A LACK of space this morning prevents us from taking extended notice of the somewhat remarkable article that appeared in the Courier of last evening regarding the candidacy of Mr. Batchelor for treasurer on the republican ticket. In order to keep the case open, we enter a demurrer, as the lawyers say, and shall to-morrow give the matter our attention. We give notice to the Courier and the democratic party that we shall file a counter complaint and when it is heard we will be content to go before the electors of Custer county with our case.

auditors and clinched them there with irrefutable arguments. Mr. Carter's speech although in the main, in a different channel from those delivered earlier in the campaign, was like all its predecessors, a matchless production, clear, concise and convincing; never descending to the illogical buffoonery indulged in by Bob Smith, and entirely devoid of the dreary platitudes of Mr. Elder. Following the connection between free trade and England, from a century before the revolution up to the present day, he presented to his audience a continuous history of the ups and downs of the pernicious doctrine in America and proved by undeniable statistics that whenever free trade flourished here, that home industries were blighted, only to be revived and prosperous under the benign influences of a return to the protective policy. There was no getting away from any statement that he made and the impression created by his logical prowess and evident mental superiority will undoubtedly largely increase his vote in Custer county. He is unquestionably an ideal candidate and if he has done as well elsewhere as he did here last night, and there is small reason to doubt it, his election is as sure as fate.

"A Great Newspaper." Under the above caption the New York Graphic, some three years ago, published a critical review of the growth of THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, which sets forth so clearly some of the fundamental principles underlying the development of one of the phenomenal successes of later years that it will repay a reading.

"The newspaper entitled to the distinction of having the largest daily circulation in America is THE CHICAGO DAILY NEWS. (Since this statement was made it is possible that the growth of the New York World entitles it to first place.) The Graphic to-day devotes a page to sketches of scenes in and about its establishment. The history of this paper is probably without a parallel in the annals of American journalism. It was founded December 20th, 1875, and was the first low-priced daily successfully established in the West. At the end of its first year it had achieved a circulation of about 10,000. From that time on its growth has been remarkable. It now prints seven editions daily, comprising both morning and evening issues. Its statement of circulation for the year 1884 shows a daily average of 125,178 copies, unquestionably the largest daily circulation on the American continent. (The sworn statement for 1887 shows a daily average of 165,376.)

It seems hardly possible that an endorsement of merit could be framed in stronger terms than the foregoing analysis, and yet how much greater is not the achievement now that such a journal as THE DAILY NEWS is placed in every man's hands at the reduced price of ONE CENT A DAY.

much indebted for its remarkable growth in circulation to the persistent adherence on the part of the other Chicago dailies to the "blanket-sheet" style of journalism. Of all the papers in America the average Chicagoan is most in a hurry and least inclined to wade through columns of verbiage and stuff. THE DAILY NEWS is the only Chicago daily that has the facilities for giving all the news, and at the same time the good sense to present it in concise form. The result of such a condition of affairs is that THE DAILY NEWS prints more papers than all the other Chicago dailies combined.

"In considering all the causes which have entered into and produced so phenomenal a naturalistic growth the most important one unquestionably has been the controlling conviction of its managers that the "cheap paper" should be cheap only in price; that its news should be as fresh and complete, its editorial discussion as able, and its general tone and character as pure and healthful as its best and highest priced cotemporary. All this the "cheap paper" may easily be even at its reduced price.

"The difference of revenue, between the two-cent paper (even more so when the price is one cent), and the higher-priced "blanket-sheet," the latter throws away in useless and unasked for size, that not only is of no worth to the reader, but is even an annoyance, in that it compels him to glean what is of real news interest from a mass of verbiage and worthless amplification. It is because its managers have been wise enough to practically recognize these essential elements of the best American journalism of to-day that THE DAILY NEWS is the best and most popular general family newspaper published in Chicago or the West."
