CONGRESS.

Senator Voorhees Orates on Behalf of His Motion for Repeal.

He Proclaims Himself a Bi-Metallist and Argues for Repeal on the Grounds that it Will Help Silver.

WASHINGTON, August 22.—Senator Voorhees addressed the Senate this morning at length on behalf of his motion repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act.

He praised the administration for its refusal to ratify the demand of capitalists for an issue of three hundred million more of bonds.

As a bi-metallist, he voted against the passage of the Sherman act, and for the same reason would now vote for its repeal. He avowed his unshaken faith that silver would remain forever one of the world's great potent factors of finance, commerce, traffic, and in daily business transactions. It would neither be demonetized nor driven away from the habitations of the greater masses of mankind.

The question will be asked whether votes shall be given for the unconditional repeal of the law before a substitute has been agreed upon. He was in favor of eradicating this confessed evil from the body of our laws with no other condition than his right and free ability to support and secure in connection with its repeal or afterward by independent measures, a sound financial system, embracing the coinage of silver on an equality with gold, which had been the declaration of the Chicago democratic platform.

He urged the necessity of financial legislation:

First—A law which would furnish a sufficient specie basis guaranteed by public honor.

Second—To deprive individuals, corporations or syndicates of the power to cause fluctuation in the amount of the different currencies in circulation.

Third—To maintain on a parity gold, silver and paper money.

Fourth—To settle the status of silver money by authorizing it to form a portion of the specie basis required by chartered banks.

Fifth—To overthrow the dangerous centralization of the money power now existing at two money centers in the hands of a few individuals by giving the people of a state the right of home rule on the subject of money, thus securing them home circulation.

To these five propositions should be added a carefully adjusted and graded income tax as the most equitable and upright measure for providing the government with revenue.

THE HOUSE.

The Speaker laid before the House a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury in response to a resolution of the House asking for information relative to the purchase and coinage of silver under the Sherman act. It was ordered printed.

On motion of Lount, of California, the Senate bill was passed admitting free of duty all articles intended for exhibition at the California mid-winter international exposition.

Johnson (dem.) of Ohio, asked unanimous consent for the introduction of his bill to permit the exchange of United States bonds for Treasury notes. There was no objection and the bill was referred to the committee on banking and currency, with leave to report at any time after a special order.

The silver debate was resumed, and Brieker (dem.) of Wisconsin, addressed the House in favor of the repeal of the purchasing clause.

Short in His Accounts.

OGDEN, Utah, August 22.—Today a warrant was issued for the arrest of Alfred H. Nelson, formerly secretary and manager of the Ogden Building and Savings association of this city, for embezzlement of the funds of the company. The estimated shortage is about $13,000. Nelson and family left for parts unknown early this morning.

Surrounded by a Posse.

OKLAHOMA, Ill., Aug. 22.—At Brushy Fork, six miles north of this city, 250 infuriated men are surrounding a swamp in which is hidden Lou, G. Myers, who is wanted for two of the most diabolical crimes ever perpetrated in this state. Last Friday Myers went to the house of a neighbor named Will, and assaulted Mrs. Will, who is a weakly woman. She was seriously injured in the struggle. A short time after Myers met his eleven-year-old niece, assaulted her, then took a string, made a noose of it, put it around her neck and hanged the little girl to a tree. Then he returned home, gave his own wife a severe beating, also one of his little girls, and fled to the woods, not, however, before securing a Winchester rifle, a shot gun and two revolvers. The little girl whom he had assaulted and hanged to a tree was discovered by a neighbor and taken down. Life was not extinct, but it took over two hours to resuscitate her. Myers was traced from Burgett's ford to Gwin's woods, and sighted as he was entering the forest. Over fifty shots were fired at him, but none of them hit him. Myers in turn fired at the posse, slightly wounding two men. To-day the posse was largely increased and a determined effort will be made to catch the outlaw.

Caused Bloodshed.

MAHONEY CITY, Pa., August 22.—Last night the citizens of Gilberton tore up the track of the Schuylkill Traction company, because the company failed to comply with the borough ordinance. An attempt by the company to relay the tracks with an armed force this morning brought on a conflict with the citizens, resulting in the death of James Tarritt and Wm. Huges, citizens, and the injuring of Even Davis and Richard Amour, assistant superintendents of the company. Will O'Connor was also shot in the foot and others are reported injured. The wildest excitement prevails.

Bi-Metallists in New York.

NEW YORK, August 22.—A meeting of the New York delegates to the Chicago Bi-Metallist convention was held yesterday afternoon, and it brought together supporters of bi-metallism to complete arrangements for a general mass meeting at Cooper Union next Thursday evening. Among the speakers will be Congressmen Bland, Bryan and Bailey and Gen. A. J. Warner.

WASHINGTON, August 22.—The vote on the Lee Mantle case, which was to have been taken yesterday, went over one more day.

Grover Coming Back.

WASHINGTON, August 22.—The President is expected back at the end of next week.

Photographing in Colors.

Color photography has attracted much attention during the past year or 18 months, and the experiments in that line have been startlingly successful. Professors Lippmann and Vogel are the pioneers in this branch of the photographic art, and both are enthusiastic over recent results. Lippmann's investigations have proven that on a layer of albumen he could take brilliant photographs of the spectra, nor was it necessary to bring out the colors one at a time by a laborious application of specially prepared chemicals. On the contrary, they all came out at once, even red, and that, too, without the interposition of colored screens. In a letter to a society of photographers Lippmann says: "Announce the most wonderful discovery of the age. I have brought out colors more brilliant than the tints of the rainbow after an exposure of less than 30 seconds. Alas! I grieve to tell you that there are certain colors in the rainbow that I have not succeeded in obtaining to my plate."—St. Louis Republic.

Many of the South Sea Islanders believe that paradise can be inherited only by persons of perfect physical form. Where this belief prevails a man will die rather than submit to amputation.

Mr. Labouchere's Fish Story.

If Mr. Henry Labouchere has a habit of getting into trouble, he has also a happy knack of getting out of it. For instance, the other day, after he had printed an important piece of news about the proper way to cook crawfish and a humane reader of Truth expostulated with him about his advice to the cook to cut the live fish in halves, he retorted merrily by expressing the opinion that it is ridiculous sentiment to treat creatures of low or rudimentary organizations as if they had the same susceptibility to pain as a human being, and settled the question finally by telling an anecdote about an angling friend of his who once "caught a perch foul."

The hook pierced the fish's eye. My friend felt that he had not caught the perch according to the rules of the game, so, to compensate him for losing his eye, he put him back into the water. He then baited his hook with the eye and went to work again. Within three minutes he caught that same perch again with his own eye.

This is a capital fish story. We have not heard a better tale in a long while. It is a lie of course, but all fish stories are, and it has the merits of originality and humor. We like Mr. Labouchere the better for such harmless fibs.—New York Times.

Like the Belt of the Summer Girl.

The ancient girdle was used for other material or actual purposes besides that of a receptacle for money. At it were hung the thousand and one odds and ends needed and utilized in every day affairs. The scrivener had his inkhorn and pen attached to it, the scholar his book or books, the monk his crucifix and rosary, the innkeeper his tallies, and everybody his knife. So many and so various were the articles attached to it that the flippant began to poke fun. In an old play there is mention of a merchant who had hanging at his girdle a pouch, a spectacle case, a "punnisard," a pen and inkhorn and "a handkercher, with many other trinkets besides, which a merry companion seeing said it was like a haberdasher's shop of small wares." In another early play a lady says to her maid: "Give me my girdle and see that all the furniture be at it. Look that cizars, pinners, the penknife, the knife to close letters with, the bolkin, the earpickier and the scale be in the case."—Chambers' Journal.

A Handle to His Name.

"I understand," said a pompous employer to one of his clerks, "that you are in the habit of speaking of me by my Christian name?"
"It is possible that I have done so, sir," answered the clerk humbly.
"In future you will use the prefix 'Mr.' when alluding to me. I am 'George' only to my friends. Do not forget hereafter that I have a handle to my name."
"I will try to remember," said the clerk. "I know we always say George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Tom Palmer, but these are distinguished men, not everyday people, George—excuse me—Mr. Smythe," and the clerk retired to write out his resignation.—Detroit Free Press.

Pigeons Do Not Fly by Sight.

The numerous experiments made by balloonists have proved that pigeons are incapable of flying at any great height. Birds thrown out at 6,000 meters fell like dead, and even at the moderate height of 300 meters pigeons liberated by the balloonist Gaston Tissandier approached the earth in a spiral course. It is evident, hence, that they are not guided wholly by sight. To bring a point 300 miles distant within the range of vision it would be necessary to ascend nearly 20,000 meters. The carrier pigeon, starting on such a journey, must consequently start with faith in the unseen.—Philadelphia Press.

The Fickle and Hazing Missouri.

The current of the Mississippi river averages from 24 to 4 miles an hour in velocity, but a steamboatman on the Missouri would be pretty apt to call this still water, as that stream flows along under ordinary circumstances at the rate of 8 and 10 miles an hour, and on state occasions it develops the speed of an avalanche. Engineers consider bridging the Missouri a difficult accomplishment, as the swift current is so versatile in its course and ruinous in its velocity that it is impossible to predict where the channel is liable to drift.—Alton Sentinel.

The Term Spinster.

Among our industrial and frugal English forefathers it was a maxim that a young woman should never be married until she had spun herself a set of body, table and bed linen. From this custom all unmarried women were termed spinsters, an appellation they still retain in all our law proceedings.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Now Try This.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a cough, cold or any trouble with throat, chest or lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to give relief or money will be paid back. Sufferers from la grippe found it just the thing, and under its use had a speedy and perfect recovery. Here the students of agriculture could have experimented with every product of the soil, that matures in the temperate zone and fitted themselves for the pursuit of scientific agriculture in any portion of the country. But it was not to be, and now's the pity.
