallantly assisted by Lieutenant Gerlach, who came upon the scene shortly after the discovery of the bear. Of course the Third infantry valiantly turned out to her support, and the animal was killed on the island just beyond the parade ground. He was a handsome specimen, and weighed 400 pounds. Miss Stanley was the recipient of many congratulations and sincere praise from the military gentlemen over her gallant conduct in the face of the enemy, and she takes away with her one of the paws of the animal as a trophy."

The Republican Nominees in New York.

Nominations were reached by the Republican state convention at Saratoga, N. Y., on Wednesday, the 23rd, as follows:

Governor, Ira Davenport.
Lieutenant-Governor, Gen. Carr.
Secretary of State, Ansen S. Wood.
Comptroller, Jas. W. Wadsworth.
Treasurer, Chas. Ullrich.
Att'y General, Edward B. Thomas.
Engineer, W. P. Van Rensselaer.
Hon. Ira Davenport, of Steuben county, the Republican nominee for governor of New York, is represented to be one of the best equipped men in point of education, integrity and executive ability in the state. He has never been a politician, although he has had six years experience as senator and served as comptroller one term of three years. His nomination with that of General Carr, the Irish Republican of Troy, for lieutenant-governor, and Representative Jas. W. Wadsworth, of Livingston, for comptroller means that the Republicans of New York are united for the campaign this fall and will win against the divided Democracy, especially if Hill be the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. Both Davenport and Wadsworth are young men and were neighbors of the Kreidler brothers of this city.

Enough Grass.

The cry of no grass on the range, regardless of the grasshoppers, is not true. Having made careful inquiry of such parties who have ridden in the beef-gathering round-ups we learn that while there is no grass on or near the great thoroughfares over which thousands of cattle have passed during the summer, there is on the other hand, plenty of bright cured grass in the hills and gulches beyond the feeding ground, trails and main roads. There need be no apprehension about the stock pulling through the winter.

Rev. G. W. Downey is back from a three week's jaunt to the National Park, looking in every way the better for the trip. He made the trip in company with other tourists whose acquaintance he made en route, by private conveyance, adopting their own route and staying as long as they pleased at each point of interest. They were blessed with perfect weather and absolute immunity from dust, gnats and mosquitoes.

Lieutenant Butler, who was recently promoted to a first lieutenancy and assigned to F company, Third infantry, left for Fort Missoula, his future post of duty, on Sunday last. Lieutenant Butler has been on duty at Fort Ellis since '76, and he carries with him the respect and good will, not only of the men and officers at Ellis, but also that of the citizens of Bozeman.—Bozeman Courier.

Montana Mention.

Haverly's minstrels meditate a raid through Montana.

Butte will have one more variety show, making five in all.

A number of Helena's prominent citizens are putting gas in their residences.

A daily stage line is to be put in operation between Boulder City and Elkhorn.

Boulder City is going to build telephone lines to Butte, Helena, Wickes and Elkhorn.

Sam Townsend, with his own and Bob Roberts' outfits is freighting between Chaldron and points in the Black Hills.

It is definitely settled that all the Chinese cooks at Walkerville will be discharged at the end of this month. White help will be at a premium in that town.

The Plymouth Rock cattle company of Beaverhead county, last week bought 1,000 head of cattle of Thomas Pierce, of Horse Prairie. The price is not stated.

The Odd Fellows have a fine working lodge of thirty-five members at Choteau, and the first steps have been taken to organize a lodge of Knights of Pythias.

Some unhung wretch having neither fear of God nor respect for his fellow man stole an eight-gallon keg of beer from a newly married couple at Walkerville.

The members of the Big Hole herding association have determined to ship to Chicago again this year, and will gather to ship from Red Rock about the 5th of October.

Mrs. Sarah Ella Davidson, of Boulder valley, recently killed a bear that was loafing around the house, and secured $7.50 bounty for the hide, which she needed to make the last payment on her sewing machine.

H. B. Wadsworth, while superintending the Bad Lands cattle company's shipment of beaves at Dickinson, last Saturday, slipped and fell from the top of a canoe, breaking his leg in the fall. Mrs. M. Wadsworth went to Dickinson to attend him.—Bad Lands Cow Boy.

The rumored appointment of A. J. Steele, of Helena, to the receivership of the land office of that place, vice Burton removed, proves to be a canard. The same is true of the removal of Judge Galbraith and the appointment of Borie, of Butte.

The hunters in the vicinity of the National Park are not meeting with as good success as formerly in their quest for game. Elk and deer are very scarce in the hunting grounds north and west of the Park, and if the Park boundary is crossed policemen are watching every movement.

The city of Helena has concluded a contract for the ensuing year with the Helena Electric Light company for supplying the city with sixteen lights at $15 per month each, or $2,880 per year, the contract to take effect on the 1st of October. The present contract price is $3,300 for sixteen lights. The new contract will be a saving of nearly $500.

A man named Curtis was arrested by Stock Inspector Smith at the Missouri, where he was running a herd of cattle for T. C. Power. His right name is Miller, and he is wanted in Nebraska for cattle stealing. He was arrested there a year ago last April, but escaped from the authorities. He was formerly a butcher at Fort Robinson.—Billings Gazette.

Thomas McGill informed the Gazette last evening that the Bull mountain round-up had found the remains of a man near Hibbard creek, about sixteen miles from Junction City. The body was much decayed. From the clothing and boots it was thought to have been the remains of a soldier, possibly a deserter who had perished last winter.—Billings Gazette.

Tuesday afternoon there were three piles of silver bars corded up in front of the Pacific express office awaiting shipment—one of the largest shipments for a single day of the present year. The Lexington owned two of the three shining piles—eighteen bars, valued at $34,768—and the Moulton the other, containing nine bars, worth $14,600—a total value of $49,368.—Inter-Mountain.

Northern Montana, while enjoying no boom, is nevertheless fast settling up by a good and industrious class of citizens. As evidence of this, three years ago there was only one ranch on Otter creek, while now one will see nearly every half mile of its full length the neat and well kept cottages of the rancher and stockman. This is the kind of immigration Montana needs and should encourage. Boom immigration has never yet made any new country noted or wealthy.—Great Falls Tribune.
