FAIR OPEN.

Inauguration of the Crowning Triumph of the Centuries, The Columbian Exposition.

The Thrill of Electric Life Runs through Every Vein of the White City—With Simple, Impressive Ceremonies as Becomes a Republic, the Fair is Opened.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The electric age was ushered into being in this last decade of the nineteenth century today when President Cleveland, by pressing a button, started the mighty machinery, rushing waters and revolving wheels in the World's Columbian exposition.

No exhibit of the fair that is to attract thousands to this city for the next six months can be more marvelous than the magical effect following the solemn opening of the fair today. Of the multitude of the visitors—some estimate the number as high as 200,000—probably not one fully realized the full import of the effect that was to come from the arrangement cleverly devised in the opening of the exposition. It was known in a vague way that the president was to press a golden key and that electric communication with the machinery was to start the fair, but no one realized how intricate was this machinery, how infinite the ramifications of that electric spark, until the great fountains threw up their geysers seventy feet in the air and the rumble and hum of wheels in the manufacturers' building and clatter of machinery in all parts of that area of a mile square or more, told the story of the final consummation of scientific thought.

The lifeless started into being on every hand, draped statuary shed its veil and revealed to the world the artistic labors of the past eighteen months, and in a moment all that had been apathetic and inert and inactive through the long hours of the morning sprang into animated existence and thrilled the multitude and crowned the triumph of the exposition. In previous exhibitions the possibilities of electricity had been limited to the mere starting of the engines in machinery hall, but in this it made thousands of servants do its bidding, and from the great Corliss engine and mammoth foundations down to the minutest acts where power and touch were requisite the magic of electricity did the duty of the hour.

Jupiter Pluvius held his uplifted and threatening fists over Chicago this morning. The skies were sodden and a bleak and chilled mist filled the atmosphere. The hunting throughout the city was damp and listless and a general tone of gloom prevailed the air and streets, but to Chicago, whose day of history this was, the weather conditions counted for nothing and very early the people were astir, and the bustling, eager spirit of the great west was bounding through every artery of this, its capital city. The consummation of this great enterprise took place today, when the myriad of wheels began turning at Jackson park in response to the touch of the nation's executive upon the golden key that reached out through the electric train to the mighty engines which are to the World's Columbian exposition the vital moving energy.

Deadlock at Great Falls.

GREAT FALLS, May 1.—The court room was utilized tonight to accommodate the crowd who were anxious to see the first democratic mayor of Great Falls sworn in. Mayor Gelthorpe was greeted with cheers when he assumed the gavel. He thanked the assemblage for the honor conferred, and after clearly outlining the policy of the new administration proceeded to make nominations for the several offices at his disposal. He named Robert Pontet for city marshal, S. B. Robbins for city engineer and S. T. Clark for garbage inspector. The latter was the only one confirmed, the council refusing to acquiesce in the appointment of the others. The mayor stated that he would stand firm and persist in the appointment of every man he had originally named. The action of the council in refusing to confirm the mayor's appointments is being universally condemned. The council stands five republicans to three democrats, and it is feared a protracted struggle has been inaugurated.

Refuse to Confirm.

BUTTE, May 1.—The new city government of Butte took hold of the reins tonight, E. O. Dugan being installed as mayor. The message of the mayor was lengthy and thorough, going strongly in to the subject of police reform and street paving. There was a lively time over the appointments, resulting in a partial deadlock. Under the new law the mayor has the appointing of all officers, but they must be confirmed by a majority vote of the council. The mayor is a democrat and his nominations were uniformly democratic. The republicans are in a majority in the council by nine aldermen to seven. At a caucus this afternoon they decided to hold out for some of the offices by refusing to confirm. The appointments of James Nichols as city marshal, James Leiden as chief of police, W. T. Eastman as assistant city clerk, F. W. Blackford as city engineer, A. D. Cameron as fire marshal, J. L. Sionne as assistant fire marshal, Richard Kemp as sanitary policeman and J. J. Feely as jailer were confirmed. The nominations of Pierin W. Irvine as city clerk, Dr. W. H. Haviland as health officer, and P. J. McArthur as street commissioner, were not confirmed, the republicans deciding they wanted these offices for themselves.

P. J. Brophy, David Maule and William Gallick were appointed police commissioners.

Tender Hearted.

She—Have you doctors any feelings?
 He—Oh, yes. When my own brother is sick I call in another physician. Doesn't that show it?
 She—Yes. A man who has no complications about murder but avoids fratricide, must have some feelings.—Life.

Conversing.

"Well," remarked Flizzoober smilingly, "I am glad to see that Bazzoo is in a fair way to get well now."
 "Has he changed doctors?"
 "Yes."
 "Who's attending him now?"
 "No one."—Sunny South.

Very Hard.

Pendriver—I can't trust the proof-reader, you see, so I have to read everything I write myself after it is in type.
 Sympathizer—Have to read your own writings! Poor fellow! Your lot is indeed a hard one.—Boston Transcript.

No Accounting For Tastes.

Upcock—Don't give me a room on the top floor. When I wake up, I like to hear the birds sing.
 Chicago Hotel Clerk—Just as you say. Some prefer birds and some angels.—New York Herald.

Couldn't Say When.

I had occasion to come to New York from Chicago one cold winter's night a year ago. The car was wretchedly heated and as drafty as sleeping cars generally are. In the morning, after a miserable night's rest, I pulled my flask out of my bag in search of warmth and comfort. As I started to fill the cup I perceived that the eyes of the porter were wistfully fixed on the liquid, and as the day was so cold I could not resist his pleading gaze. "Bring a glass," I said, and as he promptly held one up, "say when," I added, pouring the whisky slowly out. The darky rolled his eyes toward the roof of the car till the whites alone were visible. "Eze blind, deaf and dumb, sah!" he exclaimed.—Quips.

Conclusive.

Nervous Old Party—Will he bite?
 Nervy Salesman—They ain't no bite to it.
 N. O. P.—What's its name?
 N. S.—Marguerite.
 N. O. P.—But its head is so large.
 N. S.—A sign of unusual intelligence.
 N. O. P.—What is it?
 N. S.—A toy terrier.
 N. O. P.—Is it pure breed?
 N. S.—It oughter be. I raised it from a toy myself.—Life.

A Balm-maker to Be Depended Upon.
 Frederick W. Root is a good deal of a hoodoo. He gracefully acknowledges the charge himself. It is a singular fact that whenever he appears to deliver a lecture the rain begins to fall. He is so good a rain producer that he has humorously considered the idea of utilizing his talents for that purpose in the arid regions of the west.

While at Silver Lake Assembly, in New York state, he delivered a lecture on musical tastes or a kindred subject. He had delivered the same lecture a half dozen times in the west, and the refreshing shower came along each time before he had half finished it.

But when he reached the Silver Lake Assembly grounds the sky was bright, and Mr. Root congratulated himself upon having shaken off his evil spirit. He mounted the rostrum, cleared his throat, and when he had got as far as "Friends and fellow citizens" the rumble of distant thunder greeted him.

upon his ears. Yet he gathered up his courage and went on, and before he had delivered a quarter of his lecture the rain came down in torrents.

"Indeed," said Mr. Root, "I never saw it rain so hard before." After the address a witty young Chicago woman who knew of the hoodoo business suggested, for the convenience of the public, that next year Mr. Root should write a lecture upon a dry subject.—Chicago Post.

The Drest

"Does he write to you regularly since you became engaged?"
 "No. Sometimes I only get one letter a day."—Life.

Notice of Election on Question of Issuing City Bonds.

Notice is hereby given that on the second Monday in May, to-wit: the 8th day of May, 1893, the same being the day upon which the city election will be held for the election of city officers for the City of Miles City, Montana, there will be submitted to the qualified electors of said city the proposition to issue city bonds in the sum of eight hundred dollars for the purpose of purchasing the necessary site and erecting thereon a city building for the use of the various city officers, fire department, and to contain a city jail and an assembly hall; the said proposed bonds to be payable in not less than ten nor more than twenty years, and to bear interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent. per annum, the interest to be payable semi-annually.

The city clerk will have prepared the necessary ballots for the said purpose, which ballots will contain the words "For City Bonds" and the words "Against City Bonds." All qualified electors who would be entitled to vote for city officers at said election will have the right to vote upon this question of bonding.

In voting upon this question of bonds the elector shall indicate the way he desires to vote by crossing out with a pencil part of the ballot in such a manner that the remaining part shall express his vote upon the question, that is to say: if he desires to vote in favor of issuing bonds he will scratch out or erase the words "Against City Bonds." If he desires to cast a negative vote on the question then he should erase the words "For City Bonds."

Dated this 6th day of April, 1893.
 S. GORDON,
 City Clerk.

In the little old

Brown School House

on 'the hill-side some of us read the story of the dog who, "like a miner wide-awake, he had been and raised a stake." Crossing a bridge, he thought he saw another dog and more meat below, and went for him. We know the sad result. The moral is a good one and a Kansas poet puts it this way:

"When a man has raised a stake,
 If he labors then to make
 Some poor neighbor drop his meat,
 It insures his own defeat."
 "No one merchant yet was made
 Who could gobble all the trade,
 Painfully misfortune pelts
 Those who reach for some one else."
 "No one builder yet could out
 Every other builder's mood,
 If you have a god-sized bone,
 Let the other dog alone."

While the other fellows are growling for our bone, we take pleasure in offering you some Great Values in Gen's Half Hose for 25c. We also sell Groceries at a small advance on the Cost.
