THE CITY CHRONICLED.

(From Thursday's Daily.) On the West Gallatin, Dec. 10th, 1883, Mrs. DeBord.

Drum Lumber stock has advanced 30 per cent. in London in the past month.

Manager John Maguire will hereafter make Helena his home.

Choteau county has six hundred and seventy-one children of school age.

Wood is selling for five dollars per cord and eight dollars per ton.

Deer Lodge people have begun using coal for fuel. It sells at $10 and $12 per ton on the cars.

Billings is beginning to put on metropolitan airs. A roller skating rink will be in full blast in a few days.

It is said that thirty cars per day are loaded with lumber at Missoula, the product of five mills.

The Marquis de Mores has, on his recent trip over the Northern Pacific railroad, established eighteen slaughter houses, all of which will be in operation next season.

Silver Bow county has 131 people whose taxes exceed $100 this year.

The Lexington mining company heads the list, with $5,954.17.

Unless we have a third judge when the Supreme Court meets in January, Carl Adolphson now confined in our jail will have to be again respited.

1884 is a leap year and on New Year's day the gentlemen will be required to keep open house while the ladies will make the customary calls.

On account of the prevalence of diphtheria and other diseases common to children, the Deer Lodge primary school has been dismissed till after the holidays.

Hewitt's Muettes held fair to a full house last night. As a whole, the show is a good one and deserving of patronage.

If you want to laugh until your suspenders buttons fly off go to the Muettes to-night.

Mr. Blaine's proposition to divide the money from the whisky tax among the States has originated another idea, to divide the whisky instead of the money.

We will donate our share to the brilliant originator.

Our merchants have made a sensible move in closing their stores at eight o'clock. As far as business is concerned very few, if any, sales are made after the hour named for closing.

The Benton Press says that delegate Magnus should secure a land office for Fort Benton during the present session of Congress. It is now greatly needed and with the opening of the land reservation to settlement will be an absolute necessity.

Malcolm McCosh, of Butte, is thought to be insane. Hardly a week passes that we do not hear of somebody in that town going crazy. There must be something the matter with the atmosphere or the whisky. Even the newspapers are affected.

The Farmers & Mechanics' club will give their opening dance at Capt. John Smith's Hall to-night. The membership is now quite large and from our knowledge of them, we are assured that a pleasant time will be had by those who participate.

The Northern Pacific has in contemplation the project of damming the Missouri river in the canyon above Tootson's ferry, for the purpose of raising the water above the banks so that it may be used for irrigating a big tract of country, probably 1,000,000 acres.

The County Treasurer is busy paying out the money he has been so busy collecting the taxes on. All persons having warrants on the General Fund can now get the cash. The same may be said of all the funds. Can any county make a better showing?

Walter Matheson, editor of the Billings Herald, has been appointed coroner of Yellowstone county. This is a graceful act, and shows that the County Commissioners have their eyes open. When Matheson finds it necessary to kill obnoxious callers it will not be necessary to send out for the coroner. Very handy arrangement.

The first and opening night of the Fair given by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church was quite a success, something over two hundred dollars were realized from the tables during the evening. The Fair will continue for two more evenings, winding up with a drill of the Broom Brigade.

The vindication of Assessor Smith is very lame. The Commissioners say that no "intentional or serious neglect of duty" can be found to base any charges. No body has ever charged that Assessor Smith was intentionally or criminally negligent—only that the assessment was faulty and not as good as it should have been.

Maj. Gordon of Fort Ellis, in adding to many accomplishments as a soldier and a gentleman is fond of practical jokes. As we entered one of our prominent grocery stores last evening to inquire the price of honey in the comb, we were a little astonished to feel an extra weight in our overcoat pocket. An investigation led to the fact that a pitcher filled with the extract of bee, had been deposited there and the customary price of the aforesaid article deposited with the cashier of the store. We appreciated the joke. This morning on some hot buck-wheat cakes, Honeyed words fell from our lips. We are both mourning over the loss of a valuable good and a "fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind."

The Sioux and Crow Indians, after years of bitter warfare, have at last shaken hands over the bloody chasm. A correspondent of the Sioux City Journal thus describes the scene at the executing of the treaty: "A band of Sioux warriors first advanced, kneeling on one knee on the ground, and cocked their guns. An old Crow brave advanced, accused the Sioux of killing his son, and raised his gun as if to fire. Other Crow warriors rushed in, disarmed the old man, and coming to the Sioux presented them with bits of wood. Each twig presented represents a pony, and these wooden promissory notes were redeemed by giving the Sioux 183 ponies. Thus was peace concluded between the two nations."

J. and G. Martis has just received a supply of fresh fish and wild meats. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

The Miles City Journal will soon be printed on a new power press.

There appears to be no let up on the beautiful weather in this section.

Job printing of all kinds neatly and promptly executed at the CHRONICLE office.

Gilbert's famous brewery at Virginia City was burned to the ground on the 8th inst. Loss, about $7,000.

The Muettes attracted another large audience last evening and kept up their reputation as a first-class entertainment.

The Helena newspapers are still going around after the location of the great popular heart.

There are 1,370 school children in Helena of school age. The boys number 683 and the girls 677.

The school teachers of Bozeman are happy over the fact that the County Treasurer has handed them over their monthly pay.

A resolution has been passed in the Virginia Legislature requesting Senator Mahone to resign his seat in the United States Senate.

Tom Ochiltree, M. C. of Texas, one of the finest liars of the United States, not excepting Eli Perkins, refused to vote for Keifer for Speaker of the House.

There will be no necessity of our people sending away for Christmas goods this year, as old Santa Claus is beginning to show himself on the counters of our merchants.

Mr. F. J. Quirk, of Phenix nursing, Bloomington, Illinois, is in town soliciting for spring, in ornamental specialties and salt-transplanted stock, and for the future trade.

Prof. Rufan intends leaving for the West to-night, but prior to his departure, will give an entertainment to his class at the residence of Mrs. Whiteside on the East Side.

A very handsome pair of buff and Cochon China chickens are to be seen at the Fair. They will be sold to-night. A bid of $10 has already been made for them. Go and see them.

The Madisonian says that the Virginia City Road and Gun club has received from the East a quantity of wild rice which will be sold in the Madison marshes to the male and female second managers and a man cannot get drunk or stay up all night or play a little game of draw without forming a subject of public discussion the next day.

The ball given by the Farmers and Mechanics club last evening was a decided success in every particular, notwithstanding large crowds were attracted to other places of amusement. Three large entertainments for one evening in Bozeman is going it pretty strong, but they were all well attended.

The great turn-table at the Helena Northern Pacific machine shops has been put in place, and is now in working order. The first locomotive to pass over it into the repair shops is the Levittan No. 84, which has been at the front for several years carrying material for the track-layers.

An exchange says that California has a girl who supports herself by selling kisses at ten cents per dozen. If these "busses" of this California damsel are half as sweet as those of Montana's fair daughters, they are mighty cheap. Eye would not object to taking two bits worth, as trial specimens.

It is a pretty sure indication that something is wrong where one notices an undertaker and doctor hobnobbing together. The pills and unctuous crevasses are generally regulated by interviews. A reform in this particular is demanded by the living public. Cheap medicine bills and funeral processions are what the people demand.

Preparations have been made by the Skating Rink proprietors, for a grand time at the Masque Carnival to-morrow night. None but those masqued will be allowed on the rollers, until after the masquers have been removed, when those wishing to join the masquers can do so. Masques will be lifted at nine o'clock. Music by the Silver Cornet band. All who wish to enjoy an evening out and have a hearty laugh should be there to witness the many handsome costumes that will be on exhibition.

The Miles City Press of the 10th inst., says that Charles Cox, a colored man employed on the Northern Pacific road, as a porter on one of the dining cars, found a water grave near Glendive yesterday. He, in company with another man, attempted to cross the Yellowstone on the 23rd ult., but that bridge broke through, and Cox was drowned, within ten feet of where his companion stood, he being unable to assist him. The other porters of the Northern Pacific dining cars on this division have offered $150 for his body.

The Minneapolis Journal of Tuesday last says: The Utah & Northern engineers were in Bozeman, Montana, yesterday, surveying their line from the Madison river through Bozeman to the coal mine passing by that road last week. It is understood the construction of the new line will begin very soon. The spur will carry tourists to the park next summer and develop the rich coal mines of the country recently secured near the city. The Utah Northern is the narrow gauge branch of the Northern Pacific.

This is blue Friday for local news. We have been around the dinner table, and in different evenings, in Montana, a peculiar luncheon given in the Western heavens long after twilight. It differed places it suggested the burning of some neighboring town, or a great forest fire. It has since become known that the same phenomena was observed from Maine to California; and it has further transpired that the scientists areuzzling their heads to account for it. They are said to resemble the zodiacal light seen near the equator, but there is no excuse for their shifting-so far north. Some believe that the lights were occasioned by the earth passing through the tail of a comet, and other scientists believe it is a zone of meteoric dust. No generally accepted theory is yet offered. As the past few evenings have been suggestive of a recurrence of these lights, we mention them as a matter of beauty and interest.

Hon. W. O. P. Hays died this morning at Eureka Springs, Arkansas. The remains leave to-morrow for Bozeman. We will receive telegraphic advice when they will be here.

The Holland Comedians Company will be in Bozeman next Thursday and Friday evening in two new pieces, never before presented in Montana. The costumes will be entirely new and sent here especially for these pieces. They have had remarkable success down the Yellowstone, realizing at least $1,000 at Fort Coeur.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church desire to express their heartfelt thanks to all who so kindly assisted them during the late Fair, and the public generally for kind patronage. The total receipts from the Fair amounted to about $25. We are not aware of how much expense has been incurred, but think that the net results will be between $350 and $400. This is good.

Delegate Magnus last year named a son of General John A. Gilbon for the Montana appointment at West Point, but he failed to pass examination. He has since named for the place John M. Evans, son of Mr. Phil. E. Evans, of Deer Lodge, and he will be examined for admission next June. He goes East in a few weeks to take a preparatory course before the examination. He is a young man of good name, exemplary habits and intelligence. His admission and success are almost equally beyond question.

The Northern Pacific has issued a circular announcing that on Saturday 10th inst. the new Standard time will be generally adopted along the line. The St. Paul, Minnesota and Wisconsin division branches, and Dakota division and branches, will adopt the central time; the Missouri division, Yellowstone division and branches, and the Rocky Mountain division, Montclair or 10th meridian time; the Idaho division and branches, Pacific division and branches, Pacific or 12th meridian time. The St. Paul, Minnesota and Wisconsin divisions and branches adopted the new time on the 23rd ultimo, so no change will be made by the employees of those divisions.

The following clipping will undoubtedly be read with considerable interest by advertisers: Every successful business man will answer the question in the affirmative, for his experience has proved the value of printer's ink—the giving to the world a knowledge of what he had for sale and where he could be found. And it pays in small matters proportionately as it does in greater ones. Yes, advertising pays better as an investment than stocks, railroad or gold mines, is far more safe, requires less capital and has no "bulls" or "bears" in its market. Every merchant who ever had a customer that advertised largely that did not do a good business, or of one that did not advertise that did not go to the dogs for bankruptcy. Pays? It gives more than compound interest—it is a sort of auctioneer who proclaims your goods on the houseposts and brings all the customers you can accommodate. Pays? Try it liberally and you will find it the same that shines upon your hay-making.

In the United States court in session at Deer Lodge this week Marian Gamble, one of three men implicated in the stage robbery between Helena and Deer Lodge last July, was tried and found guilty of robbing the carrier of the United States mail and placing in jeopardy the life of said carrier by the use of dangerous weapons. The only punishment which can be assessed upon this verdict is confinement in the penitentiary for life. The other two robbers, Thomas Sheldon and Frederick Wiley, each entered the plea of guilty of robbing the United States mail. These pleas involve an imprisonment in the Territorial penitentiary from five to ten years.

Yesterday was the 25th anniversary of the marriage of whole-souled Jerry Matthews and his estimable wife. Jerry rustled around the city Saturday and asked a few of his friends down to dinner Sunday, kept very warm about the dinner during the dinner giving. In consequence Treasurer Frank Sloan and wife, Wm. Welch and wife, Dr. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Ratley, P. S. Rountree and Mr. Shelton put their feet under Jerry's mahogany at the time noted and partook of a dinner such as only the best of good housewives can get up. The wife of Jerry was prepared the entire spread herself, and gave ample evidence of the cause of Jerry's universal good nature. The anniversary was well celebrated amid hopes that the participants might assist at another dinner to come off a quarter of a century later on. The occasion was one long to be remembered as a happy one to be marked with a white stone as a bright day in the lives of the party.

A Good Story.

A Bozeman man who lately returned from the East, related to us the following story, which he says was related to him by a government official, and shows that the average run of colored people in the South are beginning to understand the political situation as thoroughly as the white man. Recently, while our friends in Helena, who are in a post-office inspector, was waiting for a case to be called in a Virginia court, in which he was an interested party, a jury came out of the court room, and he noticed that seven were white and five colored.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?" asked the clerk of the court. "We am, sir," responded the old gray-headed negro man, who had been made foreman of the jury either out of sport or because of his white head. "What is the verdict?" asked the clerk. "Why, Judge," said the black skinned foreman, "looking up to the court, 'de jury stands seven to five, an' seein' that brudder Mahone's party kerried de county, de jury an' gone 'Publian against de Democrat."

In the Lecture Field.

In noticing the lecture of Colonel Iges at Benton on Tuesday evening last the River Press says that the large audience present had the pleasure of listening to one of the most entertaining lectures ever delivered in Montana. The subject of the Colonel's lecture, "Five Years Among the Apaches," is one of great interest. Colonel Iges makes a fine appearance on the rostrum and his bearing is easy and excellent, notwithstanding the fact that this was his second appearance before the public in the capacity of lecturer. After a few general remarks about the army he at once takes his audience with him on the trip to Arizona, the home of the Apaches. Describing the journey and then the country in which his command was established and where he spent five years that he can hardly look back as the pleasantest of his life. Then follows an account of his campaigns and skirmishes with that hostile and most blood-thirsty tribe of Indians, in which are included many most interesting narratives, among them the story of his rescue from the Indians of the boy Ernest, whom he adopted and is now educating in Europe. The lecture concluded with a general reference to the habits of natives—their dress, habits, government, religion and present condition. The address was about an hour in length and was listened to throughout with marked attention and interest. In every respect the lecture was a success and at the close of Iges received the hearty congratulations of his friends. It will be well received wherever delivered.

Our people will give the Colonel a hearty reception if he should come this way on his lecturing tour. Won't some one write the old warrior and get him to give us a lecture?

Our War Generals.

"Only eighteen years ago the rebellion closed," said an old army officer to me the other day, "but the Generals of the war are fast going out of sight." Then he went on to say: "Meade, Thomas, Hooker, Garfield, Kilpatrick, Burnside and Halleck are dead. The next few years will see the last distinguished General Grant is well on toward seventy. He comes to Washington often, and walks quietly about the streets, with his cigar in his mouth, better dressed than when he was President, and looking as if life agreed with him. Sherman is sixty-four and he looks older, but the family is hardy and he is likely to see 100. The younger of all the great army leaders is Sheridan, now to command the army, and he is but fifty-one. Sheridan was a Major-General at thirty. Fitz John Porter appears here every winter, white haired and broken in frame—a little old gentleman, who looks back to twenty years of disfigure. His old commander, McClellan, now a round man with bending shoulders, has not changed much of late. He is rich and entertains well in his New York home but the activity of his life is over. He likes still to tell of his campaigns. Pleasanton, the hero of a hundred cavalry fights, lives quietly here and can be seen any day reading the papers in one of the offices of Newspaper Row. His hair and mustache are white and his voice as gentle as a woman's. You can say the same of Rosecrans, the idol of the army of the Cumberland. He and his wife, live, almost unnoticed, on Capitol Hill, during the time he spends in performing his duties as a California Congressman. His complexion is like a youth's and his hair with a military cut, as white as snow. The man who commanded 100,000 men at Chickamauga seems abashed at the confession in Congress and seldom rises to speak. Generals Haly and Logan are the two other most distinguished Generals in Congress. Both are fifty-seven years old, but neither has a gray hair. General Rosecrans will be reinforced this winter by an old companion in the Western armies, General Slocum, of Brooklyn. He has been in Congress before. He served, I believe, four years soon after the close of the war. General Sickles is practicing law in New York. He is 81 years old, and has lived in California. He is a day, who was in Fort Sumter when it was fired upon lives in New York and is writing a book; while Humphreys, Hunter and Crittenden will be seen any day about this city, where they own fine houses and live handsomely on the retired list. Fremont is no longer rich. He and his wife, Jessie-Cornel Fremont are forgotten in crowded New York. The General whom the Vermont troops worshipped, George J. Stenard, with one arm gone and a half dozen wounds, sits at the Capitol during the session, tending the door of the members' gallery of the House. The Democrats profess that he shall not be disturbed. He is so offensive that the pushing women almost overpower him on days when a crowd visit the Capitol, and yet he saved the day at Gettysburg, and fell with three wounds while leading a forlorn hope at Petersburg. McDowell is on the retired list; Don Carlos Buell runs an iron foundry in Kentucky; Banks is a United States Marshal; Hancock, Schofield and Pope are still Major-Generals, but the last of them will retire in three years. General Howard is at Omaha, a Brigadier General Terry is the youngest of the Brigadiers who won fame during the war. With good luck he will succeed Sheridan in command of the army. Gen. Wright, with benevolent face and patriarchal beard, has turned from war to projects of river and harbor improvement. Gilmore, Parke and Weitzel, once commanding corps and armies, are now in charge of light-houses and fortifications. Critchton, the famous cavalry General of the Western army, is brooding in Texas, with the mounted colored regiment which he commanded. They are all getting well on toward the downward track. In ten years there will not be a General officer of the war in active life."—Wash. Corr. Boston Advertiser.
