THE GRAND FINALE.

There is an old saying that "one drink calls for another," and this is true also in narratives. The story in yesterday morning's Bonanza dealing with conditions that exist relative to defunct banking institutions, caused considerable comment, and many have asked how receiver No. 44 managed the affairs during his term of office. For their enlightenment we will continue and conclude the story.

When the bank's affairs were turned over to receiver No. 44 his first act, as stated, was to ask for the combination of the vault, as he desired living quarters. However, we failed to state that the town in which the bank was located had become deserted and at that time was frequented only by stray bands of Indians.

Houses had fallen into decay and many buildings that at one time rose to a majestic height, resembled only piles and heaps of crumpled stone. In the very center of this waste stood the bank vault, at the doors of which the receiver had pitched his tent. A passing prospector conveyed to him the letter containing the combination, which he had secured at the nearest post-office, many miles distant.

"Silence is golden," mused the receiver as he turned toward the vault and started twisting the rusty knobs, at the same time listening to hear the tumblers drop, "and for many years the secrets that lie behind this door have been carefully guarded. Now I shall make known to the state board of bank directors the true conditions and probably the depositors will receive dollar for dollar."

No. 44 meant well but he reckoned without his host. As he neared the last of the mysterious numbers which would unlock the door, a horseman on the hurricane deck of a steed covered with foam, dashed up at breakneck speed. He had traveled many miles, and his appearance denoted a person bearing news on which depended life and death.

"Stay!" shouted the stranger, at the same time disclosing a silver star which he wore on the lapel of his vest. "You are hereby ordered to desist in your investigations by order of the umph district court. The honorable judge who appointed you had no authority to butt in. Observe, I hand you herewith a writ of prohibition and as an officer of the law order you to appear before the honorable court of the umph judicial district, if you wish to discuss the matter."

And that, dear reader, concludes the efforts of the court to obtain an accounting from one of the defunct institutions in the west. Pardon the negligence, but we forgot to state that No. 44's term of office hapened in 1953 and when he was ousted he went to work—well, it doesn't matter where he went to work, but after that he was never the same.

WILL NOT MOVE DESERT MILL TO TONOPAH

PRESIDENT AUSTIN, OF TONOPAH MINING, DENIES THE RUMOR YESTERDAY

J. S. Austin, president of the Tonopah Mining company, arrived yesterday from Wonder, where he has been looking after mining interests. He was accompanied by C. A. Daniels, a director, who resides in Philadelphia. This is one of the semi-annual visits of Mr. Austin, and he contemplates remaining in Tonopah for at least a week. During this period he will spend considerable of his time examining the underground workings of the big company, as has been his habit during his past visits.

When asked yesterday concerning the rumor relative to removing the Desert mill from Millers to this city, Mr. Austin stated that this was the first information he had received concerning the plan.

"There is no truth in the report," stated Mr. Austin, "for the matter has never been discussed by the directors."

Both Mr. Austin and Mr. Daniels will accompany President Cutter, of the Tonopah and Goldfield railroad, on a trip of inspection over the line of the company some time during the coming week.

SANCTUARY SOCIETY TO GIVE DANCE

The ladies of the Sanctuary society are making preparations for the dance which will be given in the Miners' Exchange hall on the evening of October 29. Judging from the success of the past affairs given by this society, the one coming up should afford a pleasant evening's enjoyment to all who attend. The tickets have been placed on sale at the leading business houses.

SAN FRANCISCO STOCK BOARD WILL KEEP OPEN HOUSE DURING CARNIVAL

That the efforts of Tonopah in entertaining the visiting members of the San Francisco stock exchange, on their recent visit to this city, were appreciated, is shown by the following letter received yesterday by R. P. Dunlap of this city. The letter is signed by E. Epstein, secretary of the stock exchange board: "San Francisco, Oct. 14, '09. "Mr. R. P. Dunlap, "Tonopah, Nevada.

"Dear Sir:—We have provided a headquarters in the old Stock Exchange building, adjoining the present board room, for the people of Nevada who contemplate visiting this city during the coming Portola Festival, and we would esteem it a favor if you would make this known through the Tonopah Bonanza or such other channels as may suggest themselves to you.

"We know that this occasion will be one long to be remembered in the history of our city, and to those of your good people who may come this way, we extend a most hearty welcome and trust that they will not fail to call upon us.

"Thanking you in advance for your courtesy, I am,

"Very truly yours,
"E. EPSTEIN,
"Secretary."

TAFT AND DIAZ SHAKE HANDS

for weeks and days; $50,000 alone has been spent rebuilding the Juarez custom house as a reception room and banquet hall for the meeting of the two presidents; a large sum was spent in the erection of the Grecian columns down the side of the streets that the two presidents were to traverse; streets were paved, sidewalks were laid and finally seven florists from Mexico City, using up a carload of flowers, put on the last decorations a few minutes before the presidential special train rolled into the station and the president arrived.

President Diaz on his present visit, while he is not making his capitol in the same gilding occupied by Juarez, was a visitor to the old adobe structure on Commercial street today and in fact, in company with President Taft, he addressed the people of the border in front of the one time capitol. The building has been remodeled now and has a new front of brick. Inside, the mails to and from the United States are distributed and worked, for it is the postoffice of Ciudad Juarez. In front is the same old cathedral of Guadalupe that stood there when Benito Juarez rose each morning and went to mass; the same old cathedral that was erected in 1549 by the friars in their march northward on their mission for the cross, as substantial and imposing today as when erected by those master builders over three and one-half centuries ago. This building was also the object of the visit today of General Diaz and President Taft.
