 Canadian Subscriptions, 5c per year extra

Subscription outside of Flathead county payable strictly in advance.

In Flathead county subscription is payable at any time within the year. As most people in the county who take the paper do not like to have their subscription interrupted, a year's time is given in which to pay for it, and the paper does not stop when subscription expires unless so ordered.

If you are receiving a copy of the paper regularly, you will be expected to pay for it. Don't forget this. If subscription is not paid at the expiration of a year's time, you will receive notice. If you wish your paper stopped when your subscription expires, kindly notify this office.

There are no deadheads on The Pilot's list, and we want none, so if you do not expect to pay for the paper please take the trouble to have it stopped before you get in debt to us and we become the victim of misplaced confidence.

ADVERTISING RATES:

Prepare to decorate.
 Welcome to our city.

"Flathead's famous fertile fruit farms."

Come early on the Fourth, and then stay over Sunday and enjoy a day on the lake.

The increase in the salary of the Whitefish postmaster tells officially of the town's growth and advancement.

Insurance rates are too high in Whitefish, and there is something wrong with the laws which permit such conditions to exist.

Now that the fire bell has been placed in position, it is probable that the curfew ordinance will be made effective. At least it is hoped so.

Coming at the time when many new settlers have taken up homes in the state, the bountiful rains of the present season were certainly well timed.

A few more seasons like the present and the one just passed, and the halo of the irrigation king will have to be propped up with a stick in Montana.

The bounteous water power which is going to waste in Montana at present will some day be fully developed, and will make the state famous as a manufacturing center.

It is worthy of note, now that congress has adjourned, that Senator Jos. M. Dixon has also made good in that body, and sustained his reputation as "the man who does things."

With the bar eliminated from the democratic national convention building and the south going dry, the days of the joke about booze and democrats is certainly rapidly passing.

The farmer who is sure that seed is too costly a thing to use in adequate quantities belongs to the same school of finance as the merchant who is sure that advertising costs too much.—Twin Bridges Monitor.

The list of Fourth of July sports which will be furnished by the committee in charge is not yet complete, but it can be stated that there will be something unusually interesting in this line, as the committee has some novel features in view.

Every family should have a curfew which should positively "ring tonight," and every night if needed. The curfews are inexpensive and can be home made. Take a piece of siding two feet long and whittle one end down to a handle, and take the child that needs the curfew and bend him over a barrel. Now take the siding in hand and use it for a clapper. Put it on hot. Divide the strokes even and see that none miss. Good for a boy or girl up to the age of 16, and applications are warranted to cure the most pronounced case of street loafing that exists. The music the curfew makes is finer than singing "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?"—Ex.

The voters of Montana may have an opportunity hereafter to have something to say in the selection of the United States senators from this state. An effort is being made to invoke the initiative and referendum on the election of United States senators and several other measures. Seven of the requisite counties, in which petitions along this line have been circulated, have had their petitions filed with the secretary of state and the friends of the measure declare that by July 1 there will be on file at the state capitol petitions carrying the 5,000 names necessary to secure for the voters an opportunity to express themselves, on whether or not they want to declare their choice for United States senator at the polls.

A Grand Family Medicine.
 "It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Conlin of No. 436 Houston St., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at Percy F. Dodds' drug store. 50c.

How Many Bricks Have You Sent Away?

That sounds like a funny question, addressed to every citizen of this town and community, but it's really a serious one. Listen: There is now just completed a magnificent building of red brick exterior and concrete interior right in the business heart of one of the biggest of American cities. It occupies a whole block and calls itself in a large lettered sign "The Largest Monolithic Building in the World." It has many floors, with about a hundred acres of floor space. The entrances are of solid marble. The floors are beautifully tiled.

Altogether it is a credit to the big city in which it stands. Oh, it's a Jim Dandy!

Now, how many bricks have you sent to the city to go into this big building? Honest, how many? Of the hundreds of thousands of bricks put into the walls of this building the city where it stands has contributed not a single red brick. Country people, the people of small towns and cities far away from the big metropolis, have sent in the bricks for the construction of this splendid edifice.

You may have sent in a few hods of bricks yourself without knowing it. Listen: This magnificent structure, which ornaments a city you probably never will see yourself, is built of bricks bought with the dollars of people living in towns just like ours—towns that would like to have some new brick buildings themselves now and then. Every dollar contributed to the city building fund means a nice, hefty hod of bricks for this big, beautiful skyscraper, "largest in the world" of its kind. This building was put up, through the kind donations of their unknown country cousins, by a firm that ran a small store in that city a few years ago.

But this firm conceived the cute idea of having thousands of strangers contribute bricks to build its fine, large, new store.

And the building is a Mail Order Store. See?

Bucklen's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it, until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by affecting a perfect cure." Sold under guarantee at Percy F. Dodds' drug store.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

The Bravest Man.
 James Creelman, the well known war correspondent, who is on record over his own signature as having provoked the war between the United States and Spain, gives a description of the bravest man he ever saw.

"It was during the siege of Port Arthur," says Mr. Creelman. "On the edge of one of the parapets, his feet hanging over the edge, sat a man making a sketch of the scene. From the Japanese ships in the offing there came a continuous stream of screaming death delivering shells. But the man sketched on unmoved. Mauer bullets, with their peculiar snakelike hiss, flew over and beside him. In all this noise and imminent death the man continued his work, completely absorbed in it.

"Finally there came from within the fortification a Russian officer of gigantic size. He stood long beside the man, who was drawing and watched the pencil carefully filling in the graphic lines. The shells from the ships when they struck the masonry stirred up a cloud of mortar dust and as they exploded threw chunks of broken stone in every direction. The officer's uniform was covered with the mortar dust, and his fatigue cap had been knocked away by a Mauer bullet. I have never seen a braver man. At last he said in excellent English—for all Russians are excellent linguists—and speaking with an aristocratic drawl, 'I say, Creelman, aren't you ever going to finish that sketch?'—Success Magazine.

What Sammy Could Do.
 Sammy, a little boy from the slums of New York, was invited with about twenty others to a charity dinner given at the house of a lady in fashionable society. When the dinner was over, the lady asked the little ones to sing or recite in turn.

All went well until it came to Sammy's turn, when he made no sign of starting until the lady said, "Come, Sammy; let me hear you sing."

After a moment's pause the young guest answered, "I can't sing, lady."

"What?" said the lady. "You cannot sing? Then what can you do?"

"Well," said Sammy. "I ain't used ter singin', but I'll fight any of the other kids in the room!"

Made It Pay.
 Si Seaver—Wit Snyder mortgaged his farm to buy an automobile.

Jem Winrow—Yes, but last winter, when the snow was too deep ter ride he used the machine as a stationary engine, sawed 234 cords o' wood, pressed 380 bales o' hay an' straw, did the milkin', separatin' an' churnin' with the machine, cut feed for the chickens an' cattle an' pumped the water to the house. Wit cal'lates he saved enough to pay off the mortgage an' leave a tidy balance o' $4.70 in the bank. Oh ye don't get the best o' Wit on a bar gain!—Puck.

Just Kids.
 "Say, Red, dere's er kid er kissin' dat goll youse stuck on!"

"Aw, dat's all right. He's proposin' to her fer me."—New York Post.

Probably He Missed This.
 Mr. Staylate—Yes, I was reading about a very interesting case today. A young lady down in Texas—I've forgotten the name of the place—has been asleep two months. Queer, isn't it?"

Miss Caustic—Oh, I don't know. I suppose some bore has been calling on her evenings and she's trying to catch up on her lost sleep.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Bad Gin.
 Mrs. Podunk—I dew think it's outrageous to send our fleets over to Japan.

Mr. Podunk—Oh, pshaw, ma! It's jest on a friendly visit. Why is it outrageous?

Mrs. Podunk—Why, them sailors will be full on them Japanese Jiarikasas the hull time.—Judge.

More Than Likely.
 "I wonder who first said 'It's better to be born lucky than rich?'" queried the young widow.

"Some old fool whose young wife married him for his money, I imagine," rejoined the wise bachelor.—Chicago News.

The Writer's Dream.
 A journalist's idea of paradise is an abode where all his stories will be accepted, paid for at once and immediately printed in the largest type, with his name in capitals at the bottom.—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Revolutionizer.
 "Does that man claim that his flying machine will revolutionize travel?"

"Not exactly, but I have observed that it will travel upside down about as well as it will right side up."—Washington Star.

He Knew.
 Edwin—Thanks for the kiss, Edna (blushing)—Don't mention it. Edwin—Oh, I won't mention it, but I know you will as soon as you meet your girl friends.—Detroit Tribune.
