Bloomfield Items

Nice growing weather at present, although a good rain would be of benefit.

Mullett Brothers of this place received a message from Radisson, Sawyer Co., Wis., lately that their father, Jacob B. Mullett, formerly of Bloomfield, was in a critical condition at that point. His son, Jacob J. Mullett, left at once to visit his father.

Rev. Eli Borntrager and Rev. Graber, both of Mylo, N. D., arrived here lately and are now holding meetings in the Thirteen Mile district. They expect to leave for home on June 8.

Miles J. Borntrager sold his 160-acre farm, a few miles east of Bloomfield, for $4,000, with crop seeded.

John Sullivan of the north fork of Thirteen Mile also sold a raw quarter of land lately, and the purchaser has had some breaking and seeding done by steam power on same.

We understand Amos J. Miller would move to Radisson, Wis., if he could soon sell his crop in the ground.

Enos D. Yoder is not able to work at present on account of a kick received from his horse about a week ago.

Born to Rev. Daniel F. Miller and wife on May 29, a daughter.

Isaac Buller captured a den of seven young coyotes recently.

Andrew Crist, John Buller and others were at Glendive last week.

Ed Albright and wife of Bloomfield are also the happy parents of a boy baby.

Sonnets From Savage

Well, well, we lost, but we are still a smiling. Our first game has been played and lost. Even though defeated, we are more confident than ever. The game with Sidney was just what the boys needed. It showed up our weak spots, but still opened our eyes to the quality of material on hand. We are not trying to make excuses but there is no doubt but that the tables will be turned when we play at Sidney next Sunday. So cheer up Savage and play ball.

Ulery Brothers are building on Lowe's addition.

Mrs. O. B. Patterson has joined her husband at Savage.

The new telephone office is located in the First National Bank building with Miss Anna Brackett in charge.

Savage can now boast of a first class photographer. Have you been "taken?"

Work on the Brew-Simard office will be begun the latter part of the week.

Savage is becoming quite a mecca for landseekers.

Robt. A. Fruen is now a resident of Savage. Mr. Fruen is here in the interests of the Goodridge-Call Co.

Clark A. Brooks was a Glendive visitor the fore part of the week.

Watch Savage on July 4! Preparations are being made to celebrate the natal day. All arrangements have not been completed as yet, but we'll be there just the same.

Do not forget the Yellowstone Mercantile's grand opening dance. Watch for the date.

The population of Savage is now one hundred and twenty-five. Are we growing?

Good Attraction For Glendive

Manager Widmyer of the Glendive Opera House has secured a three-night engagement of the Courtenay Morgan Stock company, commencing Thursday, June 9. The three plays that this company will present at the local opera house are three of Morgan's best plays, namely, "An Innocent Widow," which is the newer of the three and voted the best light comedy of the season in the cities of the east this season. It is one of the daintiest and funniest plays ever written. "A Woman of Mystery," a French play by Madam Sarah Bernhardt, a play in which Sacred Sarah was seen under canvas in this country five years ago when the theatrical trust refused to let Madam Bernhardt play in their theatres, and it was fortunate for her that she had to play under canvas, for the large tent that Barnum & Bailey rented to her management was filled to capacity each night and no theatre would have been attended this play on its introduction to this country. Madam Bernhardt after finishing her triumphal tour, presented the original manuscript of "A Woman of Mystery," together with the exclusive rights to produce the play in this country to this company. Last but not least of the three plays, "A Night in a Balloon," is a play of the Chas. Hoyt variety, and a rip-roaring comedy. This is a conspicuous example of the primer class grade, "made for laughing purposes only," as the apologetic phrase has it. Each night there will be plenty of good specialties. This will be the best repertoire ever seen in Glendive.
