The Women of Costa Rica. The little delays at the various wayside stations afford excellent opportunities of observing the different types of Costa Ricans, for side by side with the traveled gentleman, attired with scrupulous regard to the fashions of this last quarter of the Nineteenth century, stand the barefooted men of the peon class, in nearly every case more than decently garbed, but with the silken scarf about the waist and the huge machete which are the insignia of their rank in life.

These women, even small girls, wear full starched skirts that touch the ground, only displaying their small bare feet as the folds sway in the motion of walking. From living so much in the open air and from the amount of exercise taken, they nearly all glory in splendidly developed chests, which, with their rounded arms, are fully displayed by the low, much befrilled waists worn by them all, differing only in the matter of more or less adornment.

While referring to the beauty of the peon women it must be added that their pleasing appearance lasts only with the years of their first youth. Whether the exercise and the open air together produce a too early decay, it is hard to say—the result is there all the same. Side by side with the young and handsome daughter, the picture of blooming health, stands the mother—a worn and wrinkled crone—the two pictures of "She" and looking from one to the other the heart is moved with the same compassion with which poor Holly gazed upon the awful remains of that imperial loveliness that had wrought such havoc with his middle aged affections.—Costa Rica Cor. St. Louis Republican.

Miles of Rose Plantations. The railroad companies in Lower Hungary are successfully making use of the Provence rose for hedges by the sides of the railways to protect the tracks from drifting snow. The writer, in imagination, pictures the scene of "summer's journey gladdened by the glory of roses, shining to the right and left of a swiftly gliding steam chariot, while the surrounding atmosphere is fraught with faintly subtle scents which superinduce a soft languor in the fortunate traveler."

Between Tatar Bazar and Adrianople the following the post road on a sultry June day miles after mile through enormous rose plantations blazng with scarlet and crimson, and giving out odors well nigh as overpowering as that of the attar distilled from their gorgeous blossoms. In those fields of queen flowers he may gaze to his fill on "the Damask rose, whose rare mixture doth disclose beauties pencils cannot feign." The uncounted millions of roses grown in Roumelia are not merely turned to account by the rose farmers for sale to the preparers of that powerful essence which, inclosed in long, slender, carefully stoppered bottles lettered with gold, is still so popular throughout the east, although it has quite gone out of fashion in this country. Many tons' weight of their leaves, gathered and packed while they are freshly fallen, are converted into rose jam, one of the exquisite conserves which, under the generic name of "dul-shatz," are so admirably confectioned in Turkey, Greece and Roumania, and constitute a leading feature in the light but toothsome repast offered to the casual visitor in every well to do Oriental household.—Victor's Magazine.

FOR OLD PEOPLE!

In old people the nervous system is weakened, and that must be strengthened. One of the most prominent medical writers of the day, in speaking of the prevalence of rheumatic troubles among the aged, says: "The various pains, rheumatic or other, which old people often complain of, and which materially disturb their comfort, result from disordered nerves." There it is in a nutshell—the medicine for old people must be a nerve tonic. Old people are beset with constipation, flatulency, drowsiness, diarrhoea, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia.

These diseases are of nervous origin. Paine's Celery Compound, that great nerve tonic, is almost a specific in these disorders, and by its regulating influence on the liver, bowels, and kidneys, removes the disorders peculiar to old age. Old people find it stimulating to the vital powers, productive of appetite, and a promoter of digestion.

Sold by druggists, $1.00. Six for $5.00. Send for eight-page paper, with many testimonials from nervous, debilitated, and aged people, who bless Paine's Celery Compound.

There are Two Distinguishing Characteristics

Which, more than anything else, have contributed to the phenomenal growth of The Chicago Daily News, giving it a circulation larger than that of all other Chicago dailies combined. It seems strange that the first practical, combined application of two such common sense principles in journalism should have been left to a paper as yet only twelve years old. And yet true it is that in this fact lies the real secret of the unparalleled success of The Chicago Daily News. Briefly stated these principles are:

First. THE DAILY NEWS Is a daily paper for busy people.

Of all mankind the people of Chicago and the busy northwest are the busiest. And yet perhaps no equal number of people are to be found who appreciate so keenly the necessity of an intelligent knowledge of the world's daily doings. They recognize that they, more than anyone else, are the world's providers in many of the most important necessities of life. How important, then, that they should have their daily intelligence of every event, the world over, which by any possibility can affect their diversified commercial holdings. And in all the higher interests of life where can be found a like number of people more keenly appreciative of all that contributes to progress in art, literature, science, religion, politics, and the thousand and one things which make up modern civilization.

And yet, strange to say, right here in this great, busy northwest, in its busy metropolis Chicago, there has taken place the creation and development of that most cumbersome, unserviceable, time-consuming thing, the "blanket-sheet" newspaper. With the blindness of very fatuity this monstrosity of journalism, this breeder of mental dyspepsia, has steadfastly imposed its mountain of unthreshed straw to the demand of the people for the winnowed grain of fact. It was out of the very incongruousness of such a condition of things that THE DAILY NEWS had its birth. People wanted the News—all the news—but they demanded it apart from the over-crowding mass of the trivial and inconsequential. It is because THE DAILY NEWS satisfactorily meets that demand that its circulation is over a million a week.

M. LAWRENCE, Williamsville, Ill., says: "The 'big daily' is too much for me. Not that a person is obliged to read everything printed in the 'blanket-sheets,' but one having anything else to do doesn't have time to hunt through the long-drawn twaddle for a few grains of digestible food."

When to two such comprehensive elements of popularity THE DAILY NEWS now adds a third in its unparalleled price reduction to One Cent a day, it offers a combination of attractions at once unique and unapproachable by any other American newspaper, and one which will surely multiply its friends throughout the Northwest by the thousands.

The Chicago Daily News is for sale by all newsdealers at One Cent per copy, or will be mailed, postage paid, for $3.00 per year, or 25 cents per month. The farmer and mechanic can now afford as well as the merchant and professional man to have his metropolitan daily.
