RHYOLITE AND BLAIR BOTH DESIRE TO HAVE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Grand Chancellor W. C. Pitt of the Knights of Pythias of the domain of Nevada will arrive in this section shortly and will institute a Knights of Pythias lodge in Rhyolite. The members of the Tonopah lodge will accompany the grand chancellor to Rhyolite and assist in the installation ceremonies.

There has been some talk in Blair of instituting a lodge in that vicinity, and it is now up to the live members in that vicinity to get busy and make the necessary preparations and have everything in readiness when Mr. Pitt arrives here.

DIVORCE CASE IS HEARD BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

COURT ORDERS ALL SPECTATORS BARRED IN CASE OF MOORE VS. MOORE.

The divorce case of Francis C. Moore vs. Lulu M. Moore yesterday occupied the attention of the district court the entire session. The case was heard behind closed doors, Judge Averill having issued an order to that effect. From what could be learned last evening it is believed the case will be continued today. A number of subpoenas were issued for witnesses and it is evident the matter is being hard fought by the defendant. When the action was filed it was sealed and the contents were not made known to the public. The answer was also sealed.

REACH'S 1909 BASEBALL GUIDE IS RECEIVED

INTERESTING HANDBOOK ON THE GREAT AMERICAN SPORT.

Reach's Official American League Guide for 1909, published by the A. J. Reach company of Philadelphia, and edited by Mr. Francis C. Richter, of Sporting Life, is out, and is, as usual, first in the field, thus making it the harbinger of the baseball season. It can be said without any qualification that, excellent as all of the editions of the Reach Guide have been in recent years, the 1909 Reach Guide is the best hand book of the kind ever issued by this or any other publisher. The special distinction of the 1909 guide is, next to the text, quality of the paper used and the number and beauty of the engravings furnished, the world's championship series being especially well dowered with splendid action pictures. The American League Guide for 1909 is in all respects a first class hand book of the national game and a decided credit to the American league and to the publishers, the Reach company. This is the eighth annual issue of the Reach American League, and the twenty-seventh consecutive year of its publication as a book of record and reference for the entire baseball world.

The book gives a complete review of the American league's eighth eventful season as a major league; complete records and averages of the American league 1908 race and players; a graphic story of the American league's part in the memorable post-season's world's championship series of 1908; a synopsis of all remarkable American league pitching feats and also of all the noteworthy games of the 1908 season; and a general review of all matters affecting the American league during the whole of 1908 up to date of publication.

EVOLUTION.

The following gem we published yesterday in an incomplete form. Yesterday we were given a copy taken from one of the originals, and feel in order to give the article the credit due it to publish it in its entirety. The author is Langdon Smith, one of the best known journalists of New York, who passed away some time ago. The poem is considered one of the greatest poetical pieces that has ever been composed, many placing it at the lead of the American classics. It is also quoted largely by the leading newspapers throughout the United States.

When you were a tadpole, and I was a fish,
 In the Paleozoic time;
 And side by side in the ebbing tide
 We sprawled through the ooze and slime,
 Or skittered with many a caudal flip
 Through the depths of the Cambrian fen.
 My heart was rife with the joy of life,
 For I loved you, even then.
 Mindless we lived, and mindless we loved,
 And mindless at last we died,
 And deep in a rift of a Caradoc drift,
 We slumbered side by side.
 The world turned on in the lathe of time
 The hot lands heaved amain,
 'Till we caught our breath from the womb of death,
 And crept into light again,
 We were Amphibians, scaled and tailed,
 And drab as a dead man's hand;
 We coiled at ease 'neath the dripping trees,
 Or trailed through the mud and sand,
 Croaking and blind, with our three-clawed feet
 Writing a language dumb,
 With never a spark in the empty dark
 To hint of a life to come.

Yet happy we lived, and happy we loved,
 And happy we died once more;
 Our forms were rolled in the clinging mold
 Of a Neocomian shore.
 The Aeon came, and the Aeon fled,
 And the sleep that wrapped us fast,
 Was riven away in a newer day,
 And the night of death was past.
 When light and swift through the jungle trees,
 We swung in our airy flights,
 Or breathed in the balm of the fronded palm,
 In the hush of the moonless nights,
 And oh! what beautiful years were these,
 When our hearts clung each to each:
 When life was filled, and our senses thrilled
 In the first faint dawn of speech.

Thus life by life, and love by love,
 We passed through the circle strange,
 And breath by breath, and death by death,
 We followed the chain of change.
 'Till there came a time in the law of life
 When o'er the nursing sod,
 The shadows broke, and the soul awoke
 In a strange dim dream of God.
 I was thewed like an Auroch bull,
 And tusked like the great Cave Bear;
 And you, my sweet, from head to feet,
 Were gowned in your glorious hair.
 Deep in the gloom of a fireless cave,
 When the night fell o'er the plain,
 And the moon hung red o'er the river bed,
 We mumbled the bones of the slain.

I flaked a flint to a cutting edge,
 And shaped it with brutish craft;
 I broke a shank from the woodland dank,
 And fitted it, head and haft.
 Then I hid me close by the reedy tarn,
 Where the Mammoth came to drink;
 Through brawn and bone I drave the stone,
 And slew him upon the brink.
 Loud I howled through the moonlit wastes,
 Loud answered our kith and kin;
 From west and east to the crimson feast,
 The clan came trooping in.
 O'er joint and gristle, and padded hoof,
 We fought, and clawed, and tore,
 And cheek by jowl, with many a growl,
 We talked the marvel o'er.

I carved that fight on a reindeer bone,
 With rude and hairy hand,
 I pictured his fall on the cavern wall,
 That men might understand.
 For we lived by blood and the right of might,
 Ere human laws were drawn,
 And the age of sin did not begin
 Till our brutal tusks were gone.
 And that was a million years ago,
 In a time that no man knows,
 Yet here tonight, in the mellow light,
 We sit at Delmonico's;
 Your eyes are deep as the Devon springs;
 Your hair is as dark as jet;
 Your years are few, your life is new;
 Your soul untried,—and yet—

Our trail is on the Kimberidge clay,
 And on the scarp of the Purbeck flags;
 We have left our bones in the Bagshot stones
 And deep in the Coraline crags;
 Our love is old, our life is old,
 And death shall come amain.
 Should it come today what man may say
 We shall not meet again.
 God wrought our souls from the Tremadoc beds,
 And furnished them wings to fly;
 He sowed our spawn in the World's dim dawn,
 And I know that it shall not die,
 Though cities have sprung above the graves
 Where the crook-boned men made war,
 And the ox-wain creaks o'er the buried caves,
 Where the mummied Mammoths are.

Then as we linger at luncheon here,
 O'er many a dainty dish;
 Let us drink anew to the time when you
 Were a tadpole, and I was a fish.

—Langdon Smith.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO HALL LIQUOR STORE

GAIN ENTRANCE BY FORCING BACK WINDOW AND LIBERATE THEMSELVES.

Burglars entered the liquor store of H. J. Hall on lower Main street, during an early hour yesterday morning, and helped themselves to the contents of the place. The intruders gained entrance by forcing one of the windows in the rear of the saloon and completely rifled the cash register, also taking a watch and a quantity of cigars. It is not known if they took any case goods. The loss was discovered yesterday morning at 7 o'clock when the place was opened up for business. Chief of Police Malley was immediately notified and had his men on the hunt all day. The loss is estimated to be about $100, but may be more owing to the inability of checking up the stock.

The robbery is thought to have been committed by vagrants on whom a vicious war has been waged for some time by the authorities.
