

TRIBUNE ANNUAL.

ALL ABOUT GREAT FALLS AND ITS VICINITY.

The Tribune Annual appears on time—it is rich in information and pictorial beauty.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The Tribune's annual number of which the first edition is issued today, will receive a public welcome throughout the city.

The Annual is profusely illustrated with engravings executed in the highest style of art. These illustrations are all well calculated to make known the growth and prospects of the city and country.

These illustrations include a view of the Boston & Montana Smelter as it will appear when completed during the current year; views of the Montana Smelter, coal works at Sand Coulee, business blocks, etc. There is also a fine view of the Baptist church, and many other cuts. These illustrations have been produced by artists of high merit and regardless of expense.

The descriptive matter in the Tribune Annual is all fresh and interesting. It deals with each phase of progress in North Montana—farming, mining, manufactures and trade.

The articles have been written by authorities on each subject and present the newest and fullest account of North Montana's resources.

Important communications are published from the pen of Hon. Paris Gibson, Senator W. A. Clark, Sam Hill and others which will make interesting reading for the people of Great Falls and will stimulate the investment of money in real estate, mines and factories.

This is a hurried sketch of a masterly work on the resources and prospects of Great Falls, which must be studied carefully to realize the full extent of its varied information and pictorial beauty.

The Tribune Annual is home-made. It does credit to the skill and taste of Great Falls printers and pressmen, who have produced a work that is pleasing to the eye, and will be long preserved for reference.

The Tribune Annual has been specially prepared for wide-spread circulation. It will serve to advertise Great Falls far and wide, convincing merchants and manufacturers, as well as people of moderate means, that this city stands at the head of progress in the great booming, busy northwest.

SPRAY OF THE FALLS.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

A. Nathan, the one-price clothier, received a large shipment of shoes yesterday.

Miss Katie Gibbs is reported much worse to day and she is not expected to live.

Russel B. Harrison, the president's son, passed through here today on his way to St. Louis.

It is reported that there were 100 cases of la grippe at Sand Coulee during the past week.

E. L. Cornell, who supplies Sand Coulee with iced fluid in the city on business today.

Frank Hollingsworth, one of Deep creek's promising young men, spent a few days in the city this week.

William Elm, of Elm, sprained his ankle about a week ago, and has suffered from the accident ever since.

Silverman, Cohen & Co., of Choteau, have a large lot of supplies in the freight depot here awaiting their order.

Mr. Robinson, the railroad contractor, left yesterday for his home in Duluth, to remain until his health improves.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O'ndy arrived yesterday via Helena, from Anoka, Minn., and will make this city their future home.

Isaac Jordan, one of the prominent ranchmen of Deep creek, spent a few days in the city this week and returned home today.

T. Lacey of Benton, yesterday, shipped 26 dead porkers to the Great Falls market. These are just the right size for family use, weighing about 175 pounds each.

Thos. MacGregor, formerly chef de cuisine at the Arcade, accompanied by his new wife, went out to Truly this morning where they will visit at Isaac Jordan's.

J. M. Gaunt, the genial rustler for S. C. Ashby & Co., the agency for the Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine and yesterday received his first shipment of machines.

Among the Park hotel arrivals are S. Allen, St. Paul; D. W. Grant, Neath branch; W. W. Wilson, Minneapolis; W. H. Perkins, A. O. Marshman and G. K. Malcolm Helena.

Mr. Thomas Wheeler, formerly of Sand Coulee, returned this morning from Verzon, accompanied by his bride, Miss Wheeler, his daughter by his first wife, come with him.

L. O. Leonard and wife of Ansonia, are at the Park hotel. Mr. Leonard is editor of the Ansonia Review and general manager of the Rocky Mountain telegraph company.

The physicians report the health of the city as better. Each attack of grippe has lasted on the average, about two days. The general healthfulness of the winter has helped invalids considerably.

Dr. H. T. Monahan received his household goods today from Minneapolis. He has rented one of the Lawler cottages on the south side and will move in today. He expects his wife on the noon train tomorrow.

It is reported that Joe House of Sand Coulee, has purchased the saloon fixtures now used by Mathers & Person on First avenue south, and will open out there about Feb. 1. Mathers & Person will open an amuse outfit in the middle room of the Luther block.

M. Raleigh arrived yesterday with a car load of household goods and three fine horses. Mrs. Raleigh also arrived by the noon train. They come from southern Wisconsin and propose to east their lot with Great Falls. There is plenty of room for such energetic, enterprising people and they will not regret the step they have taken.

W. A. Naylor, of St. Paul, general superintendent of the western division of the American Express company, has given orders for the office here to get ready for the largest business ever done. From the indications there he thinks that Great Falls will have the largest express business of any city on the Great Northern lines during the coming season.

H. H. Nelson, of the Cheyenne valley, said today to a Tribune reporter: "This is proving a good season for stock. There has been just enough snow for the cattle what they needed it most. The cattle are now in good condition and strong enough to go through the winter successfully, however hard it may be. The home demand for cattle is fair. Steers are held out at $2.50 and even $3.00 higher than heretofore."

Peter Collett, a cousin of Mr. H. Neitzling, proprietor of the Pioneer hotel, died about 1 p. m. today. Mr. Collett was originally from Virginia, but came here from Alabama. He had been suffering a long time with consumption which finally carried him off. Mr. Collett had been in the employ of Mr. Neitzling for several months and was respected and esteemed by all who knew him.

Capt. W. J. Clark, who is in the city, will take his departure, Monday, for the east to be gone until about the 1st of March. Capt. Clark, who has been at Belhart for several weeks looking after the development of the Mousch mine, reports most favorably in regard to that property. The tunnel is now driven over 300 feet and from the time the load was struck they have had all along a fine vein of mineral. The mountain at that point is very steep, so that they are now 400 feet from the surface. They are working three shafts and will continue right along until they show up one of the very best mines in Montana. The ore is high grade and as the vein is several feet in width it is evident that Capt. Clark and his associates have a genuine bonanza.

James Tyndall, an Englishman, came in from Bell last week, where he has been at work on the railroad. He was suffering from a severe cold, which, with a fresh attack combined with the prevalent la grippe, developed into pneumonia. He was stopping at the Pioneer hotel and out of bed and around the house part of the time, and was not considered dangerously sick. Last night, about 12:30, he came down stairs, when Mr. Gibbs, the night watchman, gave him a glass of milk and told him to go back to bed. Tyndall went up stairs, and about thirty minutes afterward Mr. Gibbs started up to his room, and in going by looked into Tyndall's room to see if he wanted anything. He saw Tyndall lying across the bed, with his feet on the floor. When he went to rouse him he found the body stiff and cold in death. Up to 3 p. m. today the coroner could not be found so nothing had been done with the body. Tyndall was on his way to Helena where he has a friend who is working in the Montana Central ship or store-house. The body will probably be held to await the request of friends, if any are found.

WHICH PARTY?

Co-Operative or Assessment Va. Old Line Life Insurance Companies.

Co-operative insurance means promising you something for less than it costs. It is the discarded plan in regular companies of a "die to win" policy. If you die before the company bursts your wife may get some money. None of the policies agree to pay a fixed amount, but only what an assessment will net. Say that you stay in an assessment company for five years (the average length of life of such associations), the company or association "goes up"; you get nothing. You don't pay your assessment on the day—you get nothing; you drop out of the order or company—you get nothing.

The New York Life has been organized 45 years. Assets to protect policy holders, $95,000,000. So it is the strongest of all. You have 80 days grace on all premiums, including the first, so don't worry. You don't care or are unable to make payments and we give you a paid up policy. The company takes no man's money that it is not willing to render an equivalent.
