

BIG EXODUS OF NOME MINERS

SEATTLE, Oct. 11.—Within the next two weeks 5000 persons will sail from Nome to Seattle on the last boats of the season. Every steamer scheduled to leave the northern gold camp is booked full, and the steamship Victoria, which has not yet sailed from Seattle for the north, is practically sold out. Even freighters, which have scarcely any accommodations for passengers, will bring down many northern miners.

The crowd coming down from Nome is increased by miners from the Tanana country and the Kuskokwim, who drifted into Nome because of unsatisfactory conditions in their old fields. Despite the fact that this big exodus will occur, Nome advices today state that more persons than usual will winter in the Seward peninsula.

PERSONAL MENTION

W. H. McBest of New York is a visitor in the city.

G. W. Lewis is registered at the Mizpah from San Francisco.

"Billy" Grimes has entered upon active duty in the recorder's office.

Mrs. Sam Smith, wife of the Millers' contractor, was in the city yesterday.

Burns Lane and Erie Daveler returned yesterday from a short trip to Rhyolite.

William Beauchamp and R. A. Leonard, returned from a trip to the coast yesterday.

George S. Green, of the firm of Campbell, Metson and Brown, went to Goldfield yesterday morning.

D. H. McNeil, who was formerly in the county clerk's office, has taken a position with Cuddy and Stock.

John Salsberry, the copper king of the Ubehebe, is in Reno on business, and is expected home tomorrow.

P. R. Terwilliger was here yesterday from Round Mountain, where he is manager for the telephone company.

Mrs. A. J. McConnell, accompanied by her daughter, came up from Millers yesterday and will return home this evening.

Fred Saunders, Ed. Walker's rapid chief assistant, has returned from Milwaukee, and he brought back with him a bride.

Al Revert of the Tonopah Lumber Company, who has been to the coast on a business trip, returned to this city this morning.

Miss Alice Razell, who has been visiting friends in Tonopah, and who has been here for several months, left yesterday for her home in Chicago.

Mrs. R. C. Moore, wife of Assistant Cashier Moore of the Tonopah Banking Corporation, returned from an outing to Los Angeles on Thursday night.

Mrs. J. H. Harcourt of Summit, Esmeralda county, on the line of the old Carson and Colorado road, is here on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Charles Warren.

T. D. Van deVort, editor and proprietor of the Goldfield Review, came over last night on his way to Silver Peak, where he will spend the next four or five days.

W. J. Sinclair, the well known mining man of early days in Tonopah, arrived here yesterday from Humboldt county, California, where he has some very fine copper properties.

Key Pittman left for Carson yesterday morning, where he is to make his argument before the Supreme Court, in the mandamus proceedings in the case of Gleason against the Jumbo Extension Mining Company.

Thomas E. Edwards, one of the best known mining men in southern Nevada, and former partner with Bob Montgomery in the Montgomery Shoshone, will leave this morning for Yerrington, from where he will go to his home in Oakland.

Oliver Wren, the mining secretary of Charles M. Schwab, was one of the passengers on Thursday night's train from the south. Through inadvertence, an error was made in the publication of the gentleman's name yesterday, for which Mr. Wren will please accept our apology.

SETTLE BOUNDARY LINE.

County Commissioners H. F. Spenser and Henry Boerlin of Esmeralda county were here yesterday to meet with our county commissioners in an effort to settle the boundary lines of the two counties. The matter, it was agreed, would be brought up at the next full meeting of the board.

Mothers with little children need no longer fear croup, colds or whooping cough. Bees Laxative Cough Syrup tastes good. It works off the cold through the bowels, clears the head. Guaranteed. Sold by Tonopah Drug Co.

Don't forget the Bonanza's up to date bindery.

JIM BUCHANAN'S SAD PREDICAMENT

BECOMES POSSESSED OF FEMINE LINGERIE INSTEAD OF CORDUROY TROUSERS.

Jim Buchanan, the well known mining man of this place has had a singular mix-up in San Francisco. It seems that James reached San Francisco at the same time with Olga Nethersole, the wonderful oculatory performer, and they put up at different hotels. The arrival of two such celebrities contemporaneously, was too much for the clerks and porters of the two hotels, and the result was when Jim went to his room that night, oh, mercy!

He opened his big trunk, where he had stuck his prospector's boots, and mountain climbing trousers. Then he opened his eyes, and then his mouth to yell. The first thing he picked up, he dropped, and it is a wonder that the filmy lace wasn't torn in his rude grasp. In the top tray of the trunk was some of the wardrobe, maybe all of it, of Nethersole's famous stair climbing scene in Sapho. There isn't much wardrobe in that scene, it will be remembered, but what there is is very fine and fetching.

All of what happened when Miss Nethersole, in the sanctity of her boudoir, was called upon to view those prospector's boots, and the many nuggets from Jim's mines, and the rocks that assayed well, but didn't look good to a French maid, is not entirely set forth. But the San Francisco Chronicle makes a good stagger at it, and here is what the paper says in its fullness:

James A. Buchanan, a wealthy mining man from Nevada, spent a few anxious hours on his recent arrival from Los Angeles over the temporary disappearance of a trunk containing between $2000 and $3000 worth of samples and gold nuggets and $14,000 worth of mining securities. About the same time Miss Olga Nethersole was equally distressed over the disappearance of a trunk which contained the flimsy apparel in which she is clothed when Gaussin carries her up stairs, and various other finery which is essential to her appearance here in her repertoire.

Buchanan and Miss Nethersole came up on the same train Friday from Los Angeles. Buchanan had only one trunk, but it was a highly valuable one. It contained samples from some of the richest mines in Nevada, and bottles filled with nuggets and washed gold. In the trunk also were stock certificates to the value of $14,000. The certificates were not signed, but they were stamped and would have been negotiable. Miss Nethersole had several trunks and if they were all filled with the same sort of apparel as the one inspected by Buchanan they are highly interesting if not valuable.

Buchanan went to the Grand hotel, and left his check, No. 85,887, with the clerk with instructions to have the baggage sent to his room. Buchanan has a trunk, known to the profession as a theatrical trunk, and when he saw it in his room he supposed it to be his own. His key fitted it so he unlocked it and proceeded to unpack, as he wished to get out some samples to show prospective investors on the following day. When Buchanan had packed his trunk he had placed a corduroy and a khaki suit on top with a pair of heavy mining boots and a candlestick. What was his surprise to find on top a flimsy garment, such as he remembered to have seen Miss Nethersole wear in first act of "Sapho."

He says he doesn't know whether it was tulle or crepe de chine, but he knows it was "horribly thin."

DISCOVERS SOME HOSIERY.

Buchanan decided to go farther down. He proceeded to uncover much lingerie and lace hosiery. By this time he began to suspect that he had been sold a gold brick and that the packages had been switched. Buchanan kept digging, looking feverishly for the nuggets and stocks. By this time he was standing up to his neck in lace and frills. His valuable were not in the bottom of the trunk, and he absolutely refuses to divulge what he found in place of them. Then he began to wonder how so much stuff could come out of the trunk and how he was to get it back.

After he had repacked the trunk, he started for the ferry to learn where his own trunk was. He explained that he had a theatrical trunk, and that the one that had been swapped to him looked very much, from the contents, as though it might belong to a theatrical person. Then it was discovered that the check of one of Miss Nethersole's trunks was $5,897. Miss Nethersole's trunks had been sent to the Savoy, where her brother was staying.

Buchanan started for the Savoy, and arrived there in time to find Miss Nethersole's maid dragging his belongings from his trunk and exclaim-

WILL INSTALL A CYANIDE PLANT

CARLSON COMPANY WILL CONSTRUCT ONE IN CONNECTION WITH MILL.

G. F. Plyler, president of the Carlson Mining and Milling Company, came in last night from the mine at Golden Arrow, accompanied by H. E. Averill of Oakland. The two men had spent four days at the mine, and in fact were pretty well all over the district, sampling the ore in all directions. The company put up a mill, which was completed on the 24th of last June, but which has been shut down for about a month. The mill was shut down for the purpose of determining the best method of treating the ore by a cyanide process.

"Our property was located only in last December," said Mr. Plyler, "and we have been doing a good deal of work ever since. We have a ten-stamp mill and while we are only down fifty-one feet, we have opened up sufficient ore to warrant the expenditure of the mill. Apart from that, we intend doing custom work, and there is one property there which alone would keep the mill going. We have changed our mill man, and I leave for the city in the morning to make arrangements for the cyanide plant."

"To show what there is in store for the district, when it has been thoroughly developed, the Cotter Mining Company has its shaft down 135 feet and the gold in the shaft will average $75 to the ton. Lawrence, of the Horseshoe, is down seventy-five feet and has a ledge fifteen feet in width, which will average $30 to the ton. Mr. Lawrence has announced his determination of sinking to the 300-foot level, which will open up the country in good shape."

"There are a number of people back at Golden Arrow who were out for the summer and all of whom have started up work again on their claims."

Messrs. Plyler and Averill brought in with them some of the finest specimens of corn, turnips, lettuce, beets and potatoes ever seen in this country. They came from the Plyler ranch, which was started contemporaneously with the work on the mine. Mr. Plyler was quite sure that anything would grow in that country, with its abundance of water, and he has demonstrated his convictions beyond a doubt. Better than that, they are raising fine muskmelons, the best ever.

EMPEROR IS AT POINT OF DEATH

VIENNA, Midnight, Oct. 11.—This night is a critical one for Francis Joseph, the aged Emperor King of Austria-Hungary. His majesty's physicians are visibly becoming more anxious. The fever, which lasted ten days, seems to have exhausted the wonderfully trained system of the monarch and symptoms of inflammation of the lungs are growing. Five times during the course of the day his majesty remained for half an hour in a state of almost complete apathy, while at other times he was in a state of somnolence.

DUTCH TROOPS ARE MASSACRED

VANCOUVER, Oct. 11.—Mail advices from Batavia report the ambuscade and massacre of two companies of Dutch troops by natives in Celebes. Eleven men sent to secure a native chief were attacked while in camp and all were butchered. Lieutenant Mathes, in command of the force, had gone with six men to the chief's stronghold and on returning joined forces with Lieutenant Kies and fifteen men. The company made camp and was set upon by a large force of blacks. Not one of the soldiers escaped.

ing, as she held up a corduroy suit and a pair of miner's boots. "Merci! Has ze manager billed Madame here in a Wild West drama?"

Buchanan explained the mistake to Miss Nethersole's brother, and the trunks were exchanged. He was very glad to get his nuggets and stocks back, but he had one even greater cause for congratulation, but he had one even greater cause for congratulation, which he expressed in the following exclamation:

"Gee! But it's a lucky thing my wife isn't along this trip. If she'd seen me unpacking that trunk!"

MONEY RAISED TO CARRY ON WORK

NO TROUBLE WHATEVER TO SECURE FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.

That there is money to be had for investment in the securities of southern Nevada has been again demonstrated in the experience of W. I. Beauchamp and R. A. Leonard, of the Silver Peak Jr., who have just returned from the coast. These gentlemen went to California to sell stock for the development of their property, and they did it—sold all they wished to, and raised all the money that they need for the present to carry out the work in hand.

"We had no trouble in raising money," said Mr. Beauchamp, "and our experience shows that there is money to be had, if a man will go after it. We found conditions in the rural districts of California extremely good. Crops of all kinds have been good all around, and prices better than in many years. In consequence, the farmer, the vineyardist and the orchardist are more independent than anybody. They are in a better condition financially than are the rustlers of Nevada at the present time."

"In San Francisco, things are in a bad way on account of the strikes, and the discontent that exists between capital and labor. The graft prosecution has, perhaps, more to do with conditions than anything else, on account of the bitter fight that is being put up on both sides. The people are all in the air, and they do not know what the outcome of the election will be. The conservative business men figure that the conservative element must win out. If not they look for bad times to last for sometime to come. It is a three-cornered fight, and each element has it figured out that it has a cinch on winning. The general impression is that the silent vote will win, as it generally does, with the exception, perhaps, of the last two elections."

"I am going to Silver Peak tomorrow morning in company with the O'Meara brothers. I will arrange for a change of management. Mr. Peers, who has been in charge of the work, has resigned to go south with his old friend, James L. Freeburn. He is going to be the foreman of the Teocopa Consolidated. John Harrington of Sodaville will take his place."

TURNING OUT THE BEST WORK

The bindery of the Bonanza is turning out the best work in the city, and it is giving such great satisfaction that anyone who has his work done there once, never goes anywhere else. The plant is the finest and most complete, not only in the State, but this side of San Francisco. We can turn out all kinds of work that is demanded in the offices of lawyers, brokers, promoters, mining companies, or for any other kind of business, and we guarantee satisfaction in every respect. One trial will be sufficient to establish the truth of this statement. It pays to go where only the best kind of work is done, and it pays to patronize home industry.

Journals, cash books and ledgers—just the thing the merchant needs—best that can be made. For sale at the Bonanza office.

It is a well known fact that persons living in the Pine forests do not suffer from kidney diseases. One dose of Pineules at night usually relieves backache. 30 days' treatment $1.00. Your money refunded if not satisfied. Sold by Tonopah Drug Co.

Bees frequently fly three miles in search of home-making supplies, and sometimes, when compelled to do so through scarcity of material, they double this distance.

SAGE ADVICE OF JUDGE DRISSELL

TELLS HUSBAND OF WAYWARD WOMAN TO NOT Molest HER.

J. F. Bentley was before Judge Drissell yesterday charged with disturbing the peace. The case did not stick, and instead of the usual fine, his honor administered some wholesome advice before discharging the prisoner. The trouble arose on account of Bentley's wife, who, according to the husband, is most profuse in her show of affection, to the exclusion of the husband. Mrs. Bentley, so Mr. Bentley claims, has as many beans as Bedelia, and that is going some.

She promised to be good, he said, but her promises did not count for much. On the night before he discovered that she had gone to a room, and he went after her, and she not being alone, refused to be disturbed or to return to his abode. The landlady came upon the scene, and as Bentley would not desist in his clamoring, but threatened to break down the door, she called the police. Judge Drissell advised the sorrowing husband to let the wayward woman go her way, and not trouble himself, or allow her to trouble him any longer.

INJURED MAN'S ARM AMPUTATED

Thomas Swope, whose arm was terribly mangled in the mill of the Montana Tonopah on Wednesday, yesterday had the arm amputated, and last night Dr. Hammond, the attending physician, declared that the critical stage had been passed and that his patient would recover.

HERBERT TRIPP IN GAS COMPANY

Herbert A. Tripp was yesterday appointed assistant manager of the local gas company, vice H. A. Burns, resigned. Mr. Tripp will enter upon the discharge of his new duties today.
