PLENTY OF MONEY.

Offers of Assistance From Eastern Banks Refused at Denver.

All of the Failed National Banks Are Realizing on Assets and Will Re-open in a Short Time.

DENVER, July 21. No more failures are announced here to-day and none are expected. Confidence is being rapidly restored. Offers of assistance from eastern banks have been received, but it is not needed. The banks have decided not to push any debtor who shows a desire to pay. It is understood that the German and State National banks have received large sums and will resume. Bank Examiner Adams, from such examination as he has been able to make, says all closed banks can settle in full and have a balance left. It is believed all the commercial houses are in equally good shape. It is said the R. E. Newton Lumber Company resumed this morning and the Flanders Dry Goods Company will do likewise during the day. Others will follow shortly. Merchants and bankers have issued a card declaring their belief that the present trouble is only temporary and declaring that the recent revolutionary utterances do not represent the people of the State and urging upon Congress to pass a free silver bill.

Farmers Around Waterville, Ohio, Open Up a Bonanza.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Pressspecial from Toledo says: Intense excitement exists in the hamlet of Waterville, fifteen miles west of this city, over a phenomenal oil find. The territory was abandoned as worthless thirty years ago. Recent indications induced a few farmers and one or two speculators to lease all the territory possible. The work was conducted secretly. All at once several wells were opened. Two wells are flowing 200 barrels a day and several others are running 200 and 400.

Oil men from all over the country are flocking in on every train. The Standard Oil Company have also representatives here who are taking up everything in sight that has not already been secured. A number of farmers will make thousands perhaps millions, if they do not lose their heads. The little town of 500 to-day looks like a city. Hundreds are arriving daily and are living in tents, board shanties and anything that will afford slight protection from the weather.

Loss Nearly a Million.

LONG ISLAND, N. Y., July 21. Two entire blocks of buildings, making up the business portion of the First ward, together with other property, burned this morning. More than a hundred families are homeless. The loss is $800,000. Included in the property destroyed are St. Mary's new Roman Catholic church, just completed at a cost of $300,000, the costly new parochial school, parsonage, Creeter's hotel, grocery, dry-goods and paint stores, and a number of tenements, one row of which was owned by Gov. Flower. The occupants of all the tenements escaped with their lives.

Fatal Trap for Two.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Two sons of Andrew Peterman, of Bradlock, lost their lives while bathing in the Monongahela river last evening. John, aged 9, dived and struck his head on a piece of cinder. He sank to the bottom. His brother, Stanislaus, aged 12, jumped to the rescue, and he, too, failed to come to the surface. John Simon, going down to search for the boys, but for assistance would have been drowned. When he recovered he said the bodies of the two boys were held in a bunch of iron hoops and wire, in which he also had become entangled.

Used Kerosene on the Fire.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—Last evening Mrs. Tim Laughney, of 99 Bridge street, Etna, tried to start her kitchen fire, using oil as kindling. A terrific explosion followed. The roof of the kitchen was blown off and Mrs. Laughney was covered with burning oil. Her husband succeeded in extinguishing the fire, but not until his wife had been frightfully burned. After a few hours of great agony she died.

The Fatal Trolley Car.

PITTSBURGH, July 21.—At 9:15 o'clock this morning car No. 48, of the West End electric line, ran down and instantly killed Maggie Pixler and fatally injured Emma Pixler, her cousin. The children were crossing the street and apparently did not see the approaching car. Motorman Wilson was arrested.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Offers of silver to the Treasury to-day aggregated 670,000 ounces at 70 to 71 1/4. Thirty thousand ounces were purchased at 70.

It Should be in Every House.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay st., Sharpshurg Pa., says he will be without Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of la grippe, when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims that Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at John Wright's drug store.

PHOTOGRAPHS IN MULTIPLE.

Tiny Portraits Turned Out by Thousands to Satisfy a Fad.

Hidden under the staircase of a frame building on Pennsylvania avenue is an oddity in the shape of a photographer's shop. Nobody ever goes there to have his picture taken, and yet the business is a profitable one. For one thing, the proprietor has a long lease of the premises at a rental of only $2 a month. His establishment amounts to nothing more than a large closet, which is utilized as a dark room for work. There is nothing to be seen of screens, skylights, shabby furniture, which looks as good as new when taken by the camera, or the instruments for holding the head steady, which are so suggestive of portraits to children. The words, "Look pleasant, please," are never uttered in this secluded studio.

In fact, the photographer himself is very rarely to be found on the premises. People send in pictures of themselves to be reproduced by an extraordinary process of multiplication. They must be cabinet sized photographs. He has an instrument which looks very much like a stereoscope of the sort that one looks through at photographs, only about three times as big. In place of the part for the eyes there is a small camera, and a few inches in front of the latter is a kind of frame in which the cabinet portrait to be reproduced is put. The camera, though such a little one, has 28 lenses. One might compare it to the eye of a sea, which is multiple in like fashion.

It is a snap camera and makes 35 miniature copies of the cabinet portrait at one shot on a single negative. From the negative the pictures are printed off in sheets of 35 distinct photographs each. It does not take long to produce them in large quantities at this rate, and so the operator finds a profit in selling them at the price of $1 for 50. He sells 100 for $2, 500 for $7, or 1,000 for $14. It is a very cheap way to procure a lot of counterfeit presentments of one's self. A good many people order 500 or 1,000. At the time of the inauguration such photographs of Mr. Cleveland were worn as badges by some of the visiting political clubs, with a ribbon fastening each one to the buttonhole of the wearer.

The back of these little photographs, which are a novelty, are spread with dextrine. It serves as a sort of mullage, so that the pictures can be licked like postage stamps and stuck upon anything. Commercial travelers affix them to the corners of their "advance cards" sometimes, which they mail a week or two ahead to firms in towns which they expect to visit shortly. Thus the recipients get a notion of the appearance of the agent before he comes along if they were not previously acquainted with him or are agreeably reminded of his physiognomy. In the same manner the theatrical people stick them on their letters, and various other professional persons adopt similar practices. In fact, it is quite a fad.—San Francisco Examiner.

One of Ralph Waldo Emerson's Stories.

Mr. Emerson himself had a story—I forget whether I heard it in a lecture or in conversation—about a New England come outer who went into a bathshop and selected for himself a costly hat. The hat was put up and the dealer supposed he was to be paid, but the man whom he had thought to be a purchaser said simply: "Oh, I pay nothing for anything. I am the man who does not believe in money." The poor dealer had a note to meet at the bank that day and hardly knew how to do it. He looked with dumb delight upon his customer and said: "I wish to God, sir, that nobody else believed in money! Take the hat, with my thanks to you for coming for it."

Mr. Emerson would say this was all spontaneous—it was natural on the part of the customer and on the part of the trader. But when, the next day, another man who had heard the story came into the shop and selected for himself his hat, and said that he did not believe in money, the dealer refused the imitator where he had accepted so readily the inventor. And Emerson drew the moral from the story which I want to draw now. A prophet who speaks the word that comes to him from the living God speaks, I may say, with the living God's power. But he who imitates the prophet has no spell.—Edward E. Hale's Address.

She Had Been There.

Perdita—You haven't the faintest idea how much I love him.
Penelope—Oh, yes I have—I used to love him that way myself.—Brooklyn Life.

Championed by a Gamble.

A ragged, barefooted boy, a crossing sweeper, had doffed his cap to the Duchess of Sutherland in the hope of recognition, when he observed a well dressed but rakish looking man following her across the street, as if trying to force upon her attentions that were evidently obnoxious to her. There was a look of distress on the duchess's face.

"Sense me, lady," said a boy's voice beside her, "shall I punch 'is back?" She turned, looked down angrily upon the little sweeper, and then said, smiling: "Why, it's Jumble!"

She had remembered his name after all, and at that moment the boy was in a body and soul. Without giving his another word he dashed off and turned a sort of violent "cartwheel" so as to calculate that he landed with two very muddy feet in the middle of the official's man's waistcoat.

Then, before the man could recover from the shock, the boy had charged him with one muddy hand across the mouth and with the other had deposited a handful of the filthy compound on the back of his neck.

The next moment the boy was in the grasp of a policeman who dragged him away to the nearest police station. He was just being charged by the constable with having committed an assault upon the duchess entered. She spoke kindly to the gamine and then explained the affair to the inspector on duty.

At her request the boy was set at liberty, and he staid only long enough to say to the inspector:

"It's the lady what nursed me when the cab run over me leg."—London Cor. New York Tribune.

Getting on a Street Car.

Did you ever notice a man who is going to get on a street car while it is in motion? He comes down off the sidewalk and stands along the side of the track until the car almost reaches him. Then he walks ahead a few feet and prances about like a string haltered horse, away and as a slaughter rooster that wants to fight. Just as the car reaches him he takes two or three steps sideways, and at last, confused as a schoolboy, grasps the hand rail and clings on like a man who is drowning.—Colorado Sun.

A Matter of Time.

Waggleigh—How did you like that dinner service I sent you today, dear?
Mrs. Waggleigh—Oh, it is perfectly lovely, but there are only 91 pieces in it, and you know the set mamma has consists of 117 pieces.
Waggleigh—Well, dear, don't let that worry you. After Bridget has handled it for a week or so it will be in a good many more pieces than that.—Exchange.

The World's Fair—What It Means.

It means that from May 1st until Oct. 31st there will be an exhibition in Chicago the triumphs of all the ages. The rarest and choicest specimens of the handiwork of man from the nations of the earth will be there to instruct and delight.

That for six months Chicago will be the most cosmopolitan spot on the globe. That the American people will have the wonderful opportunity of mingling with and observing the habits and characteristics of the people of every nation in the world.

That "villages" of the different foreign countries, constructed by and made up entirely of people direct from such countries, will be a most interesting feature of the fair.

That the American citizen, of whatever foreign birth or parentage, may carry himself back again to the land of his origin by visiting and studying these foreign "villages."

That a few days or weeks spent at the World's Fair will be worth years of travel.

That this is the grandest opportunity the American people have ever had for interesting study and pleasure, and that a trip to Chicago during the next six months would be the event of a lifetime.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway offers the best and most frequent train service from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Chicago. The only line lighting its trains by electricity. The most perfect dining service and the best sleeping cars in this country. Ask your agent for tickets via "The Milwaukee"—the Government's Fast Mail Line, or address
