

Wise Talks By The Office Boy

A young couple that were going to be married pretty soon were talking over their future plans. "You know, dearie, you will have to attend to the culinary duties for a while, until we can afford a cook," said the fond husband-to-be. "Oh, that will be all right, precious," she replied, "I can make the bestest fudge." "Honestly I don't know what's going to become of me if business don't ease up. I don't get any time to talk to my girl at all any more, and I am just scared to death that some other fellow will beat my time. I told the manager about my troubles today and he said: "Billy, don't cross the bridge until you come to it," and he added, "No girl wants a parlor ornament nowadays; what they want is a live wire, a bread winner. Kisses and moonshine are all right in stories, but bread and pork chops beat them in real life." Well, this store is full of live wires, no ornaments here except those lovely rings, bracelets and necklaces in the show cases. Have you seen them?
