EDITORIAL COMMENT.

JUST AS PREDICTED.

Senator Newlands dodged the issue, sidestepped it, ran away and turned his back upon it, just as the papers of Tonopah and Goldfield said he would, when asked to explain his part in the sending of troops to Goldfield. There are many people who would like the senator to explain why he was in the "bushes" in Washington during the time the sending of federal troops to Goldfield was under discussion; why, when burning with a desire to help the "Roughnecks" back in his sagebrush home he did not try to spare them the ignominy of having federal troops sent to jail them, shoot them, chase them off the streets and disband their meetings when they were striving for what they considered their just rights. But these things were "too well known to require discussion." The senator was right there. His attitude toward labor is "too well known," too d—n well known, to "require discussion." And on the third of November the avalanche of votes which will sweep P. L. Flanigan, man of and for the people, into the senatorial chair will be equally "too well known to require discussion."

A GOOD MAN.

The Reese River Reveille, in December, 1886, printed the following notice: "A Generous Offer. C. A. Richards offers to furnish meat free of charge to any of the families of Austin who from misfortune are not able to afford the expense, at his butcher shop, Friday, December 31st. He desires all the families to have a good New Year's dinner, and asks that all those who desire the meat to come and get it. This is a commendable act of charity, and it will always redound to the credit of Mr. Richards in giving such a chance to the poor people of Austin."

Mr. Richards is the Republican nominee for auditor and recorder of Nye county, to succeed the Democratic incumbent, Puddy Grimes. Mr. Richards is a good man for the place and the voters of Nye county can do no better than to remember him and vote for him on election day.

Money talks. By way of argument in New York Monday, plenty of money was up on Taft, at odds of four to one, and with few takers. It was too strong talk for the Democrats.

The Ely Mining Expositor states, in all sobriety, that "Senator Newlands is needed in the senate to compel his work." We would like to ask, What Work?

Flanigan is going direct to the people with his campaign. He has no corporation to order its serfs to vote for United States senator, but he is going to make a record that will show where the people stand on the senatorial question.—Goldfield Tribune.

Tonopah and Manhattan were captivated by the manly personal appeal of Mr. Flanigan, and the third of November will show that Sir Francis is not in it with the sheepman.—Goldfield Tribune.

The Democrats promise that if they control the coming session of the legislature that they will pass a banking law similar to that of Oklahoma. All the more reason, then, that this party should not be returned, as guaranteed deposits tend to diminish conservative business methods among bankers. What Nevada wants is a law patterned after the state of Missouri where they have not one, but six bank examiners, who quarterly make exhaustive examinations, checking with the individual depositors and debtors. As for example, going to customers and finding out just what their credit or obligations were on a certain day. Close inspection at frequent intervals is the true solution of the problem.

There was just one, single and lonely noteworthy expression or sentiment uttered at the Democratic meeting Monday night, and that was when Walter Cole said: "America is the greatest nation of the earth." And it did not bring out a single handclap.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the undertaking parlors of Wonacott and Hall. The interment will be in the local cemetery.

BRYAN'S SPECIOUS RECORD.

Judge Taft Points Out the Weak Spots in the Nebraskan's Political History.

(From Taft's Cincinnati Speech.)

"What is it that we have to expect from Mr. Bryan? Have we anything to expect but what he promises? Have we anything to expect but what is based upon his eloquence and his adroitness as a public critic? Has he ever given any practical demonstration of his ability to meet problems and solve them? Has he ever done anything but formulate propositions in his closet of an utterly impracticable plausibility, and very little with a view of their operation? 'By their fruits we shall know them.'

"With the record of promises and prophecies unfulfilled for a period of twelve years; with this record of a hunt for an issue upon which to achieve the presidency; with this record of repudiation, of negotiation and of running away from national responsibilities, Mr. Bryan comes forward and asks that the people now give him an opportunity to put into operation new reforms in respect to trusts and in respect to guaranty of bank deposits, wholly untried, wholly theoretical, and on their face bearing evidence of their impracticability and of having been devised by the ready brain of one looking for plausible arguments rather than real reforms. He only in a qualified way approved the postal savings bank recommended by the Republican platform, which is a tried and proved means of encouraging the wage-earner and small farmer to make deposits in a bank absolutely secure; but much prefers a system which takes a man's money to pay another man's default, and which instead of strengthening our banking system will break it down by destroying the value of the banking character and experience and capital and by offering inducement to reckless and speculative bankers without character or capital.

"The record of Mr. Bryan and his character, as it is understood by a twelve years' acquaintance with him, have impressed the business community of this country and those whose judgment determines whether or not capital shall be invested that he is not a safe man with whom to try experiments by government; that he loves financial theories that are full of sophistry and are impractical; that he advances propositions with but little sense of respect as to how they may be carried out in practice, and that he gives but little attention to the welfare of the conservative business community in his suggestions of reform. Certainly his record justifies this judgment of him by the business men. If he was to be elected, unquestionably because of his record, however much now he may seek to pose as a conservative—because of his record, because of the failure of the theory which he has proposed for the last twelve years—his election will mean a paralysis of business, and we should have a recurrence of the disastrous business condition of the last Democratic administration."

CUSTOM MILL FOR SEVEN TROUGHS

The Seven Troughs district will have a custom mill in operation by the middle of January next, according to the Seven Troughs News. This good news comes as the result of a visit to the district the past week by Samuel Harris, a wealthy mining man of London, England, D. C. Demarest, a prominent mining engineer of California and the head of the Angels Iron Works of Stockton, and Charles M. Lindsey, a well known contractor of San Francisco. Mr. Demarest spent some time in the camp last spring as the guest of C. S. Floyd, the mining broker of this place and was so favorably impressed at that time with the district that he has been endeavoring ever since to get his people to locate here. While the main purpose of their visit was to ascertain the practicability of installing a reduction plant for handling local ores, the gentlemen made a thorough examination of the district with a view to acquiring interests in a mining way.

The result of their examination, which included a personal survey of practically every part of the district where work has been done, was satisfactory to the highest degree. Mr. Harris stated that never in his experience had he seen as wonderful showings as there are here and he expressed it as his opinion that with development the Seven Troughs district will be one of the greatest in the state.

Before leaving the district the immediate erection of a mill was decided upon. A site was selected near the south end of the Mazuma Addition Townsite company. Sufficient water to supply a mill of many times greater capacity than the one projected was brought outright from the Seven Troughs Michigan Leasing company and all plans were laid for immediate construction work. The gentlemen after a careful survey of the ground left for California, where the mill will be ordered. Excavation will commence within a week. Messrs. D. H. Shea, the mining expert, and C. S. Floyd have local charge of operations and both of the gentlemen are making every effort to make the mill a success.

HEART FAILURE CAUSED HIS DEATH

Mrs. Henry Stevens yesterday received the details of the death of Walter Moore, near Mina, which occurred on the twenty-fourth of this month. From the details received it appears that Mr. Moore and his nephew were out prospecting and toward the evening on the day of his death the nephew started out to look for the horses belonging to the party. While he was absent the horses returned to the camp. Mr. Moore fed the horses and tied them up and evidently when he started to return to his tent fell dead from heart failure. The nephew returned in about ten minutes and the body was still warm. He immediately conveyed the remains to Mina. From there the body was taken to Berkeley, where the interment took place. He was not killed by a gunshot wound as was first reported, but it is supposed that heart failure caused his death.
