EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT

Midland Opera Quintette Pleases Large Audience—Next Attraction Jubilee Singers.

The Midland Opera Quintette, which appeared here Tuesday night as the first of the series of five entertainments to be given by the Midland Lyceum Bureau this fall and winter; was pronounced by those present as being without question the best entertainment along this line ever given here. The Cozy Theatre was packed to its capacity by an appreciative audience and every number of the program was thoroughly enjoyed. The Quintette is certainly a credit to the Lyceum Bureau both in performance and personnel, each member being rarely accomplished in his or her particular line. If the high standard set by the first entertainment is maintained throughout the series, the people of Roundup can rest assured that time and money spent this way will not be regretted. The remaining numbers of the series will be looked forward to with much pleasure.

The second entertainment of the series—the Midland Jubilee Singers—will appear in Pioneer Hall next Thursday evening, October 28th and there is already a lively demand for seat reservations for the engagement. The personnel of the Jubilee Singers is as follows:

Marguerite Field, soprano; Carolyn Dixon, contralto; Richard Warren, first tenor and mandolin soloist; C. Dickerson, second tenor; Exodus, baritone and reader; W. A. Hann, basso; and Arthur Williams, accompanist. They are a well-trained, long-experienced combination, singing music of all grades from the Plantation Jubilee to grand opera. They have an enviable reputation, and are pleasing large audiences wherever they appear.

Tickets for the coming entertainment are on sale at The Record office. Those holding season tickets may have seats reserved by the payment of twenty-five cents additional. Season tickets are still on sale and those who have not yet secured any should do so at once.

BROWN-GRABBERT

Another Young Couple Embarks on Ship of Marital Happiness This Week.

L. C. Brown and Miss Minnie Grabbert were joined in wedlock Tuesday afternoon in the M. E. church in the presence of a few friends, Rev. C. E. Haynes performing the ceremony. The contracting parties are well known in this city Mr. Brown having been connected with the Roundup Coal Mining Co., for the past six months in the capacity of electrician and master mechanic, while the bride has been employed in the Johnson Hotel since last spring. The newly married couple will reside at camp No. 3.

The Record extends congratulations.

William Seelye, a miner, was killed by being struck by a falling rock in the Roundup Coal Mining Co.'s mine here shortly after noon Wednesday. Death ensued instantaneously. The rock fell without warning, striking Seelye on the right side of the head, breaking his skull and crushing his face.

The victim of the accident had just finished his midday meal together with three fellow workmen, Alex Fairgrieve, Adam Wilkinson and H. McCann, in one of the rooms of the mine. Saying that he was getting cold, he picked up his pick and started swinging it around in order to warm himself up, when without any previous warning whatever, a heavy rock about a foot in diameter was in some manner dislodged and fell, striking him down as stated above. The body was brought to town, a coroner's inquest being held over the remains last night, the finding of the jury being that the deceased came to his death by purely accidental means. County Coroner Kreef of Lewistown, and State Mine Inspector McDermott, of Helena, were present at the inquest.

William Seelye, the deceased, was about 32 years of age. He came to Roundup to work in the mines several months ago from Miles City in which city his mother and a sister resides. His folks have been communicated with, and, in accordance with their instructions, the body will be sent to Miles City on tonight's passenger for burial.

The deceased was a member of the K. P. Lodge of this place, and the Miners Union which orders have charge of the remains. He enjoyed a large circle of friends here among whom he was very popular, and the news of his sudden and untimely death was a severe shock to them. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the afflicted mother and sister in their sad loss.

This is the first fatal accident to have occurred in the Roundup mines.

HOTEL ROUNDUP CHANGES

W. A. Brown, of Salmon City, Idaho, Leases Property from Chas. Brookman.

Hotel Roundup on Second street east underwent a change in management Monday, W. A. Brown, of Salmon City Idaho, having leased the property from Chas. Brookman, who owns the place and has been conducting it the past year. Mr. Brown is an experienced hotel man and will spare no efforts in maintaining the high standard set by the retiring landlord. He has been connected with the hotel for several months in the capacity of chef, in which line he is an adept of no mean ability.

Mr. Brookman has also leased his bar room adjoining the hotel to Jake Smith and a partner who took possession Monday.

Mr. Brookman and family will leave here some time next month on a three months' visit to their home in Wisconsin, after which they expect to return to reside in Roundup.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE AT ROUNDUP

Tuesday, November 2nd.

EVERY man, woman and child within a radius of twenty-five miles of Roundup should make it a point to attend the Farmers' Institute to be held here Tuesday, November 2nd. Not only will the meetings be of vital importance to those actually engaged in the cultivation of the soil, but business and professional men will find that a knowledge of the principles of dry farming as applied in the West, is going to increase their faith in the future of this country, and will place them in a position where they can intelligently discuss this important subject with newcomers, who are, in the main, not familiar with the methods which they will have to adopt to successfully follow farming.

The opportunity to hear Prof. H. W. Campbell, the "Father of Dry Farming," who will be present at these meetings, should be embraced by everybody able to do so. Lectures will also be given by such prominent dry farming advocates as Prof. F. B. Linfield, Prof. Atkinson, Prof. F. S. Cooley, all connected with the Montana Agricultural College, and Dr. W. X. Sudduth, of Broadview, a practical dry farmer, who has gained a wide reputation by his success.

The institute will be held in Pioneer Hall, there being three sessions as follows: 10:00 a. m.; 2:00 p. m.; and 8:00 p. m.

ENTERTAIN BIG DELEGATION TONIGHT

Excursion of Coal Dealers and Prominent Business Men of State Coming in Tonight.

Roundup extends the glad hand to its guests who will be in on tonight's passenger. The train bearing the excursionists, one hundred or more in number, and including some of the state's most prominent business men and coal dealers and consumers, left Butte this morning and will arrive in Roundup this evening. While the visitors are really the guests of the Roundup Coal Mining Company, upon whose invitation they are coming to inspect the properties of the company, the business and professional men of the city have taken it upon themselves to entertain the party with a banquet at the Johnson Hotel Cafe immediately upon their arrival this evening. The menu provides for a wild roast duck for each guest, a party of hunters having been out several days this week securing the game especially for this event.

Saturday morning the party will be taken out to inspect the coal properties and in the evening will be entertained at another banquet by the Roundup Coal Mining Co., which promises to be something unique and novel. Among others from Butte and Anaconda, who have been invited to make the trip are:

John Gillie, C. J. Stone, C. C. Willis, Thomas Bryant, Thomas S. Kilgallon, A. H. Wethney, W. C. Siderfin, Robert Davies, C. W. Newton, Arthur Muller, Ralph Hodgson, William D. Mangan, Morris Bacon, J. J. Harrington, J. E. Davidson, G. H. Smith, T. J. Nery, Max Helgen, Ed. Eyc, F. J. Lyons, Sam Lemieux, J. J. BIG YIELDS

First Attempts at Dry Farming Near Roundup Result in Enormous Yields.

The threshing of the first crops of grains raised near Roundup under the dry farming system was completed this week, and the skeptic who has been wont to explain that the bench lands in this state were only suitable for grazing of sheep and cattle stands aghast with dropped chin, and reluctantly is compelled to admit the success, in a measure anyway, of the new order of things. Altho the acreage of grain sown was not very large, the startling results attained are sufficient to encourage those who are already engaged in the cultivation of the soil here, and will be the means of proving to the newcomers the fertility and productiveness of our soil, and the possibility of raising crops under the conditions which exist here.

J. M. Pyles raised 600 bushels of oats of a high grade on 12 acres on the bench just north of Roundup, a yield of 50 bushels to the acre.

The yield on the F. C. Clausen ranch west of town was 26 bushels of winter wheat, 27 1-2 bushels of speltz and 35 bushels of beardless barley to the acre.

M. M. Klein had a seven-acre field of winter wheat on the hillside back of his home which went 35 bushels to the acre and A1 wheat at that.

Magnus Lindstrand, of Elso, had a yield of 50 bushels of oats to the acre.

The most phenomenal yield in this section, however, was that on the Jasper Bricker ranch several miles northwest of Roundup. Mr. Bricker is a Montanan and has studied conditions and farming methods for a number of years, and it must be said that his success is doing more in the way of enticing settlers with the possibility of the country than anything else that has yet been said or done. He had a field of over one hundred acres of winter wheat which averaged 23 1-2 bushels to the acre.

The threshing in this vicinity was done by the G. J. Krueger outfit from Delphia.

That the impetus agriculture will receive from the success of practically the first attempts at dry farming in the Musselshell valley in the vicinity of Roundup is going to be productive of a world of good and will hasten the development of the country, is a foregone conclusion. Farmers, however, must always be awake to the facts that conditions here are different from what they are in the East and must change their tactics accordingly. While failures must necessarily be met with, by following strictly the principles of dry farming, the possibility of a failure can be cut down to the minimum.

DR. SMITH GRANTED LICENSE

Long War With State Board Ends and Doctor is Permitted to Practice.

Dr. W. R. Smith, who located in Roundup in its infancy and who was in fact the first doctor here, has been granted a license to practice medicine and surgery in Montana by the state medical examiners. This ends the long war between the doctor and the state board, the facts in which the public is already familiar with.

Dr. Smith will continue his profession here and will have his office in the Roundup Drug Store. His many friends are glad to learn of his success in securing a certificate.

A MERRY CHASE

Alleged Rustler, Said to Have Stolen 3 Horses from Newton Caught in South Dakota.

Traveling by rail and overland, hurrying onward without rest or sleep on a trail which led over ranges, across streams and through broken country, Sheriff Orrick, of Yellowstone county, reached the goal for which he was headed at Bellefourche, S. D., and arrested Clarence Babcock, who is alleged to have stolen three horses belonging to J. W. Newton, of this place. The officer has returned to Billings with his prisoner. It is said that Babcock is wanted on numerous other similar charges.

The horses are alleged to have been stolen about three weeks ago. When the matter was reported to the sheriff he at once began an investigation. He finally obtained a clew which caused him to take the train to Sheridan, Wyo., and there, in company with Stock Inspector Frank Mead of Lame Deer, horses were secured and the long chase was on. Babcock's trail was struck about 20 miles from Sheridan. It led across the range into a broken country toward Bellefourche. The animals ridden by the officers soon gave out under the hard usage to which they were put, and others were secured and the chase was continued until Alseada was reached.

Babcock had 13 days the start of the officers. The trail was lost, and for 30 miles no trace of the alleged thief could be found. When Alseada was reached the horses were unable to go farther and others could not be secured. An automobile was secured and the 155 miles from that place to Bellefourche were covered in record-breaking time, so that the office reached their destination only about 30 hours after Babcock had arrived. En route Sheriff Orrick had wired a description of Babcock to Sheriff Moses at Bellefourche, and the hunted man was behind the bars of the county jail when the pursuers reached the city. Babcock was arrested by Moses while he was bartering with a prospective purchaser for two of the horses.
