FIGHT ON AN ENGINE. The Engineer and Fireman Grapple in a Death Struggle.

A fight, to the death, between the engineer and fireman of an express train, speeding through the country at night, is a bold deception of modern povelist.

The fireman is jealous of the engineer. One, crazed with drink, he heaps on fuel until the boiler is likely to explode. The engineer pleads with him, then expostulates, and at last attempts to prevent further addition. Then the fireman grapples the engineer and tries to throw him from the engine; a terrible struggle ensues. The fight is for life. They speak no word, but with teeth cleuched, strive one to precipite the other to the ground.

Meanwhile the train rushes on. The engineer, finally growing weak, endeavors to reach the regulator, to stop the train and summon help. Too late! The crazed fireman guesses his plan, stiffens himself to a superhuman effort, lifts the .xh-u-ted engineer from his feet, exclaiming:

"Ah, you want to step the train! Now, out you go."

With this he flings the engineer out -but the latter clings to him, he cannot shake him of, so both go out together! Drawn under the wheels, they are found headless, two bloody trunks clingin in a death embrace! And the 'rain, ungoverned, rushes on in the darkness! Here the story ends; the fate of the rain is left to the imagination. It is asy to see that the chances are a hundred to one that it rushes on to destruction. So with the person having chronic kidney complaint-it is almost certain to result in Bright's disease, then death, for the doctors admit they have no cure for it. But a certain cure may le had. Note what Sumpter Heard, of Frederick, Md., say , in a letter of May 19, 1890: "For five years I had been the victim of Bright's disease, at times suffering the severest pains, I tried many kidney remedies, and consulted as many physicians, but was not benefitted and at length became tired of what seemed to be and was a useless expenditt began taking Warner's Safe Cure and was relieved at once. The old symptoms recur occasionally, but I find relief only with the above remedy, which I regard as the best of posprictary medicines."

Mrs. R. J. Track, late of Min lis, bege to announce to the la making pariors over the schine with which I
