GERMAN AMBASSADOR DELIVERS ADDRESS BEFORE THE INDUSTRIAL CLUB

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, May 5.—The German ambassador, Count Johann Heinrich von Bernstorff, was the guest of honor at luncheon at the Industrial Club this afternoon and spoke in the interest of the Peace congress. He said:
Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:
Since my arrival in America six months ago it has been my ardent desire to visit this great city and to take a view of its marvellous development of which I had heard so much. It affords me great pleasure, that the Peace congress gave me the opportunity of doing so, all the more, as I was very sorry that my official duties made it impossible for me to come here for the opening of the German art exhibition, which I hope has been a success. We have between Germany and the United States exchange professors, exchange teachers, and we should have also exchange of artists and works of art. Among the forces making for peace and good will between nations one of the foremost is mutual intimate knowledge of their culture. If we are reciprocally truly at home in the spiritual world of our two nations, we will recognize their close interdependence and be filled with the desire to promote their mutual understandings.
We shall this afternoon have ample opportunity of expressing our hopes for peace from our various points of view, I will therefore now only speak a few words to tender to you, Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen, of the Industrial Club, my heartfelt thanks for the kind hospitality you extended to me. Many Americans of German origin have largely helped to make this great city what it is and to draw our two nations closer together in the bonds of friendship. I therefore feel that I am among friends and your splendid reception has increased this feeling.
It is natural that the Industrial Club should take much interest in this Peace congress. Living as we do in the period of industrialism, peace is the greatest interest of industrial nations, as peace is the hand-maid of prosperity. On the other hand, industry promotes the community of nations, because wealth and progress of one country are a source of wealth and progress of all nations.
I must not take up more of your time so I will sit down thanking you once more sincerely for your kind reception.

BELIEF OF PEACE SHOULD BE TAUGHT IN THE SCHOOLS

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, May 5.—Rev. James L. Tryon, secretary of the American Peace society, addressing the second National Peace conference in this city, had for his subject, "Recognition of the peace movement as the greatest of all reforms." He paid particular attention to the London congress of 1908.
"The progress of the peace movement is registered by its international congresses," he said. "The first of these congresses was held in London in 1843, and was the realization of a suggestion made by Joseph Sturge, a member of the Society of Friends in Birmingham, England. Mr. Sturge, while on a visit to Boston, impressed the idea of an international conference of peace workers upon the American Peace society, which, as in the case with the New York and Chicago national congresses, became its imitator, and co-operated to bring it to success. Other international congresses were held at London in 1850, 1890 and 1908.
"Between the first and the last of these congresses the peace movement has become recognized as the greatest reform of the age. The glowing visions of its apostles, once laughed at or treated with disdainful silence, are now embodied in the law of the world. Arbitration, by treaty agreement, as a rational substitute for war, securing justice through an international court always ready to sit in judgment on controversies, this and two Hague conferences, the last of which brought together all the civilized nations, preparing the way for the future parliament of man, is the astounding result of an organization for less than a hundred years."
He summed up at length the recommendations made by the London congress, saying in conclusion: "The congress reaffirmed its old position of previous congresses that peace principles would be taught alike to the pupils of schools and to the college students, that teachers should be associated with peace so-

NEWARK (N. J.), May 5.—Rev. Henry H. Rose, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, and one of the most noted leaders of the Emmanuel movement, has invoked a new order in his church, which, he says, will certainly be followed by other churches throughout the country.
When the hundreds of richly dressed women and prosperous men of his church were seated at the opening of the service Sunday, Mr. Rose asked that all the ladies remove their hats. A majority of them wore the huge peach basket or bee-hive variety of millinery, and for a moment they hesitated.
The pastor did not speak again. The hats came off without exception, and then Mr. Rose said, calmly:
"That's better. I like to see the faces of those to whom I am speaking."
