A coach containing about twenty homeseekers was sidetracked here Sunday and another was taken thru to Lavina. Most of these people come from Iowa and the Dakotas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Farris and daughter of Hitchcock, S. D., Miss Brown of Milwaukee, Wis., were among the party of excursionists here this week looking over the country.

S. J. Walz of Lester, Iowa, was in town several days this week looking up a location for a hardware store. He was highly pleased with our city but was undecided as to what he will do. He went from here to Lavina expecting to return here before going back east again.

The residents of Bozeman were wrought up to a high pitch of excitement one day last week by a report that the big 35 foot dam at Mystic lake above that place had broken out, which later proved to be false. Many people packed what few belongings they could hastily get together and made for the high land east and west of the city. Happily nothing serious happened besides frightening the populace.

The Merry Widow Lunch Room has been undergoing some improvements the past week which have been found necessary on account of the increased business. An addition has been built to the kitchen, a large range installed and additional help secured. An expert chef is in charge of the culinary department and a visit will convince you of his ability to put up dishes to tickle the palate.

The editor of The Record last Sunday enjoyed a visit at the home of Magnus Linstrand, one of the prominent and well-to-do ranchers up the river. We happened to his place just before a heavy shower and incidentally in time for dinner to which we fell right heartily upon invitation of Mrs. Lindstrand. The Lindstrand ranch comprises about 1600 acres a large amount of which is under the ditch and is a valuable piece of property. Mr. Lindstrand is preparing to put up a new residence besides making other improvements to make life more pleasant for his estimable family.

The body of Edward Hawkins, who was killed by a pile while working on a bridge west of town last week, has been shipped to his home in Jefferson City, Iowa, for burial.

Regular train service on schedule time was again put into effect yesterday after a two weeks' blockade caused by washouts along the line. The N. P. is said to have suffered more from the flood than the new road traffic being tied up more on that line west of Billings.

The Lone Star Restaurant, formerly conducted by Vic Mumbroe, has changed hands. Hines & Hawkass, who have been employed there, taking over the management.

The Despised Cottonwood Tree.

It has been developed lately that cottonwood trees make about the finest lumber procurable for building purposes. It not only makes fine dimension stuff, but work well into furniture and carriages. It takes fine polish and is easily stained in imitation of any wood. It has a strong interlacing fiber, will not split or check and is valuable for paper pulp, for which purpose it will attain a sufficient size in a few years. It is just the tree to set out to reclaim land and at the same time to make a profitable crop. Perhaps the much despised cottonwood is to solve the timber question and take the place of the slow growing and disappearing white pine
