

WISE TALKS BY THE OFFICE BOY

Subject: New Arrivals.
I took a good long look through the place today and in addition to sweeping out, cleaning the showcases and front windows, checking the freight, delivering goods, tending to office duties, helping write letters and getting up the ads, they want me to make myself familiar with the stock so I can help out during a rush and sell goods. The new goods are coming in fast now, and say, they're great.
I can't for the life of me see how the world's workers can think up so many beautiful patterns to fashion out of silver and gold and other precious metals.
Come in and make a performance like a multi-millionaire and I'll show you everything in the place.

WADDINGHAM-STORTZ

Reinhart Stortz, the well known engineer on the Northern Pacific, and Miss Lillian May Waddingham were united in marriage Tuesday evening at the home of the bride, Rev. E. N. English performing a quiet ceremony at which only immediate friends of the family were present.

The news of the coming event seems to have been heralded, however, and the Glendive Band, which had just prepared for an open air concert, went over to the Waddingham residence and serenaded the young people, accompanied by a good crowd of Glendivites. Not often is such an evidence of universal popularity given as was thus accorded to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Stortz have gone to LaCrosse, Wis., the former home of Mr. Stortz for an extended bridal tour, on the return from which they will be at home to their friends in Glendive.

FAMOUS SUIT ON

District court adjourned again on Monday, to meet again yesterday, when the famous damage suit of Wm. Henderson against the Northern Pacific railway was taken up, and has since been occupying the attention of the judicial body. Both sides are represented by brilliant legal talent and a hard fight will be waged. The criminal docket was cleaned up last Thursday when Wm. O'Connor and Lawrence Morkin received two years for robbery and Ben Katsura, the Jap, one year for grand larceny. The five men convicted during the term were taken to Deer Lodge by Deputy Sheriff Charles Johnson and a special officer. Minor civil cases have occupied the court since then.
