THE WORKERS' SAVINGS.

Government Should Provide a Safe Depository For Them.

One of the most heartrending and deplorable sights is that of the working class in winter, old men and women as well as young, waiting from early morning until late at night, lined up like a lot of cattle, waiting under guard of burly policemen a chance to get the savings of years from a bank. The workers are blamed almost uniformly for making these runs. They are right in trying to protect their savings. It is criminal for the government to make them take these risks. They have earned the money by the ill-requited toll of years. A just banking system would protect these funds. Whatever else may be said, even unjustly, about the waste of the workers and concerning shiftlessness, the only charge against the toilers here is that of being too ready to trust their masters.

Whether one believes in capitalism or not, the man who encourages any plan to shift this risk from the shoulders of the great army of toilers as individuals is to that extent a public benefactor. Let capitalism do its worst, if the burden is carried by the nation rather than by the workers in their individual capacity, the burden can be unloaded when those who share it justly desire to do so.

The best thing the workers can do with their savings is to put them in postal orders until the needed protection is given. This protects the workers and also makes the master class more ready for postal savings banks than they would otherwise be.—Socialist Herald.

THE DIRTY WORK.

Under Socialism Manual Labor Will Fall on All Alike.

The anti-Socialist when he wants to put forth a staggering argument against Socialism insists on knowing who is going to do the dirty work under Socialism. He thinks any one who does "dirty" work is not worthy of respect, and yet we will wager that he himself is perfectly willing to allow the dirty work about his home to be done by his mother, his sister, his wife or his daughter, all of whom he certainly respects. There will be some dirty work under Socialism doubtless, but humanity will certainly not let that fact stand in the way of carrying on the system by which commercial cannibalism will be a thing of the past.

President Lincoln was once found blacking his own boots by a very nobly nobleman from some foreign country, and the nobleman, being "noble," was shocked. "What," he said, "the president of a great nation blacking his own boots!" Lincoln straightened himself, with surprise, and replied: "Why, certainly. Whose boots should I black?"

It is quite probable that under Socialism some of the dirty work—what little is left after labor saving machinery has been freely installed—will fall to the lot of every one, and it ought to, for no respectable person should shirk it off on to another. But we imagine that the earth will keep on revolving as usual in spite of it, and no one need be deterred from voting for Socialism for fear that it will not—Frederic Heath.

Economic Determinism.

In every historical epoch the prevailing mode of economic production and exchange and the social organization necessarily following from it form the basis upon which is built up and from which alone can be explained the political and intellectual history of that epoch; and consequently the whole history of mankind since the dissolution of primitive tribal society, holding land in common ownership, has been a history of class struggles, contests between exploiting and exploited, ruling and oppressed classes; that the history of these class struggles forms a series of evolution in which nowadays a stage has been reached where the exploited and oppressed class, the proletariat, cannot attain its emancipation from the sway of the exploiting and ruling class, the bourgeoisie, without at the same time and once for all emancipating society at large from all exploitation, oppression, class distinctions and class struggles.—Marx.

A Hunger Producer.

At producing hunger and distress and anxiety for those who work the capitalist system seems to be an unqualified success.—Exchange.
