

MANY TO ATTEND FARM CONVENTION

GREAT FALLS WILL BE MECCA OF FARMERS WHO BELIEVE IN CO-OPERATION.

Representative Farmers From Every Section of the State Will Exchange Views as to How to Increase Acreage and Improve Conditions of Marketing Produce.

The largest farmers' meeting ever staged anywhere in the state will be held in Great Falls during the week beginning February 4, according to Herbert M. Peet, editor of the Equity News, who is one of the leading spirits in arranging for this farm congress.

The object of the congress is to bring together representative farmers from every county in the state, and give them an opportunity to exchange views on such subjects as how to increase the farm production for next year, how to improve the marketing of farm products, how to bring the city consumer and the farm producer closer together, and how to secure just and fair legislation for the farm business.

Farm Organizations.

Though the congress was originated by the American society of Equity, whose headquarters are in Great Falls, it is an event in which the Grange, the Farmers' Union, the National Nonpartisan league, the National Administration, the state Agricultural college, and the Great Falls Commercial club will participate.

Mr. Peet says that the committee on arrangements has been promised a speaker to represent the National Administration. This speaker may be Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, or it may be Herbert Quick, chairman of the federal land board. There will be at least one governor present, and it is more than probable that there will be two—and both here on the same night. During the week three prominent college presidents will address the congress, as well as a half dozen other men whose names are almost household words in the northwest.

Hoover May Come.

An effort is being made to secure Herbert Hoover, the National Food administrator, but the possibility of his presence here depends entirely on whether he accepts a like invitation to speak before the Idaho farmers at their meeting the last week in January. Mr. Hoover is too busy to give lectures in person throughout the nation, but it is thought inasmuch as he has two invitations to the northwest, the dates so close together that he will avail himself of this opportunity to "kill two birds with one stone." If Mr. Hoover does not come, he will designate his substitute as the National Food Administration will surely be represented on the program.

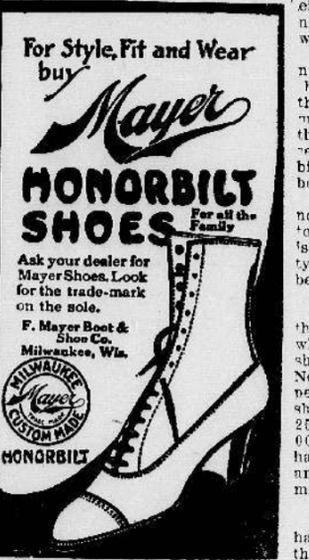

Dies From Exposure.

Louis Matson of Basin, the young man who was the sole spectator of the Great Northern wreck a couple of months ago two miles from that town, was found dead near Ovando. Death was the result of exhaustion and exposure. The funeral will be held at Basin tomorrow afternoon with interment in the Basin cemetery.

The only man who dislikes to see his name in print is the fellow who steals something or who runs away with his neighbor's wife.

Opportunity may knock once at every man's door—but she won't break in the door to drag you out and up the hill of success.

BIG INCREASE IN STATE LAND SALES

Funds Going to Institutions of State Are Largely Augmented in All Departments; Interest on Money Invested Amounts to a Considerable Sum.

During the past year the state of Montana, landlord of most consequence within the state's confines, did a thriving business in land. Sales totalled 77,246 acres, according to the report of Sidney Miller, register of the state land office. The land sold for $1,218,123, an average price of $15.70 per acre. Practically all of it was disposed of on the 20 annual payment plan, idle land was transformed into interest bearing securities, and homes made for the multitude.

The increase in the receipts of the state land office over 1916 amount of $155,173.08. The number of leases executed during the year is 2,753, an increase of 526 over the preceding year. The increase in rentals now amounts to $62,475.73. The increase in fees was $1,336 over last year. The coal royalties received during the year were $16,000.66. The rentals and interest on contracts account increased $93,515.63 over the preceding year.

Funds for the Schools.

From the sale of lands for the past fiscal year the common schools permanent fund receives $793,017.87; Agricultural college, "Morrill," $6,080.16; Agricultural college bond, $15,529.69; deaf and dumb asylum, $6,669.71; Capitol, $41,473.64; school of mines; $23,642.88; normal school, $7,941.35; reform school, $17,863.34; state university, $30,378.68; soldiers from the sale of lands was $942,719.72.

From the sale of timber the total receipts for the year were $13,475.62. These funds, the same as the moneys derived from the sale of land, go into the permanent investment funds of the various institutions.

Subscribers Rent Roll.

Receipts from rentals for the year were $454,373.43. Interest paid on deferred payments amounted to $376,610.77. The royalties received on coal amounting to $16,000 and the interest on funds invested, which is paid direct to the state treasurer and amount to probably $270,000 for the year, must be added to the rental receipts and the interest on deferred payments to determine the amount, less the cost of administration, received during the year to be distributed among the various institutions.

Increase of Receipts.

There has been a substantial increase in all departments, except in receipts for timber. Receipts for land sales for 1917 were $942,719.72; 1916, $880,801.43; for timber, 1917, $13,475.62; 1916, $19,921.58; leases, 1917, $454,373.43; 1916, $391,897.70; interest, 1917, $376,610.77; 1916, $345,470.87; coal, 1917, $16,000.66; 1916, $11,363.80; fees, 1917, $9,423.87; 1916, $8,087.20.

WANT MONTANA NURSES FOR SERVICE IN FRANCE

Miss Margaret Hughes, chairman of the state committee on Red Cross nursing, has been advised by Clara D. Noyes, director of the bureau of nursing for the American Red Cross Nursing association, that a call may be expected for Montana to supply five or six Red Cross nurses for foreign service. It is likely that the nurses will be called to duty the last week of December.

Miss Hughes has been asked to get nurses lined up for this service, but he call is not definite enough to get them to quit their regular employment. She has been advised to have those who volunteer for the service secure passport photographs and birth certificates, so that there will be little delay when the call comes. Montana Red Cross nurses have not been holding back when it comes to foreign service and Miss Hughes is confident that when the call to duty comes the state's quota will again be promptly filled.

Paris. — French authorities say that France is stronger today than when she went into the war. Then she had 1,500,000 men under arms. Now she has 2,500,000 fully equipped. Then she was making 12,000 shells a day, and now she is making 250,000. She has voted $20,000,000,000 in war credits, half of which have come from her own resources, and is holding two-thirds, or 300 miles of the battle front.

If a man does his best he won't have much trouble keeping up with the rest.

200,000 AIRCRAFT TO CRUSH FOE

RUBBER MEN OF UNITED STATES OFFER ALL THEIR FACTORIES FOR WORK.

Tell Howard Coffin That in Their Opinion Three to Six Billion Dollars Should Be Spent by Uncle Sam to Make our Air Force Supreme.

"America will have an air fleet of from 150,000 to 200,000 airplanes, costing anywhere from three billion to six billion dollars, if the tentative suggestions offered to the aircraft board by seven of the biggest rubber manufacturers of the country are developed to their maximum ideal," said W. F. Enright, manager of the northwest division of the United States Rubber company, who was in Montana from his headquarters at Minneapolis last week.

"The aircraft board at Washington recently sent to the great rubber companies of the country a request for their ideas along the line of airplane production to win the war, and the answer from these big concerns was unanimous—'Swamp Germany with attacks in the air; smother German towns and German armies with American aircraft.'"

Mr. Enright, who has been in touch with the situation, says that proposals were made that all the available factories in the country be put immediately to the manufacturing of parts for a staggering fleet of airplanes. The rubber men offered their services collectively or individually in co-ordinating all their allied or collateral factories to aid the aircraft board.

Present Program.

At present, under the program that calls for 22,000 airplanes and the expenditure of $640,000,000, only about 10 per cent of the available resources of the country are being utilized. Under full development of all the resources, it is estimated that this country could produce with the very least effort 12,000 airplanes a month.

The committee that met Howard E. Coffin, head of the aircraft board, included Harvey S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company; Harry T. Dunn, president of the Flske Rubber company; Paul W. Litchfield, vice-president of the Goodyear Rubber company; Chas. B. Raymond, vice president of the Goodrich Rubber company; Geo. B. Hodgman, president of the Hodgman Rubber company; Charles T. Wilson, president of Charles T. Wilson company, importers of crude rubber, and Edgar B. Davis, director of the Plantation of the United States Rubber company.

Air Fleet Facts.

The rubber men had before them these vital facts: Germany boasts that she will build an air fleet far greater than that contemplated by the United States. She has more than fifty factories working. In July she constructed 2,500 aircraft. Within a year she will have added approximately 30,000 airplanes to her service at this rate.

General Petain says France will have 50,000 airplanes before the end of the war.

England is building large numbers. No one knows what Italy's program contemplates. And, worst of all, no one knows Germany's. It is known that since the announcement of the American aircraft program in the spring Germany has bent every effort toward outstripping the production of this country. As early as last June she began transforming 23 huge factories formerly engaged in the manufacture of general war material into airplane and hydroplane factories. In addition old-established factories at Berlin and many other industrial cities have greatly increased their output. The Pöckler factory took over the largest piano-wire concern in Germany, the Bersina, at Scheerlin. Germany is building larger and more powerful planes of all types.

Like Action in U. S.

With such facts known the rubber men suggested that large piano factories be devoted exclusively to the making of wire for airplanes, and that all other kindred industries be put to fullest utility, such as furniture factories for propellers and other woodwork; silk, canvas and linen factories, electrical laboratories, tire and rim builders, forgings, bearings, motor builders, etc.

Germany, it was pointed out, can be beaten quickly and economically by a huge American air program. This country can out-manufacture Germany.

PRICE FIXING FOR SILVER

The government is about to extend price fixing to silver. This was practically agreed upon at conference between Director of the Mint Baker, Governor Boyle of Nevada and Senator Pittman of Nevada, the two latter representing silver producers.

Plan under consideration contemplates control of production and distribution of metal through pooling of all stocks. Producers will be assured a reasonable profit by the government. This step is necessary, it is agreed, through the fact that silver prices have jumped 60 per cent since the United States entered war.

Electric-Heated Waistcoats.

Waistcoats specially heated with electricity were worn by crews of two German aeroplanes shot down during the raid over London and southeastern coast yesterday.

If piling up riches were the only thing worth while in this game we call life, Rockefeller would long ago have been crowned king.

MONTANA YOUTHS BREAK INTO ARMY

GO TO CAMP LEWIS WITH DRAFT CONTINGENT AND RECEIVE TRAINING.

Enlist in Regular Army and Get Transferred to National Army so as to be With Old Friends From Sheridan County—Display of Real American Patriotism.

Three Sheridan county boys have slipped one over on the officers at Camp Lewis given a demonstration of real patriotism, secured the training of a national army cantonment as private citizens, joined the regular army and been transferred to the draft army so as to accompany the boys from their home county and state to the European front. They are Ross Robinson, Ralph Haske and Floyd Nickerson of the 362nd infantry.

These three men voluntarily accompanied a draft contingent from Montana went through the regular army routine, including the daily drilling, for two entire months. All of the two months time they were merely citizens, not having volunteered, or been drafted or enlisted in any way. Here's how it happened.

In the little towns of Plentywood and Redstone, Mont., there had been plenty of display of patriotism and the Montana cowboys were continually joining the ranks of Uncle Sam's soldiers. When the draft law began to take effect the patriotic spirit was fanned to a fiercer flame and the contingents were sent off with big mass meetings, band concerts and the cheering of many friends. The whole town of Plentywood turned out for an assembly meeting the night of Sept. 18 to give the second quota of Sheridan county a send off. Enthusiasm was rampant and the soldier prospect was the hero of the hour.

Entitled to Exemptions.

Up to this date, Ross Robinson a rancher, Floyd Nickerson an engineer and Ralph Haske, the deputy county clerk, had lived in quietness in the neighboring town of Redstone—Robinson was doing well on his ranch and felt that he would be helping win the war through his productiveness. Nickerson was in a class of men skilled in work valuable to the government in time of war and anyway he hadn't thought much of joining the army. Haske in the capacity of county official did not feel called especially to join the rank and file. War reports came in frequently of the cruelties of the Teutons and finally Haske who was a native born Englishman, began to "warm up."

He had seven cousins in the British army at the front and when he heard that all seven of them had been killed he literally "boiled over" and decided that he would get in the army some way to do his bit toward conquering the Germans. He was a married man with one little kiddie but he felt that duty called him. And so he decided upon a plan but said nothing of it to his friends, Nickerson and Robinson.

Carried Away by Enthusiasm.

Meanwhile these two worthies had come down from Redstone Sept. 18 to attend the big "sendoff rally" given for the second quota of the Montana men. When they came, they had no intention of going to Camp Lewis or of even enlisting in the army. As the meeting went on and the patriotic addresses flamed, the spirits of Nickerson and Robinson became enthused. They felt that they were needed and the sooner they went the better. Neither had been called in the draft nor was liable to be for some time, but they wanted to go right away with the Sheridan county men.

Just then they heard of Haske's plan which was to join the Sheridan county men going to Camp Lewis and say nothing, acting the part of drafted men. So Robinson and Nickerson rushed back to Redstone, arranged their business affairs as best they could and came back in time to board the train.

Acted Just Like Drafted Men.

When they arrived at Camp Lewis they went through the ordinary investigations and were treated just like drafted men. Service papers do not usually accompany the men and are often sent by mail, arriving weeks or more after their departure, so the officials did not know that the men were not drafted. It was not until a few weeks ago that this was discovered and the men were ordered to leave the camp. But they were good men, they had the true American spirit and they wanted to stay, so they were allowed to join the regular army, were transferred to the national army, assigned to the 362nd infantry and were from there assigned to their already beloved A company.

WHERE 10,000 AMERICANS WILL LEARN AIRCRAFT

With the American Army in France.—Probably the greatest military school in history got under way Friday in a French town on top of a high hill, where headquarters and staff colleges are located, with branches scattered in several lowland villages. When in full progress 10,000 students will be under instruction, and will give way to others as their training is completed.

Schools are conducted for anti-aircraft artillery, anti-aircraft machine gunnery, trench mortars and sanitary work, in which there are complete units for attachment to divisions in training. Army candidates' school, where non-coms learn to be officers, is also open. Within a few days infan-
