Happy Days! Happy Years!! Happy Hours!!!

Sing a song of happy days—
Sing it all the time!
Kisses bloom in the ways—
Bells that sweetly chime!

Sing a song of happy years—
Sing it day and night;
Let the rain shed all the tears—
Let the heart be light!

Sing a song of happy hours—
Sing it loud and long!
Brothers, sisters, lovers, wives,
Join the thrilling song!
Right or wrong,
Still sing that song,
Till angels to chorus throng!

Come to see us and look over our new store. We keep every thing you need about the house and plenty of good things to eat and of the very best quality and at such low prices too. A visit to our store will make you feel like singing a happy song when you get back home.

Besides all the good things we got to eat, we have good warm woolen underwear and clothing, boots and shoes and hats for the menfolk and boys, and good broad shoes for the womenfolk and nice fine shapely shoes for the young ladies and children.

Come to see us and stay all day, we love to show our goods.

SEAL OF APPROVAL

Set by the United States Court
Upon the Conduct of President Oakes.

Mr. Oakes Made no Illegal Gains and Knew of no One Who Was Doing So.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 15.—Judge Jenkins' decision, filed in the United States circuit court today, confirms a portion of Special Master Carey's report, exonerating Receiver Oakes and commending his conduct.

The decision reviews the master's report in detail. After referring to the history of the petition for the removal of the receivers, stating that it was dismissed by the court as to Messrs. Payne and House, and was referred to Master in Chancery Carey for examination as to Oakes, the decision states that there were four questions to be determined by the master: First, whether any of the Northern Pacific directors had made any unlawful gains out of the Rocky Park and Cooke City deal; second, whether any of the directors had made unlawful gains out of the Manitoba deal; third, whether there had been unlawful gains in the Chicago & Northern Pacific deal; and, fourth, whether an exorbitant rate had been paid for the property, whether anybody in the Northern Pacific made anything out of the leasing of the terminal lines, and, lastly, whether in respect to the transactions directed to be investigated Thomas F. Oakes knew, or ought to have known, of them, and what measures, if any, he took in preventing them for the protection of the interests of the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

The master, the judge says, was two months in taking testimony in the matter and had rendered a necessarily lengthy report, one that was the most elaborate, indicating painstaking and thorough scrutiny of evidence and careful consideration of the question involved.

He then states that the master found that Henry Villard had made unlawful gains to the amount of $300,000 in the Manitoba deal, but Oakes did not know, and was not bound to know, that Villard was making unlawful gains in the acquisition of the Manitoba road by the Northern Pacific deal, and that in the Rocky Park deal no unlawful gains had been made by Northern Pacific directors and Oakes was not only free from blame, but if he had done otherwise than he did, "he would have been open to the just criticism of either lacking the business sagacity to be expected of one in his high official position, or of having seriously neglected great interests committed to his charge."

The question of ordering receivers to bring suits against certain directors to recover unlawful gains is held for future decision.

No Sign of the Thieves.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 15.—A large force of detectives is still hunting for the men who robbed the eastbound express train of over $200,000 near this city last Thursday night, but they have not yet discovered a clue which will lead to the identity of the men.

A sensational story comes from Woodland today to the effect that Melvin Hatch, who is confined in the county jail at that place, had told a fellow prisoner that he knew the train was to be robbed. Hatch is awaiting trial on a charge of murder.

Naval Defense of New Orleans.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Judge Advocate General Lemley, of the navy, has just returned to Washington from New Orleans, where he completed the purchase of a tract of land adjoining the site for a dock at Algiers, opposite the city. The price was $37,000. The prospect of the establishment of a great dock and naval station at the mouth of the Mississippi river has directed attention of the military authorities to the advisability of extending the general scheme of coast defense to that point.

Gold for Export.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—United States Treasurer Morgan received a telegram from Treasurer Jordan, at New York, stating that $500,000 in gold had been withdrawn from the sub-treasury for export. This is the first withdrawal of any importance since Aug. 6 last, and the news has had a disquieting effect upon treasury officials.

A Wonderful Conqueror.

No disease is more common among the people than scrofula. Handed down from generation to generation it is found in nearly every family, in some form. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in swellings in the neck or goitre or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane it may be known as catarrh, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is the prime cause of consumption.

In whatever form scrofula may manifest itself Hood's Sarsaparilla is its inveterate foe and conqueror. This medicine has such powerful alterative and vitalizing effects on the blood that every trace of impurity is expelled and the blood is made rich, pure and healthy.

Chopping the Record.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 15.—L. S. Upson of the Sacramento Athletic club of wheelmen today lowered the world's mile record for class A, unpaced, flying start, to 2:30 3/5.

THE SCOTTISH POETRY.

Scott's Description of the Chase and What the Ordinary Man Would Have Said.

Take, as a single instance of the power of poetry, Walter Scott's opening lines in the "Lady of the Lake," where he describes the chase of the stag. The stag escapes and evades his pursuers, but what a picture the great poet has put into words!

Reduced to prose the ordinary observer and writer would have said, "They chased the stag several miles, but lost him in the Trosachs." He could not possibly have said in prose:

The antlered monarch of the waste
Sprang from his heathery couch in haste,
But ere his feet career he took
The dewdrops from his flanks he shook;
Like crested leader, proud and high,
Toss'd his beamed frontlet to the sky:
A moment gaz'd adown the dale,
A moment sniff'd the tainted gale,
A moment listen'd to the cry
That thickened as the chase drew nigh.
Then as the headmost fies appear'd,
With one brave bound the copse he clear'd,
And stretching forward free and far
Sought the wild heaths of Cam-Var.
The poet began his picture with an incident that only a poet would have thought worthy of words, but what a picture the few words make!

The stag at eve had drunk his fill
Where danc'd the moon on Moilan's rill,
And deep his midnight lair had made
In lone Gianney's hazel shade.

Fire Easily Obtained.

The average civilized man would be hard put to it if he were compelled to start a fire without matches, tinder box or burning glass. But Lieutenant von Hohnel describes an African chief as not only accomplishing this feat, but doing it with quickness and ease. The traveler had asked him to show his skill.

It was really wonderful, in view of the moisture laden atmosphere, with what rapidity he did as I had requested. The materials employed were such as we saw wherever we went—two simple bits of wood, one flat about six inches long and not quite an inch wide, with a row of grooves on one side, the other about 12 inches long and of the thickness and shape of a lead pencil.

The longer piece, fixed in one of the grooves of the shorter piece, was held tightly between the palms of the hand and whirled rapidly round and round. In a few seconds the wood dust which was produced by the friction, and which fell through the grooves, began to smoke. This dust was carefully nursed into a blaze, which was fed with fine grass and bits of cotton stuff.

The whole thing is done so quickly that our men, even the lazy Wasungu, always employed this method on short halts for lighting their pipes.—Youth's Companion.

Around the World.

It was nearly three hundred years after Columbus discovered the new world that the first voyage around the globe was made. April 13, 1796, the already celebrated English navigator, Captain Cook, sailed from the tight little isle on a voyage of discovery. His ship was the "Endeavor," of 370 tons, about one-third the size of the largest ocean-going steamers of the present day, and yet he sailed away as confidently as our summer tourists now start for a tour of Europe. June 11, 1771, he returned to England to be knighted and to have his name written on the vaudy roll of fame. Eight years later he was killed by the natives of Hawaii while attempting to regain his boat after a slight misunderstanding with the dusky islanders. Contrast his dangerous and laborious journey with the trips made by Nellie Bly and Elizabeth Bisland, who realized Verne's fiction of "Around the World in Eighty Days." Not all of us have the time or money to go around the world, yet we may see something of our own country. A tour only over the Burlington system will take the traveler through the greater part of eleven great states of the west and show him all varieties of scenery and all degrees of development in communities. Ticket, rates, maps and information about the Burlington Route can be obtained from your home ticket, or you may address W. J. C. Kenyon Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

This Time Last Year.

For the convenience of those who wish to make comparisons and for the benefit of those who can never remember, the JOURNAL will hereafter keep standing a table of the corresponding month of last year, showing day by day the principal meteorological conditions, as obtained from the record kept by the United States weather observer in this city. Following is the record for Oct., 1893:

A HARD TASKMISTRESS.

The Late Rosina Vokes Took Her Art Rather Too Seriously.

The late Mrs. Clay, better known as Rosina Vokes, was a hard taskmistress. She took her art both seriously and rigidly and demanded the same from others. A young American girl during a one time connection with the Vokes company suffered extremely from a felon on her finger. Every movement of the arm gave her pain, and she was at length obliged to evade her required participation in "A Game of Cards," where the players clap hands, the one against the other. "You shirked your part last night, Miss Blank," Mrs. Clay took occasion to observe the following morning.

"I did," acknowledged Miss Blank, "for my finger is in such a condition, as you see, that present use of it is impossible."

"You will not shirk your part tonight, however," remarked Mrs. Clay, with an ominous gleam in her eye. The young American knew only too well that further remonstrance would probably result in her dismissal, so nothing more was said. That night, according to orders, she, with infinite pain, clapped hands briskly. At the first touch the blood gushed from her suffering finger; but, although her partner was Mrs. Clay, neither reference nor apology was made by that exacting star either then or afterward. "Still it was splendid training," said the young actress in later years. But to impartial, unprofessional outsiders such "training" smacks of tyranny.—New York Advertiser.
