

INFANT KID HAS LEFT FOR PARTS UNKNOWN

SETTLES HIS CASE FOR $500 AND IMMEDIATELY SKIPS OUT.

The Infant Kid has crept into the limelight once more. Of course everybody knows the Infant Kid who under the name of C. M. Wandell brought suit some months ago against the "66" Club of Rhyolite to recover the sum of $10,856.40, which he averred he had lost gambling while a minor. The suit created a great interest throughout the state and many were the comments heard. The infant secured judgment against the "66" Club for the sum of $2762.50, but pending the appeal of the case no settlement was made.

Now here is where the real fine work of the boy wonder comes in. Some days ago the youthful welcher approached the defendants in the case and stated that he would settle if paid the princely sum of $500. He had evidently become tired of being pointed out a a welcher and desired to migrate to pastures new where he could bury the past. The settlement was effected and the Kid beat it out of the country without even informing his attorneys or the party who advanced the money with which the suit was brought. It is stated on good authority that he even signed a release.

The attorneys for the plaintiff, however, say that the release and settlement will not stand when brought up in court for they had already served notice on the defendant that they had secured a judgment whereby they were entitled to a certain amount of the $2762.50.

In spite of the argument that is being advanced by both sides, it is a known fact that the boy wonder is now spending his time and the $500 in some distant city. To say that southern Nevada is better off by his absence would be putting it in a mild way.

CHIEF MALLEY GETS MORE NEWS ABOUT M'DANN

M'DANN HAS A RECORD QUITE LENGTHY IN CRIMINAL ANNALS.

That the capture of George McDann by Chief of Police Malley resulted in the apprehension of a hardened criminal is becoming more apparent every day. A few weeks ago the Bonanza printed a story of this self-same criminal concerning his confinement in the Iowa state penitentiary. Additional information has been received by the chief of police which would seem to indicate that McDann is one of the really bad men of the country. The letter follows and is self-explanatory: "Mr. Ed Malley, Chief of Police, Tonopah, Nevada:

"Dear Sir—In addition to the information I sent you a few days ago on George McDann, I have the following from Major W. M. McCloughrey, special agent in charge, bureau of identification, Leavenworth, Kansas:

"This man's right name is Harry White, whose home is at Keytesville, Missouri, where he was born and raised. He has a brother named William G. White in the Missouri state penitentiary at Jefferson City, Missouri, serving a thirty-year sentence for murder. Worth, or White, is known as Charles Griffin, alias William Griffin. Worth was the leader of eighteen prisoners who overpowered the guards at the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, and made their escape on June 1, 1898. He is a very dangerous criminal in every way on both inside and outside of the prison walls and should not be trusted for a moment. He is a treacherous and lying scoundrel of the very worst type."

"Major McCloughrey also informs me that this man was returned to the Iowa state penitentiary at Fort Madison to finish his term there after serving his term at Leavenworth on June 29, 1906.

"I would suggest the advisability of calling the attention of as many officers as possible to this man and his record for he is evidently a bad man to be at large.

"From this record there seems no room for doubt that you got the right man for both jobs and it is too bad that he got off so light.

"Yours very truly,
"W. L. COX,
"Superintendent State Police."

REFLECTIONS BY THE DREAMER

A man is never so hungry as when he is broke.

Beer is one of the luxuries of life. Water is a necessity.

A great many dogs are tagless, but mighty few are wagless.

It's always darkest before dawn, they say. Well, a man is always sleepiest before getting up.

If you want to find out a man's true temperment, listen to him when the alarm clock goes off.

"There's many a warm heart under a torn shirt," but mighty few clean faces under a dirty beard.

Dreams are great things. If they all came true a man would be in jail about as often as he was married.

CHRIS, PEANUT BUTCHER TELLS A GOOD STORY

Everybody knows Chris, the peanut butcher. He has stood at the corner of Main street and Brougher avenue for many months dealing out the very best of shell wares. Chris is a past master in the art of banking.

He is not reported to have lost any money in the bank failures of this state, but is wise to the system of getting it out even though the bank is closed. He told a story of a friend of his who had some money in a bank in one of the eastern cities and who induced the cashier to deal it out to him long after the bank had posted the "nothing doing" sign. Chris tells the story in his own words which runs something like this:

"My friend, shes sava the nine hundred plunka. Shes taka to the banka and then goa to work on the sec. By and bye the banka shes closa; my friend shes losa the mon. Shes pretty mad. You be madda too you losa the mon shes worka the harda to get.

"One day shes go to the banka; shes hava the fina the wom and four or five the child. Shes say to the man; what for you no giva to me the mon. Looka the wom, shes hung, the child no gotta the ting to eat.

"Well, you bet he get the mon. Pretty fine. The wom shes no the wife of the man; hes gotta none of the baby. All foolo. Pretty good he getta the coin and go to the olda the country. Pretty slicka the mon dat. You gotta the coin ther you go borrow the woman and child. You getta the mon sure. Buy a peanut. Red hot!"

DENVER PAPER TO ISSUE SPECIAL EDITION

Representative of Mining Record Is Now Visiting Southern Nevada.

J. C. Pool, representing the Denver Mining Record, arrived in this city yesterday and leaves today for the east. The Mining Record is contemplating issuing a special mining congress edition and Mr. Pool is securing the necessary data. After remaining several weeks in Denver he will return to southern Nevada and make his headquarters in Goldfield.

"Have you lost anything?" said the passerby to the man on the porch. "Nothing but the keyhole," was the reply.

It must be great to marry a woman who talks a different language from yours. When she roasts you, you are not able to understand her.

"What would you have been if I hadn't married you," said the wife to the man who had married her for her money. "I wouldn't have been your husband," he answered.

M. T. WEUM WILL VISIT PINE CREEK RANCH

MILWAUKEE BANKER LOOKING AFTER INTERESTS IN THIS SECTION.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Weum of Milwaukee have arrived in Tonopah and will spend several days in this section. Mr. Weum is a prominent banker of Milwaukee and is interested in mining properties in this section. Mr. and Mrs. Weum will leave this morning for the Pine Creek ranch, where they will be the guests of Harry Stimler. At the present time Mr. Stimler is away. He will leave Salt Lake City within a day or two and go to the ranch by way of Austin where he will join the party.

Mr. Weum is an enthusiast so far as southern Nevada is concerned. He believes this section is on the verge of a revival such as it enjoyed some years ago. He is particularly impressed with Tonopah, saying that the camp is entitled to all the praise that has been showered upon it. Upon his return he will inspect the different properties here as well as paying a visit to Ellendale and Georges canyon.

MYSTERY OF TWO LADIES WIGS HAS DEEPENED

MANY RUMORS ARE AFLOAT AS TO THE OWNERSHIP OF PROPERTY.

The mystery deepens and the plot thickens. The identity of the two females who lost their wigs Monday night while enjoying a joy ride to Goldfield, remains unsolved. A number of females telephoned this office yesterday concerning the wigs, but there were none who desired to call and prove that the property belonged to them. The automobile robe is also without a claimant.

The three articles have been marked "Exhibits A, B and C," and if they are not claimed by Saturday will be placed in the window of this office where they may be recognized by passersby and eventually returned to their proper owners.

INFANT DIES.

Monday evening the five-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Trevathan passed away after ailing for several days. The child had been suffering from a summer complaint. The interment will take place at 10 o'clock this morning, the burial to be in the city cemetery. This is the first born of Mr. and Mrs. Trevathan, which makes the loss all the sadder. J. S. Williams, the father of Mrs. Trevathan, was notified at Ellendale of the death and arrived here yesterday.
