

WISE TALKS BY THE OFFICE BOY

Birds in their little nests agree because it would be poor policy to fall out. I've had several mixups with the manager lately and he told me the other day if I didn't get a rush of brains to the head soon he'd have to get a little girl for office boy. That's the disadvantage of working in a store where they do so much business. There is something doing every minute, and they do need a kid right on the spot all of the time. Every night when I go to bed I say to myself, "I'm going to get onto myself," and my intentions are all right, but something happens next day and I go up into the air and have to be called down. Fall business is starting off with a swing and lots of people are coming in to have their eyes examined and being fitted with the Knu Digit glasses, the kind that stay on.

WILLIE, with

DR. J. H. MISKIMEN, Glendive, Mont.
